HARD LUCK, INDEED.

"Yep, Bill fell into a beer vat and nearly drowned; but dat ain't de wurst of it. Dey pumped him out when dey rescued him!"

"My little son, a boy of five, broke out with an itching rash. Three doctors prescribed for him, but he kept getting worse until we could not dress him any more. They finally advised me to try a certain medical college, but its treatment did no good. At the time I was induced to try Cuticura he was so bad that I had to cut his hair off and put the Cuticura Ointment on him on bandages, as it was impossible to touch him with the bare hand. There was not one square inch of skin on his whole body that was not affected. He was one mass of sores. The bandages used to stick to his skin and in removing them it used to take the skin off with them, and the screams from the poor child were heart-breaking. I began to think that he would never get well, but after the second application of Cuticura Ointment I began to see signs of improvement, and with the third and fourth applications the sores commenced to dry up. His skin peeled off twenty times, but it finally yielded to the treatment. Now I can say that he is entirely cured, and a stronger and healthier boy you never saw than he is to-day, twelve years or more since the cure was effected. Robert Wattam, 1148 Forty-eighth St., Chicago, Ill., Oct. 9, 1909."

The wise know better than to try to live on the spice of life alone.

There is nothing prettier in a room than a bowl of gold fish. The bright colored, lively little creatures darting in and out of the green vegetation in the bowl makes a picture that one never tires of studying. But gold fish are delicate things and it is depressing, when one has left them full of life and energy the previous night, to discover them dead in the morning. I find that many novices have trouble in the same direction and in some instances have given up the attempt to keep fish in the bowl. So I decided to get expert information on the subject for the benefit of the readers of this column.

"In the first place," said the expert, "don't make the mistake that one woman did who came complaining to me today. I questioned her concerning the food she had given the fish and found that she had fed them nothing but bread. That is a sure way to kill the fish, for the bread contains yeast and this sours the water and it would be necessary to change it every half hour or so to keep the fish alive.

"If you will watch a fish that is fed with bread you will see him eat it for a little time, but as the bread gets sour from the action of the water he will take it in his mouth and cough it out very quickly. Common sense ought to teach one that when the fish spits out the bread it is not the right food for him. Oatmeal makes good fish food, but the prepared food made especially for the purpose is the best thing to feed them with.

"Don't overfeed the fish. They don't require a lot of food. Give them enough to have a good bite or two all around, but don't keep the fish floating all the time on the surface of the water. It fouls the water and the fish will overfeed themselves and probably die.

"When you see the fish seeking the top it is a sure sign that the water is getting stale and should be changed. The fish will naturally stay near the bottom and as long as the water has sufficient oxygen for their needs they will swim around in any part of the bowl. But when the oxygen is getting low and the water used up you will see the fish crowd to the top and begin to gasp. When they do this, thrusting their heads half out of the water and gulping in the air you will know that they need fresh water, and if you do not give it to them quickly you will find your fish floating at the top, dead.

"Don't keep the fish bowl in a dark corner. The fish require sunlight, and if they are given plenty of light and air, the water will not need to be changed so frequently. Remember that the fish are accustomed in their native habitat to sunlight and air all around them. From this, they are taken and confined in a small bowl, and this bowl is kept in a close room, into which the sun seldom or never penetrates, and the consequence is the oxygen in the water is used up rapidly and the fish die for want of air."

HOW TO CLEAN WHITE SHOES

Comparatively Simple Matter to Restore Footwear to Original Perfect Whiteness.

Many a girl discards her white shoes when they are "good and dirty," without knowing that a little effort will restore them to their pristine purity.

The first requirement for complete restoration is not to get the white shoes too soiled, for they never look so well as when they are taken in hand before the discoloration becomes too deep. After wearing canvas shoes they should be given a good brushing with a stiff brush, the sole edges and heels freed from mud and washed off with plain water. But do not let the water get on the canvas, for this will only serve to fasten the soil the tighter. For whitening the canvas there are many bottled liquids in the market, Chinese white being a favorite and the most efficacious one. A homemade whitener which is just as good if put together according to the formula is made of half an ounce of gum arabic dissolved in 40 ounces of water; to this add an ounce of white vinegar and 20 ounces of powdered chalk. Shake the bottle well before using, and put the white on with a brush, going over the shoes with a second coat after the first one has dried in, if they seem to need it.

