

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES

Standard Bearer of Party in Pennsylvania of Highest Type.

[From the Philadelphia Record.]
While the issue in Maine was national, the personal element, of course, had some influence, and the Democrats owe a part of their success to the popularity and the high character and the established worth of their candidate for governor. He had been four times elected mayor of Augusta and in that office he had become known to the people of the state. He had given as good evidence as can be given in advance of his qualifications for a higher administrative office. The Democrats nominated an excellent man and won, as they deserved to.

The Connecticut Democrats have nominated a man of national reputation as a jurist, a man whose character does not have to be vouched for and one who had no occasion to spend a large sum of money to secure delegates to the convention. In Ohio the Democrats nominated the incumbent, who was elected two years ago, when the state's electoral vote was given to Mr. Taft. Greater evidence of popularity could not be given and it is universally admitted—except by Mr. Roosevelt—that Governor Harmon's administration has been clean and strong. Republicans are hardly behind Democrats in recognizing the efficiency of the present governor. In New Jersey the Democrats have nominated a man new in the political arena, but not new in public affairs. He is the president of a university; he has given evidence of a broad and thorough comprehension of the relations of the state to the Federal government and of the public to the trusts. In these three states also the Democrats have nominated men of the highest standing and deserve, and we believe, they will achieve success.

In Pennsylvania the Democrats have nominated a man who has been elected to the state senate by a Republican county. His popularity and the respect of the community for him are amply proven. His speech accepting his nomination showed his complete understanding of the needs of the state. His character is of the highest. The convention that nominated him was free from the dictation of any houses, while the Harrisburg convention, Republicans admit, was thoroughly dominated by Senator Penrose as a factory is by its owner. Senator Grim ought to be and can be elected.

THE G. O. P. UP AGAINST IT

Henry Watterson's Idea of Impending Political Conditions.

[From the Louisville Courier-Journal.]

It does look as though the grand old party "is up against it." If Theodore Roosevelt be not a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in 1912, there is nothing in outer signs and tokens that he is a practical politician of the first order will be readily allowed; to his great popularity the circumstances of his western journey fully attest; but just how he expects to "make the landing" two years hence we confess we are unable to divine. The evil conditions which the colonel exorcises have sprung up under the hand and rule of the Republican party. Every word he utters is an arraignment of that party. The more salient of the abuses which draw his fire have come into being within the life of the present Republican administration. There can be no escape for the Republicans short of setting Taft aside and of placing Roosevelt again in command. In short and fine, we do not believe he can catch the Republican ferry boat, even with two jumps, but if he should, it is our opinion that he and those who rally about him with such unthinking enthusiasm would sink her before she could get across the stream of Republican sentiment.

Hon. A. Mitchell Palmer, vice chairman of the national Democratic congressional committee, expresses a hopeful view of the Democratic prospects for electing congressmen in this state. He says we will get twelve seats certain out of the thirty-two and probably thirteen. He is hopeful but not extravagant in that statement. The chances are more than even that James A. Wakefield will occupy the seat of John Dalzell in the next congress, Curtis H. Gregg that of George F. Huff and John B. Brooks, of Erie, that of Arthur L. Bates. In other words, the Democrats are more than likely to split the delegation even, numerically speaking, and with Dalzell out we will have outclassed a thousand miles intellectually.

Thomas H. Greevy, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, is certainly making good. When his friends asked that the honor be bestowed upon him they assured the members of the executive committee that he would strengthen the ticket and prove a helpful campaigner. He has been on the strenuous tour of the state with Senator Grim and his speeches on the tariff indicate not only a thorough understanding of the subject, but a measure of eloquence in expressing his views that brings to mind the memory of the days of brilliant oratory.

Mrs. Bellamy Storer has again reminded Colonel Roosevelt that she is still alive and produced some additional and hitherto unpublished evidence that he is a prevaricator. But that gets her nothing now. Anybody who hasn't found out before this that Roosevelt has Ananias skinned a mile, neither reads, thinks nor understands.

