Mr. Grim in Town.

Senator Webster Grim, the Democratic nominee for governor, was in town on Monday noon. Thomas H. Greevy, of Altoona, Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor, and Dr. Samuel C. Stewart, Democratic candidate for State Senator, were also in the party. They came by train from the east to Coburn, where they were met by County Chairman Arthur Kimpport and a number of others from Bellefonte in automobiles. From Coburn the party went to Millhelm where Mr. Grim made a short address, and from that place to Rebersburg, Madisonburg, Penn Hall and Spring Mills, arriving in Centre Hall at the noon hour.

There was a cordial welcome along the line except at Centre Hall, where not over a half dozen Democrats were in waiting at the Centre Hall hotel for the distinguished gentleman on the Democratic ticket. It is due Mr. Grim to say that the very decided frost at this point was not on account of the high altitude of the Penna Valley metropolis, nor on account of the Berry sentiment, but owing to local conditions. The situation existing here is not appreciated by the outside people, nor is it necessary to give any further details. Had Senator Grim's appearance in Centre Hall been properly announced, and his reception given on unforbidden ground to the local element, he would have been most cordially received by many citizens without regard to party affiliation. Mr. Grim is a thorough gentleman, he has a clean record, he is not a boozeholer, neither is he a slither lawyer nor a boodle politician. Unfortunately for Candidate Grim he does not have the selection of his companions nor the arrangements of his tour.

Lecture on the Mountaineers.

Rev. Delos Edwin Finks, of New York, lectured in the Presbyterian church last Friday evening. His subject was those peculiar people found in the heart of our land, the mountaineers of the south. Being shut off from easy communication with the outside world they stood still or retrograded while the rest of America marched on to civilization. After the war many benevolent people of the north became interested in them and sent them missionary teachers and preachers who have been the means of making useful intelligent citizens of many of them, transforming many communities. By means of pictures thrown upon a screen their former and present condition was vividly portrayed. The pictures were of unusual excellence, rivaling nature in their power to convey distinct impressions.

Dr. Finks' long experience in the work enabled him to bring the scenes on just at the right time and with no hitch. The favorable comments were many. He has other like lectures on other of the less known portions of our land. One or more of these he may give in Centre Hall during the winter.

Apple Show.

The Horticultural Department of the Pennsylvania State College will hold its fourth annual educational fruit show during Farmers' Week, December 19 to 24. At the show last year three hundred plates of fruit in addition to box and barrel packs were shown, representing seventy-eight varieties from fifty-six different orchards in twenty-three different counties. This year the Department will endeavor to have every county represented and is especially anxious to have Centre county well represented. Every grower is invited to save his best fruit and send from six to eight specimens of each variety for this exhibit.

Farther, every grower and lover of fruit is invited to visit this apple show on one of the above dates.

It is entirely educational in character and no premiums are offered.

DUPLICATE POTTER'S OFFER.

J. M. Gilliland Offers Aid to Improve the Centre Hill Cemetery.

It looks very much as though it would require but a slight effort to secure sufficient funds to put the Centre Hill cemetery in presentable condition. The Reporter is not ready to believe that the descendants of the honored dead who lie in this cemetery will not come forward with an abundance of cash to repair the breaches in the walls, and make the burying ground once more to appear neglected.

The Reporter here publishes a letter from J. M. Gilliland, of New Bloomfield, who formerly was one of Potter township's best citizens. No doubt there are many others whose intentions are similar to those of Mr. Potter and Mr. Gilliland, but have not expressed themselves. These columns are open to any who wish to give expression to their views on this question, and if there are a few more Potters and a few more Gillilands their examples will go a long way toward shaping sentiment and opening the purse strings.

NEW BLOOMFIELD, Pa., Oct. 15, 1910.
Editor The Centre Reporter,
Centre Hall, Penn.

DEAR SIR:

I was grieved to read in a recent number of your paper of the dilapidated condition of the Centre Hill cemetery. I am glad to note the letter of James H. Potter in this week's issue, offering substantial aid in a movement to clean and beautify the old cemetery. I am ready to duplicate Mr. Potter's offer, any time I am called upon by the trustees, or those in authority.

Centre Hill cemetery is the resting place of many of the Gillilands, as well as many more of the pioneer settlers of Penna Valley. I am of the descendants of the Gillilands. There are many others of different branches of our family I feel sure would render substantial aid, if a movement were set on foot to improve the condition of the old cemetery.

Respectfully,
J. M. GILLILAND.

Harris township

Rev. and Mrs. J. I. Stonecypher and Mrs. Ulrich returned last Wednesday from a visit at Selingsgrove.

Wednesday night of last week we had our first frost, but are having fine weather since then.

Misses Annie Lohr and Anna Weber are enjoying this week with friends at Altoona and Huntingdon.

John Hockman and Miss Grace Shearer, of near Zion, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Kuhn, on Saturday.

Mrs. John Leech and family, Mrs. W. H. Stuart and daughter Emma Eliza, and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Jacobs attended the Jacobs reunion at the William Resides home at Bellefonte on Friday.

