

Strange Philosophizing.

It is strange, in deed, if the friends of Mr. Berry dare not present his claims, his strength, his fitness to become the Democratic nominee for governor!

Everybody knows that there are not now, nor were there in 1905, 546,892 Democratic voters in Pennsylvania.

If the opposition to Mr. Berry, in his own party, were one-tenth as honest in their purpose as his friends, he would be nominated with a hurrah, and elected by a fair majority.

The little two-year-old daughter of Mrs. William Fleisher, at Yeagerstown, narrowly escaped death a few days ago. GEORGE DALE.

After a long and useful life George Dale passed away at the home of his son, Willard, at Dale Summit, Sunday morning. He had been in delicate health for some months, during which time his family felt that there was no chance for recovery.

About fifty-four years ago Mr. Dale was married to Miss Mosser, who died two years ago on the first Saturday in May. They lived continuously on the Dale homestead until the death of Mrs. Dale, and the husband then remained there until a few months ago when his enfeebled condition made it necessary to remove him to the home of his son as noted above.

During his entire life Mr. Dale followed the pursuit of agriculture, and as an agriculturist he was highly successful. He was not only interested in agriculture for personal profit, but devoted much of his time in advancing the condition of those engaged in that pursuit by promoting the Order of Patrons of Husbandry—the one order that has done so much for the agricultural class.

George Dale was a descendant of Christian Dale (1) the progenitor of the Dale family in Centre county, who came to this country, arriving in Philadelphia as early as 1749. In 1775 the elder Dale located at Lewisburg. It was in 1799 that he moved to the end of Nittany Mountain, and six years thereafter built a grist mill.

Christian Dale (3) was the father of the subject of this sketch, and was born August 1, 1831. He died at his home near Oak Hall, November 7th, 1885. The children born to Christian Dale (3) and Hannah Shoemaker, are these: Susan, married to John Musser, of near Fillmore; Henry, deceased; George; William J., of Pine Grove Mills; Christian deceased; Solomon, lost at the battle of Spottsylvania Court House; Mary C.; Catharine, married John Musser, Jr., of Pine Grove Mills; Philip, S., of Oak Hall; Martin L. and Margaret L., twins, deceased. By a second marriage, this time to Eliza Neff, there were born: Austin W., of Oak Hall, who lives on the old homestead; Alfred A., attorney in Bellefonte; and Clement, also an attorney in Bellefonte.

Wednesday evening of last week G. Hunter Knisely died at his home in Bellefonte, aged seventy-three years, six months. He was born in Buffalo Run Valley. He was a veteran of the Civil War.

Surviving him are his wife, who prior to her marriage was Miss Nancy J. Shultz, and the following children: Mrs. John Meyers, of Pleasant Gap; John, George and Jacob, of Bellefonte; Andrew, of State College, and Mrs. Jacob Wayne, of Reading.

W. Harvey Mann died Thursday evening of last week after a prolonged illness due to paralysis, aged forty-two years, at the home of his father-in-law, Mrs. S. H. Pletcher in Howard. His death was a shock to the community as he had been out on the street the same day. He is survived by his wife and parents. His body was taken to his home at Beech Creek, from which place the funeral was held Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Sarah Greist died at her home in Unionville, aged about seventy-three years, Thursday of last week. She was the widow of the late A. J. Greist, and had been in delicate health for some months. She was a native of Union county, her maiden name being Cathaman, but she had lived at Unionville for about fifty years. Five children survive.

Hazel the eleven months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bond Musser, died in Millheim. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. W. J. Dior, and interment was made in the Union cemetery.

Probably the most luxurious growth of clover to be found anywhere in this section is located near the farm barn of William Bradford, at Old Fort. The clover is being used for soiling.