Merely a Campaign Promise.
Now a reciprocity treaty with Canada is proposed and will continue to be proposed until the campaign is over.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

TARIFF TAX ON PRIMARY EDUCATION

Willie and Ethelinda Pay Tribute to Trusts and School Facilities.

Little Willie, Jr., and Ethelinda start off to school.

On their blank books they paid a tariff of 25 per cent.

On their pencils they also paid 25 per cent tariff tax and in addition 1-3 of a cent each as a specific duty.

The pride of little Willie, Jr.'s heart is one of those combination pencil, eraser, penholder and stamp arrangements that he had saved out of his firecracker money. On this he paid 40 per cent tariff tax.

Ethelinda's pride was a little fountain pen for which she had foregone a new doll's cape. On this she paid 30 per cent tariff tax.

On the penholders they paid 25 per cent tariff tax.

The chamol-skin penwiper was taxed 50 per cent.

The sponge rubber 40 per cent.

For the penknife each had they paid 40 per cent, and then in addition 50 cents of tariff tax apiece upon each knife.

On the little school boxes in which they kept the above in orderly arrangement the tariff tax was 55 per cent.

Willie, Jr., had a little school slate-book for temporary memoranda tariff-taxed 25 per cent.

Ethelinda has a school bag of fibre for her school books taxed by the tariff 45 per cent.

Willie, Jr., used a simple strap that is protected by a tariff tax of 40 per cent.

The little girl has a bottle of ink for her fountain pen, taxed by the tariff 25 per cent.

Her mother has a pocket comb of cheap horn for use in the touseled emergencies after recess, 50 per cent tariff taxed.

He paid a tariff tax of 35 per cent on his marbles.

She paid a tariff tax of 35 per cent on her dollies.

Between them they have a cheap school umbrella, and mother has paid a tariff tax of 50 per cent on that.

If Willie, Jr., has to wear glasses this fall father will get them and he will pay a tariff tax of 50 per cent on them.

In getting ready for school that morning they had washed with soap tariff taxed 20 per cent, dried their clothes on towels tariff taxed 45 per cent, polished their shoes with polish tariff taxed 25 per cent, and brushed their teeth and hair with brushes tariff taxed 40 per cent.

And when they do waste their little allowance once in a while with a riotous candy fest, the tariff taxes them 1/2 of a cent an ounce and adds to that 1/2 per cent additional tax. This is on cheap candy; if it is a safer, purer and better product the tariff taxes the youngsters 50 per cent.

New York's Former Governor Warns of Public Danger

Former Governor David B. Hill returned to his old home in Elmira the other day to spend a week with his friends, for the first time in four years, and spoke at the Chemung county fair grounds in the afternoon to a large audience. In part he said:

"One of the dangers that confront the country today is the already increased and still increasing expenditures of government in nation and state. Good old-fashioned economy seems to have been abandoned, and wild schemes of every character are being substituted in its stead. The extent to which official salaries have been increased in both state and nation is appalling, and the end is not yet. The country cannot long stand such reckless legislation and, in my opinion, it is high time to call a halt."

He then criticized severely the methods of "indirect taxation," saying it makes no difference in the result so long as the money comes out of pockets, and he pointed out that the expense of the state government for the fiscal year was $64,494,429.69, while, under his administration, the heaviest expenses were a little over $14,000,000 a year.

Same Cause in Pennsylvania.

[From the Philadelphia Record.]
As a rule Republican journals throughout the country seek to lessen the national importance of the Democratic victory in Maine by assuring their readers that it was won solely upon state issues. Even if true there is not much comfort to be obtained from this explanation. Take, for example, the condition of affairs in Pennsylvania where the corruption and waste in every department of the public service are ten times more flagrant than in Maine. Why should not like political depravity bring about like popular rebuke without reference to locality? Whatever may have been the cause of the Maine overturn the Democratic gain of a United States senator and two representatives in congress is a result of nation wide significance.

