PILES

"I have suffered with piles for thirty six years. One year ago last April I began taking Cascarets for constipation. In the course of a week I noticed the piles began to disappear and at the end of six weeks they did not trouble me at all. Cascarets have done wonders for me. I am entirely cured and feel like a new man." George Kryder, Napoleon, O.

LACK OF MONEY Was a Godsend in This Case.

It is not always that a lack of money is a benefit.

A lady of Green Forest, Ark., owes her health to the fact that she could not pay in advance the fee demanded by a specialist to treat her for stomach trouble. In telling of her case she says:

"I had been treated by four different physicians during 10 years of stomach trouble. Lately I called on another who told me he could not cure me; that I had neuralgia of the stomach. Then I went to a specialist who told me I had catarrh of the stomach and said he could cure me in four months but would have to have his money down. I could not raise the necessary sum and in my extremity I was led to quit coffee and try Postum.

"So I stopped coffee and gave Postum a thorough trial and the results have been magical. I now sleep well at night, something I had not done for a long time; the pain in my stomach is gone and I am a different woman.

"I dreaded to quit coffee, because every time I had tried to stop it I suffered from severe headaches, so I continued to drink it although I had reason to believe it was injurious to me, and was the cause of my stomach trouble and extreme nervousness. But when I had Postum to shift to it was different.

"To my surprise I did not miss coffee when I began to drink Postum.

"Coffee had been steadily and surely killing me and I didn't fully realize what was doing it until I quit and changed to Postum."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

HORTICULTURE

APPLES PACKED FOR MARKET

Every Individual Piece of Fruit Should Be Carefully Laid in Box or Barrel.

Never ship bruised fruit, because every bruise means quick decay and rotting fruit never brings its cost on the market. Some growers harvest their fruit by shaking it onto the ground on beds of straw placed around the trees or knocking it off with poles and clubs. Fruit gathered in this way is almost worthless.

Fruit should be picked in bags or baskets slung around the picker's neck in order that he may use both hands and every individual fruit should be laid, not thrown, into the receptacle. Growers of fine oranges have learned that even the slight abrasions made by the picker's finger nails will cause decay, and in many orchards the pickers are provided with gloves to prevent injury of this kind.

Next to proper picking comes grading, and many growers consider this the most important operation in preparing fruit and vegetables for market. This work can best be started in the field with the growing of the crop. Careful cultivation means fewer culls and less expense for sorting and grading.

Usually fruits and vegetables are divided into three grades. "First" or "Primes," "Seconds," and "Culls." "First" must be uniform in size, color and shape, of an even degree of ripeness, and free from insect injuries, bruises and all other defects. "Seconds" must be good, fairly uniform specimens, not noticeably marked by insects or other damage. "Culls" are those specimens which are left.

Each package should be filled with the same grade throughout. If this is done the top layer may be faced by arranging one to three layers of fruit to increase the attractiveness of the package. This is honest and perfectly legitimate, provided the entire contents are of the same grade as those placed on top.

Fall and winter apples for the local market may be allowed to fully ripen but should be picked before the following process begins. Summer, fall, and winter varieties for long distance shipment or storage should be gathered as soon as fully grown, and colored. The fruit should be allowed to become thoroughly cool before shipment. If packed in barrels or boxes in the orchard, they should be kept in a cool shed for a day or two before being put into cars, and no fruit should be shipped in carload lots or kept in refrigerator cars.

To show the importance of the proper grading and packing of fruit it may be mentioned that some apples sold on the New York market for four dollars per barrel, while apples from the same orchard at the same time sold at four dollars per box. The former were ungraded, while the latter were graded, wrapped and well packed.

Most of the fancy fruit from the western states sold on the eastern markets is wrapped in paper and packed in boxes. Apples of this kind frequently sell on the Chicago, New York and other big markets at five cents each, while if they were packed indiscriminately in barrels they would not bring one-third of that sum.

The Crimson Rambler.

Cutting is the best means of propagation for the Crimson Rambler. Under glass, short cuttings two or three inches long can be made in November and December, from wood of the current year's growth. They should be planted in sand, in flats or pans and kept in a cool place.

They root in February or March and can be either potted in thumb pots or kept on in flats until May or June, when they should be planted out in rich beds.

BEAUTIFY AND ARE USEFUL

Vines Shade From Hot Sun, Hide Old Obnoxious Features, and Encourage Birds to Nest.

(By JOSEPHINE DE MARR.)

When in doubt as to what to plant, vines, in sound advice. Vines beautify, they are useful, they are easy to grow. They shade from the hot sun; they hide old, or obnoxious features; they encourage the birds to nest about the house; they are the drapery nature throws over and about with a lavish hand to soften and embellish.