Where it is desired to match a shoe to the dress tint, old white canvas ties or satin slippers may easily be changed to any color wanted by adding a little dye to the gum arabic water and vinegar instead of the chalk. With any of the bottled liquids they may also be made tan or black.

AND NOW COMES THE JIBBAH

If You Don't Know What It Is, Read the Following Description of Garment.

My friends admire my jibbah. It is much prettier and more graceful than an ordinary kimono, and it takes only half a day to make one. The material should be at least 44 inches wide. There is absolutely no waste in cutting, except the circle or square at the neck.

the neck. The length of the sleeve must be determined according to the figure. When that is done the distance from underarm to bottom, b, d, is bisected at c, and the triangular portion, a, b, c, which is cut out, is turned right around to form the gore, d, c, e. If the gown is made of figured material, a yoke of plain goods would be pretty. If the jibbah is of plain cloth the yoke may be beautifully embroidered, making a pretty and becoming house gown.—Good Housekeeping Magazine.

Turnback Cuffs Popular.
With the white shirt waist and white duck linen skirt pure white neckwear is the rule or pure white combined with some delicate tint.

Some of the hand-embroidered Dutch collars have inserts of pale blue, pink or lavender linen which are worked flowers, sprays or dots in white with very dainty effect.

Turnback cuffs are so smart this season that some women, taking advantage of special sales of the turn-over Irish collars, buy up two or three in matching patterns and, cutting away the strip of Irish crochet, which can be obtained more reasonably this way than by the yard, as these collars are made up in great quantities and the real Irish patterns imitated very closely.

New Ornamentation.
If something new be your aim in matter of the ornamentation of a blouse, drawn work is suggested by some of the most successful makers as an effective relief from the perennial insertion or embroidery. The coarse meshes so much in use this season offer stability and an unusual coolness to which characteristics is added the easy "drawing" quality. When marquisette or voile is drawn and worked with coarse linen thread in some of the simpler drawn-work patterns the decorative value is wonderfully increased. Squares, lines and pointed plastras are attainable, and when the whole blouse is built over a contrasting color to bring it into harmony with the skirt the result is decidedly successful.

COMMERCIAL

Weekly Review of Trade and Market Reports.

Bradstreets says: Trade and industrial reports are rather more irregular. The first rush of fall buying is over at many cities, but fall festivals and state fairs still attract visitors to markets, the result being a fair to good volume of fall jobbing and retail trade. Western reports are still the most optimistic, and liberal marketing of cereal crops has made for plentiful money supplies and an apparently easier position of Western banks. The cotton crop movement is expanding with beneficial effects upon trade and collections at many markets. Conservatism still governs, however; demand is largely for staple lines and actual requirements still dominate. Reports from leading industries are rather less than normal expansion in activity. Iron and steel are reported no more active and a larger volume of capacity is reported unemployed. Curtailment is still in evidence in the leading textile industries. The Eastern shoe trade is reported working to only about two-thirds of shoe machinery capacity. Business failures in the United States for the week ending September 15 were 210, against 173 last week, 108 in the like week in 1909, 265 in 1908, 179 in 1907 and 171 in 1906.

Business failures in Canada for the week number 30, which compares with 18 for last week and with 30 for the like week in 1909.

Wheat, including flour, exports from the United States and Canada for the week aggregate 2,174,053 bushels, against 1,511,065 last week and 2,286,891 this week last year. Corn exports for the week are 174,039 bushels, against 276,452 last week and 95,540 in 1909.

The kidney secretions were in terrible condition and I floated badly. I wished for death. I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and as a last resort, I began their use. It was Anna's first visit at the seaside. She was only a little girl, and very enthusiastic over the long-looked-for opportunity to go into the water.

They came too late the previous day for a dip in the surf, so Anna was up early, and as she put on her bathing suit while they were at breakfast some one questioned her as to her haste.

"Well, you see," replied the thoughtful child, "I want to hurry and go in before so many people get in and get the water cold."

Which Do You Like Worst?

This is the greatest known way for undecided people to make up their minds.

None but a strong minded woman can ever decide which of two or three hats she likes "the best," particularly if they are all comely.

Popular belles have been known to have similar troubles with their sweethearts. Which do I like best is often a momentous question.

Why not try the other way?

Decide which, of men, or hats, or attractive "dates" you like the worst, and then proceed to eliminate.

From there you can factor out in the grade of desirability, until you actually find yourself at a decision, because it, whatever it is, is the only one left.

The process is delightfully simple.

Made Sure of Death.