Grim the Alternate of Reform.

A strong Democratic party is infinitely more to be relied on as a check upon the Republican machine than an occasional spasm of third-partyism. Persons who realize the necessity of checking the ravages of the Penrose machine have no rational choice, therefore, except to vote for Grim, who has proved his ability and integrity in public affairs for the past eight years, and whose nomination came to him honestly, as the voluntary act of the members of the Allentown convention and not by the dictation of any boss. Berry, of course, cannot be elected. Voting for him is merely voting into the air. Grim can be elected if the dissatisfied Republicans will join the Democrats for the sake of redeeming the state.—Philadelphia Record.

CURES CANCER BY BREWING.

Growths Subjected to a Temperature of 100 Degrees Below Zero.

At a convention of homeopathic doctors, in Williamsport, last week, Dr. Ralph Bernstein, of Philadelphia, gave a practical demonstration of removing cancer by freezing, in other words by solidified carbon-dioxide. The cancerous growths are subjected to a temperature of one hundred and fifty degrees below zero.

When Dr. Bernstein's demonstration came off the first two patients that presented themselves for treatment were a man and a woman. The former was suffering from a cancer on the back of the hand. The latter from a malignant growth on the nose. The symmetry of the organ was partly destroyed. The man went on the stage first. Prior to the demonstration Dr. Bernstein drew a quantity of carbon dioxide from a steel tube. It came in the form of snow, intensely cold and white. It was handed about among the doctors, who touched it gingerly.

Then came the demonstration. Another portion of the snow was drawn from the steel tube and the cylinder of frozen chemical applied to the cancer on the man's hand. He said that he felt nothing. The treatment lasted about a minute, maybe a little more. At the end of that time the surface of the cancer was white as the solidified chemical.

The treatment of the woman's ailment followed. Apparently she felt no pain. The white, frigid substance was applied to her face about the same length of time that was consumed with the man. During the demonstration the doctors crowded close to the stage and watched the treatment with almost breathless interest.

According to Dr. Bernstein, carbon-dioxide used in its modified form immediately freezes the cancerous tissues, causing the part to dry up, and it is then taken care of by nature and quickly absorbed. This process seems to have the faculty of permitting the skin to regenerate itself, so that scarring is usually absent. The process of procedure is practically painless, and Dr. Bernstein asserts that he has had no failures in the hundreds of cases which he has treated.

Dr. Bernstein further cautioned against the use of caustics, cancer plasters, acids, etc., because of the fact that they do not thoroughly destroy the cancerous tissue, or germ if it exists, and have a tendency to stimulate the deeper cells to renewed growth and activity.

Although a young man Dr. Bernstein has achieved eminence as a specialist in skin diseases. He is dermatologist to the J. Lewis Crezer hospital for incurables at Chester, dermatologist to the West Philadelphia General hospital and dispensary, the Hahnemann hospital dispensary and a string of other institutions. In addition he is a member of the Philadelphia Academy of Medicine.

Union Anti-Saloon League Meeting.

A union Anti-Saloon League meeting will be held in the United Evangelical church, at Linden Hall Sunday afternoon, at 2:30, at which time W. J. Swigart, one of the professors of Juniata College, will speak. The pastor, Rev. S. A. Snyder will be present, and neighboring pastors have been invited to participate.

Transfers of Real Estate.

W. P. Humes et al to Keystone Real Estate & Improvement Co., March 28, 1910, in State College, $650.

J. B. Irish et al to John Beresh, July 8, 1910, in Rush twp., $30.

Anna McLaughlin adms to M. F. Hazel, September 14, 1910, in Bellefonte, $700.

W. L. Foster et al to Carl W. Larsoe, September 12, 1910, in State College, $375.

Mary Dunkle to D. A. Detrick, March 1, 1883, in Walker twp., $900.