When preparing to plant vines, be sure to spade deeply, manure heavily, and prepare the soil carefully. After perennial or hardy vines are established, it is difficult to cultivate them, therefore, do all you can before planting them. When they begin to "spin," they must have support, otherwise they will be stunted in growth and unsatisfactory.

There are so many beautiful vines among annuals, perennials and hardy vines that it is hard to decide, if the choice is at all restricted. If you wish to blot out an old building, cover it with vines. If you dislike the necessary fence, turn it into a thing of beauty by planting vines along its length.

A dead tree renews its youth if vines are allowed to clothe its branches. Let vines shade the porch and thus make it a cool and leafy retreat from the summer's sun. Certain the shutterless south window with vines and let them grow about the home wherever possible.

The back fence may be hidden by vines and the sides of a steep terrace or bank may be transformed into a thing of beauty by planting trailers along the top.

PEARS PICKED BEFORE RIPE

They Should Be Carefully Laid in Baskets, Sorted into Grades, and Shipped to Market.

Pears should always be picked carefully before fully ripe, without bruising, with the stems on. They should be laid carefully in the picking baskets, which should hold half a bushel or so, and then be hauled to the packing house or other convenient place and either packed or shipped or placed in ripening house for future shipment. It is usually better, in most cases, especially with summer fruit, to pick the trees over two or three times although this is not absolutely necessary, and unless the trees are overloaded may not be worth while. When the fruit has not been properly thinned and the trees are overloaded many growers begin to pack the fruit long before it is full grown and send it to market. By this means the trees are not only relieved, somewhat, but the fruit that is left swells to the largest possible bulk; moreover, satisfactory returns are often secured from the early pickings. This method is particularly successful with Clapp's Favorite and Bartlett. Both of these varieties will ripen up tolerably well when they are not much more than half grown. The same principle is successfully used in handling Le Conte and Kieffer pears, but these should be nearer maturity to be good.

HORTICULTURAL NOTES

Stone fruits, such as the cherry, peach and plum require but little pruning.

Hogs are certainly preferable in the orchard to a blue grass sod around the trees.

To make chrysanthemums bushy and compact, pinch the branches back from time to time.

Geranium cuttings should "callous" over and take root within three weeks or a month.

One of the most pernicious enemies with which the plum tree has to contend is the plum curculio.

All shrubs that have done blooming should be pruned at once. This induces blooming buds and branches for next year's crop.

Do not work the soil deeply about plants that root close to the surface; merely break the crust with the claw-rake, or with the fingers.

Arsenate of lead should always be used instead of Paris green on stone fruits, because there is very little danger of burning the foliage.

Go over the berry plantations every week to pinch back the new shoots that are coming up to make the fruiting wood for the next year.

Re-trim the sod edging of borders; all gravel or loose walks allowing a growth of weeds should be well soaked with strong brine, and hand weeded.

The garden strawberry is an American product. It adapts itself to a wider range of latitude and to greater extremes in environment than any other cultivated fruit.

OF COURSE.

IN AGONY WITH ECZEMA

"No tongue can tell how I suffered for five years with itching and bleeding eczema, until I was cured by the Cuticura Remedies, and I am so grateful I want the world to know, for what helped me will help others. My body and face were covered with sores. One day it would seem to be better, and then break out again with the most terrible pain and itching. I have been sick several times, but never in my life did I experience such awful suffering as with this eczema. I had made up my mind that death was near at hand, and I longed for that time when I would be at rest. I had tried many different doctors and medicines without success, and my mother brought me the Cuticura Remedies, insisting that I try them. I began to feel better after the first bath with Cuticura Soap, and one application of Cuticura Ointment.

"I continued with the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, and have taken four bottles of Cuticura Resolvent, and consider myself well. This was nine years ago and I have had no return of the trouble since. Any person having any doubt about this wonderful cure by the Cuticura Remedies can write to my address. Mrs. Altie Elson, 93 Inn Road, Battle Creek, Mich., Oct. 16, 1909."

Little, but Oh, My!

Senator Smoot of Utah tells a story on the late E. H. Harriman, which sounds somewhat familiar. He says that when the Salt Lake cut-off was completed Mr. Harriman took a large party of big railroad men out to it.

They had their pictures taken at the right spot scenically. Mr. Harriman stood at one end of the group. When the pictures were printed and the photographer brought them around the railroad men examined them.

"Why," shouted one of the guests, "where's Mr. Harriman?"

"Do you mean that little chap that stood at the end?" asked the photographer. "Why, I cut him off."

Not to Overdo It.

Lily—I've given to a surprise party tonight, Miss Sally.

Miss Sally—What will you take for a present?

Lily—Well, we didn't calculate on takin' no present. Yo' see, we don't want to 'surprise' 'em too much.
