

LETTERS FROM SUBSCRIBERS.

With your permission I will reply, as per request to letter in a recent issue of your esteemed and much appreciated publication. We are always anxiously awaiting its arrival in our home, as it brings us much information about our loved home town and our old time friends and acquaintances.

I was somewhat impressed by the description given by our Maryland friend concerning his first examination for school teacher's certificate. I am not at all surprised that he got [1] in spelling. It was my pleasure to attend the home school with your correspondent from Maryland, and as I remember he and I monopolized the head marks. One evening he and the next (myself) had a spelling combat, neither being able to trap the other. Then too I considered myself a "Loop-er," as I taught five consecutive terms of school in what was called the Loop school house. I had a number of varied experiences during my sojourn in the "Loop."

One as I recall it: A visit to the writer's home; his mother and I being good friends, as well as he, and also that there was an abundance of peaches on the place. Well, as we were along the foot of the mountain, fairly reveling in the luscious fruit, the mother having gone to the house to get supper. I was going from one tree to the other in quest of the best, when suddenly he called, "beware of Mr. Treaster!" I want to tell you it didn't take me long to get to the house. And Mr. Al. got a good scolding from father and mother. In explanation: Mr. Treaster had formerly owned the land, and being very eccentric, had requested to be buried on the farm, and I being near the grave called forth the exclamation from my friend.

I also taught at Pine Stump, however, a long time after Mr. Kerlin's experience as teacher, and therefore did not know the parties he mentioned in his letter, excepting G. W. and David Fortney, also Elias Garver.

By the way, the latter is now an honorable and influential citizen of Grant City, Mo., publisher of the Worth County Times, and has held office by election and appointment.

Human Life occupies a niche peculiarly its own in the literary temple of fame because it is the only magazine which deals exclusively with stories about living people. In some issue throughout the year will be found the fresh and fascinating life story of every man and woman who is helping to make present-day American history, together with numerous shorter sketches of clever and interesting people who are doing things out of the ordinary.

The Millinburg Telegraph has this to say: "William Roseman met with a bad accident on Tuesday evening. He was among those from this place who were spending the evening at Milton Park, and while at Lewisburg, in company with several others from this place, were in the Social Club House in Lewisburg, while one of the party was opening a bottle of imported gingerale it exploded in his hand, and Mr. Roseman who was sitting quite a distance from him was hit by a piece of the broken bottle above the right eye. Dr. Ralph Steans was immediately summoned to the club house and dressed his eye, which necessitated several stitches." Mr. Roseman is a son of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Roseman, of Spring Mills, and is an assistant in the railroad station at Millinburg.

DEATHS.

Mrs. Margaret Miller whose death was mentioned in last week's issue, was born in Buffalo township, Union county, Jan. 9th, 1832, and departed this life June 20th, making her age seventy-eight years, five months and nine days. She was sick one week with congestion of the liver. Her maiden name was Shoemaker. On January 29th, 1852, she was married to Peter Pontius Reish. After spending a few years in Union county they moved to Centre county on a farm near State College, from there to the farm now owned by Mrs. Daniel Hess, at Linden Hall, where her husband died in August, 1866.

After his death Mrs. Reish with her family of six children moved to Boalsburg. After several years she went to live at the Branch, where she was married to W. H. Miller in 1870. In the spring of 1881, Mr. Miller purchased the Riley home, just west of Boalsburg. After living there for nine years he retired from active farm life and moved to Boalsburg. Mr. Miller died August 24th, 1902.

Mrs. Miller was the mother of seven children, the oldest daughter Minerva, died while they were living at the Branch. Those who survive are Kleckner Reish, Mrs. Ellen Calvert, and Mrs. Elizabeth McGarvey, of Altoona; Jacob Reish, of Rock Springs, and Mary Reish and Nora B. Miller, at home. Her stepchildren living are J. W. Miller, Boalsburg, and Mrs. Andrew Lytle, State College. She had twelve grandchildren, and one great-grandchild. A half sister, Mrs. Mary Shrader, of Illinois, and a half brother, George Sheasley, of Flemington, also survive.

She was laid to rest in the cemetery at Boalsburg, on Friday morning. Funeral services were held in the Reformed church, conducted by her pastor, Rev. A. A. Black, assisted by Rev. J. I. Stonecypher, of the Lutheran church.

Mrs. Margaret Krider, wife of George Krider, died at her home in Altoona, aged seventy-three years. She was born in Curwensville, and was married in Pine Grove Mills to George Krider, then of Gatesburg. For a number of years they farmed in Ferguson township, and from there moved to a farm in Sinking Valley, and on retiring, located in Altoona.

In addition to her husband she is survived by the following children: Mrs. Andrew Geist, of near Frankstown, formerly of Altoona; Miss Emma Krider, at home; John B. Altoona; George H. Krider, East Altoona, and J. E. Krider and Mrs. John S. Fleck, both of Sinking Valley; also a half brother, Marshall Lewis, of Kylertown, and two sisters—Mrs. Hannah Williams and Mrs. Medora Marks, both of Port Matilda.

John Miller, an aged resident of Logan Mills, in Sugar Valley, left his home on horseback Wednesday morning of last week to go fishing and started to return home at noon. When near the grist mill he suddenly fell off the horse and when picked up was dead. There were no marks or bruises on his head or body and it is supposed he was suddenly stricken with heart disease or apoplexy. He was aged seventy-two years. The funeral took place in the United Evangelical church at Greenburr.

Levi Long, an aged resident of Sugar Valley, died Wednesday night of last week of old age at the home of his son-in-law, J. H. Showers, near Greenburr. He was aged eighty-two years. Funeral services were conducted Saturday by Rev. J. H. Rosenberger, and the remains were taken to Madisonburg for burial.

A spill broke from a steel cutter and shot clear through the nose of Homer Jordan, employed in the Lewistown steel works, and he bled almost to death.