S. L. Stonebraker et ux to Christian Cowher, August 1, 1910, in Rush twp., $900.

W. E. Hurley, sheriff to W. H. Wyman, August 22, 1910, in Boggs twp., $15.

Mary A. Holt to W. W. Fray, September 2, 1910, in Phillipsburg, $2500.

Susan Comfort et bar to J. B. Heberling, July 18, 1910, in State College, $55.

Last fall farmers could have had from fifty to seventy-five cents for their potatoes right from the field, but many refused this price and held them for an advance. This spring the price was at no time above fifty cents, and later the tubers could not be sold at any figure. This fall the potato growers are taking advantage of the very fair price, selling the crop as rapidly as the potatoes can be lifted.

Uncle Dave "Holcomb" will appear at German Opera House Wednesday and Thursday evening, October 5 and 6. This will be on the evenings of the two big fair days.

DEATHS.

Just at the beginning of active life, when motherhood had been attained, and all conditions for a happy life were presenting themselves, Mrs. Waldo Homan died at her home at Oak Hall Station, Thursday evening of last week, from an affection of the heart, leaving a baby four weeks old. Interment was made Monday, at Pine Hall, Rev. J. L. Stonecypher, of Boalsburg, and Rev. S. J. Skulz, of Pine Grove Mills, officiating.

Mrs. Homan was the daughter of David Krebs, aged nineteen years and six months. Her marriage to Mr. Homan took place about one year ago, and it was just four weeks prior to her death that they began housekeeping on the Homan farm. The young mother was getting along nicely until Saturday evening before her death, when she complained somewhat, and in a few days death claimed her.

Besides the little babe and the husband, there survive the parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Krebs, of Pine Grove Mills, and two small brothers.

Mrs. William A. Jacobs died at her home in Clarence after several months' illness as the result of her advanced age. She was born in January, 1826, hence was eighty-four years and six months old. Her maiden name was Jane Watson and she was twice married. Her first husband was Nelson Lucas and her second, William A. Jacobs. The latter survives with the following children to her first husband: Mrs. Lucy Campbell, of Austin; Alfred Lucas, of Williamsport; Edward, of Clarence, and Lida, at home. She also leaves one sister, Mrs. Martha Haines, of State College.

Blanchard Zimmerman died at the home of his mother, Mrs. Ruth Malone, of Beech Creek. He was forty-five years old and unmarried. He had been a sufferer with tuberculosis the past ten years, two years of which time he spent in Oregon in the quest of health, but returned last spring without having received any benefit.

Mary Lucie, the nine month's old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Houser, died Wednesday morning of last week. The child had been ill for many weeks and its death is the third in this young couple's brief married life.

LOCALS

Next week is fair week; also court week, which ought to make Bellefonte the liveliest town in the county.

The jurors from Centre Hall who are attending court this week are Rev. Daniel Gross, B. D. Briabin, and W. C. Boozer.

Capt. James Davis, of Huron, South Dakota, who came east to attend a gathering at Allentown, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Potter, in Centre Hall.

George E. Breen, of Centre Hall, advertises the Reed separator. He has taken the agency for the machines, and is making an effort to put them out among those who need that kind of machinery.

One of the extensive poultrymen in Penn township is J. S. Meyer, below Penn Hall, who makes Barred Plymouth Rocks, S. C. Buff Leghorns and White Wyandottes a specialty. His exhibit at the Grange Encampment and Fair attracted considerable attention.

The heirs of Jacob Neese, of Gregg township, deceased, offer for sale the Neese farm, located near Farmers Mills, Saturday October 22, at one o'clock. This is a splendid little farm, and in describing it, the heirs state that the place is clean of stones and Canada thistles. There are not many farms that can be described that way.

Much of the fall seeding was done after the middle of September, but the favorable weather caused the berries to sprout at once, and now the fields are covered with a green coat. All through this section of country the wheat fields have a fine set of plants, and the stalks will have ample time to be well developed before winter sets in.

The Reporter regrets to call attention to the fact that the Centre Hall borough council has been negligent in having a properly organized board of health. The state board of health is endeavoring to enforce the laws covering the organization of boards of health in small boroughs, and has threatened to cause charters to be annulled where the law is not complied with. The Reporter has said before and says again, that all boards of health in Centre Hall have acted without proper authority, and would have been personally liable for the acts performed had they been called to account. The council should take up the subject at once, have a health board properly organized and ready for action at all times.

LETTERS FROM SUBSCRIBERS.

Reporter Subscribers Correspondent Column—New Department.

Find enclosed one dollar for the Reporter. Pardon me for not sending it sooner.

We find good reading in the Reporter, and it is always welcome.

I am still unable to walk and have to spend my time in sitting on a chair; all I am able to do is read and write, so I am always glad to read the news from home.

Wish you a good success.
MRS. W. H. SWARTZ,
Lewisburg, Pa.

Notice To Subscribers.

After this issue The Centre Reporter will at no time be mailed to one whose subscription is not paid up to within twelve months. We have been making an effort to collect up subscriptions so that all copies of the Reporter sent to subscribers will come within the rulings of the postoffice department. About two-thirds of the delinquents have responded up to this time, and we presume the remainder will do so before the first issue in October is mailed out.

Many newspaper subscribers do not appreciate that publishers are no longer their own judges in this matter. The department simply says that Peter, Paul and Eli must keep their subscription paid up to within twelve months, and if they do not do so, the publisher must discontinue mailing the paper to his address.

No publisher can afford to violate the postoffice rulings, for if he does he will lose the privilege of the mails for his publication.

Democratic Campaign Book.

The Democratic National Congressional Committee has issued its Campaign Book and is now distributing it. The committee has no funds save as it obtains them through contributions and in selling the book at $1 per copy, or for 50¢ a copy in lots of ten or more.

The book is replete with valuable matter and is said to be the best Campaign book ever issued. Every Democrat should have it and in this year of Democratic effort for supremacy should gladly contribute to the committee by purchasing the book. The committee did valiant service in Maine with notable results, and if Democrats everywhere will rise to the occasion, by their dollar contributions, the Democratic sun will rise triumphantly, not to set for fifty years to come. Send your orders or contributions to F. F. Garrett, Treasurer, Democratic Campaign Committee, 821-15th Street, Northwest, Washington, D. C.

Keystone Party Men Organize.

The adherents of the Keystone party met in a room in Crider's Exchange, Bellefonte, and formed a county organization by selecting the following officers:

County chairman, A. A. Dale, Esq.; secretary, W. Miles Walker; treasurer, Charles F. Cook; vice chairmen, Hammon Sechler, C. C. Shuy and William A. Lyon. Mitchell I. Gardner was appointed chairman of the finance committee with the privilege of selecting his associates. Chairman Dale was empowered to appoint an executive committee to be composed of one representative citizen of each party and in each precinct in the county. It was also decided to rent a room in Bellefonte and open up headquarters with a view of prosecuting a vigorous campaign.

Accident to Miss McClenahan.

At the Harrisburg city hospital Miss Sara McClenahan is a patient, suffering from a broken thigh bone, caused by being thrown to the street in alighting from a street car. A letter received by her family here states she is getting along very well. Miss McClenahan went to Harrisburg Tuesday of last week, and Wednesday was shopping. She had a number of packages in her hands, and from what can be gathered, the car started just as she was stepping from the platform.

Low fares to the West.

Pennsylvania Railroad. Tickets to Rocky Mountains, Pacific Coast, Western Canada, Mexico and Southwestern points on sale September 14 to October 14, inclusive, at reduced fares. Consult nearest Ticket Agent, or Jas. P. Anderson, D. P. A., Pittsburg, Pa.

Don't waste your money buying plasters when you can get a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment for twenty-five cents. A piece of flannel dampened in this liniment is superior to any plaster for lame back, pains in the side and chest, and much cheaper. Sold by Murray and Bitner.

C. P. Long Company offers a special discount on best hard coal for September delivery.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

HAPPENINGS OF LOCAL INTEREST FROM ALL PARTS.

The corner stone of the new $40,000 Methodist church was laid at State College.

Charley Weaver, of near Linden Hall, put out a crop of wheat of something like eighty-five acres.

Well, here we are at almost the close of September, and no frost that did damage to corn or vegetation. The man who predicted the early frosts should be hunted up.

George F. Potter, a young farmer living near State College, has leased the Brockerhoff farm, near the Old Fort, at present occupied by Solomon Linggle, and will move there next spring.

The Bellefonte Daily News is being published by F. S. Dunham, at the office of the Howard Hunter. Dunham purchased a Junior Linotype, and expects to put some ginger in the issues.

It is the Watchman's opinion that the bottom has dropped out of the trolley line from Milesburg to Bellefonte. Unless work is commenced in a short time the company will forfeit its charter.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph K. Bitner, of Farmers Mills, and Mr. and Mrs. David Bitner, of Hastings, Nebraska, last week attended the reunion of soldiers on the Gettysburg battle fields and from there went to Atlantic City to remain for a few days.

While the Republican is advocating more hitching posts for Bellefonte to accommodate farmers and others who drive to Bellefonte, and refusing mail order house advertising, the publishers in that town are permitting Dunham, at Howard, to supply Bellefonte with a daily paper.

About the most forsaken and most neglected looking place in all this section of country is the cemetery at Centre Hill. If some of the fathers buried there could get a view of the thrifty burdocks, nettle, catnip, and a thousand other weeds, they would haunt a good many who go by there and look the other way.

If there is anything in the saying that the early bird catches the worm, Messrs. Jacob S. Knisely, of Bellefonte, and George H. Yarnell, of Zion, ought to profit by it, for they are distributing cards announcing their candidacy for the office of sheriff at the county Republican primaries in 1911.

The Howard Creamery Corporation, W. Gross Mingle, manager, shipped several car loads of potatoes from the Centre Hall station last week, and shipments will continue until the crop has been disposed of. Forty cents is the prevailing price. The tubers are in good condition, there being no indication of rot up to this time. The yield from measured acres is from one hundred to one hundred and fifty bushels of marketable potatoes.

The 1910 crop of Clinton county tobacco, which is one of the best ever grown, according to a statement made by the Lock Haven Democrat, has all been cut and placed in the sheds, the last of the weed having been hucked a week ago. The growers who put their plants out early and hence out the stalks sooner than others, state that the weed has colored nicely and is ready for stripping, so the weather conditions were most favorable for this state of the curing process.

I. Y. Moyer, of Cleveland, came to Centre Hall the latter part of last week to see his daughter, Helen, who is ill of diphtheria. Helen and her mother have been in Centre Hall for a number of weeks, spending the most of the time with Mrs. Moyer's mother, Mrs. Mary Resick. Sunday a week the girl began to complain of a sore throat, and Monday Dr. J. V. Foster found a well developed case of diphtheria. Every precaution was taken to prevent the spread of the disease, and antitoxin was resorted to as a remedy. The case was a very severe one, and what made it worse, the child had a weak throat. At present she has so far improved that there is every hope of her ultimate recovery.

The Centre Hall Evaporating Company's plant, near the station, has been much improved over last year. A new style peeler is used, the machine having fingers arranged cup-shaped into which the apples are laid. A cam carries the fingers to the fork and fastens the apples onto it, and from it the apples drop to within easy reach of the trimmers. The trimmed apples are dropped on a belt, carried to the blancher, and from there to the slicing machine, finally landing in crates ready to be conveyed to the drying house. The postings and cores are also conveyed by machinery. Much of this work was heretofore done by men and boys. The Evaporating plant makes a market for apples that heretofore were a total loss.