C. M. Smith, of Pen Argyll, and sister Miss Bertha Smith, of Scranton, and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Gettler, of Altoona, were relatives from a distance who attended the funeral of Miss Elizabeth Meyer.

Mrs. Henry Dale and daughter Miss Anna visited in Altoona last week and attended the Sunday-school convention. Miss Dale was a delegate from the Boalsburg Lutheran Sunday-school.

William Goheen and family and O. W. Stover and family attended the illustrated lecture given in the Presbyterian church at Lemont, Wednesday of last week.

Rev. Charles S. Stover, of near Meyersdale, has accepted the call from the joint consistory of the Boalsburg Reformed church, and will commence his pastoral work here the beginning of December.

N. W. Meyer sold three hogs to S. E. Kimpport at State College for $108.50, they weighed 1150 lbs. Butcher Kimpport said he never before paid so much for three hogs. Wheat is looking fine, but the corn fields have a "shocky" appearance.

Improvements which are being made in Boalsburg are the Calvin Wieland house, the Dr. Klidder property, purchased from Mrs. Rankin, the W. H. Stuart property and the building purchased by the Knights of Malta. The latter is being transformed into a lodge room, the corner stone for which was laid on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Wagner, Miss Beulah Fortney, and Messrs. Riley Hunter and Henry Glass were an automobile party who came from Altoona on Friday and returned again Sunday afternoon. The gentlemen spent Saturday in the mountains frightening squirrels, while the ladies enjoyed the day with relatives and associates in Boalsburg. The party took their noonday meal on Sunday at the John A. Fortney home.

Who Has It?

A wire stretcher was borrowed from the Reporter's farmer, and has been lost track of. The owner is a firm believer in advertising, and if the tool is in the hands of an honest man, it will be found through the publishing of this item.

Only Quit the Crooked Game When Picked by Penrose as the Machine Nominee For Governor.

The Philadelphia North American, a Republican newspaper, makes grave charges against John K. Tener, the Republican candidate for governor of Pennsylvania. It accuses him with having been associated with professional crooks to swindle innocent investors. According to that paper, Mr. Tener accepted the presidency at a salary of $5000 a year, a seat on the board of directors and a bonus of $50,000 worth of the stock of a corporation which had no assets, and the capital of which was worthless shares in four other bankrupt corporations. It alleges that Mr. Tener was aware of the character of the company and traded his name to the bogus corporation for the consideration of the salary and the bonus, in order that his associates in the swindling operation might be the more successful in duping their victims, innocent investors.

If what the North American asserts is even partially true, John K. Tener is not only unfit for governor, but he is unfit to enjoy personal liberty. Only a swindler and conspirator would knowingly engage in such nefarious operations, and if Mr. Tener got in in the way described by the Philadelphia newspaper, and after getting in acted as the Philadelphia newspaper alleges he acted, he is nothing more nor less than a dishonest scoundrel, and no honest or patriotic citizen can vote for such a man without stultifying himself. Not only that, but it becomes the bounden duty of every honest and patriotic citizen to employ every honest means available to prevent his election to the office of governor or to any other office in the gift of the people. Failure in this is recreancy to the palpable duties of citizenship.

If John K. Tener is guilty as charged by the Philadelphia North American, any man who votes for him, knowing the facts, or in any way contributes toward his election to the office of governor, is accessory after the fact to his crime and equally culpable with him. Falling to vote against him or voting for a candidate who has no chance of election is contributing to his elevation to the office and, it is, therefore, the duty of every honest elector to not only not vote for Tener, but to vote for Webster Grim, the only candidate who has even a remote chance of defeating him. We do not say that the charges are true, though the testimony presented by the Philadelphia North American is strongly supported by circumstantial evidence. But we do believe that sufficient has been revealed to create suspicion and protest that no man under such a cloud of suspicion should be elected governor of Pennsylvania, and that the only way to prevent that shameful result is to vote for Webster Grim.

Following is a summary of the charges made by the Philadelphia North American as presented in its columns the other day:

John K. Tener is the business friend and associate of swindlers, convicted and unconvicted.

He sold his name as president of a fraudulent corporation formed and conducted by these men, the consideration they voted him, on the day he was elected, being a salary of $5000 a year and $50,000 in stock.

By the use of his name as president and director of the swindling concern they have sold its worthless stock to the public.

The Tener corporation is capitalized at $2,000,000, the issue being based upon the worthless remnants of four other corporations, organized and wrecked by the same swindlers, which had fleeced numerous investors.

Its literature, bearing prominently the name of John K. Tener as president and director, is a mass of false and misleading representations.

The "assets" of the corporation to which he sold the use of his name consist of the "assets" of bankrupt fake corporations, which were falsely valued at $2,000,000 and made the basis of a fraudulent issue of $2,000,000 "full paid and non-assessable stock."

It was of the company issuing this fraudulent stock that Tener became president and director, and it is this fraudulent stock which has been sold by the use of his name, the selling being done not only by his fraudulent corporation, but by two fake banking concerns, formed by his associates in that company.

The fraudulent corporation was formed and the crooked stock issued on Dec. 13, 1909.

On motion of Tener's close friend and business associate—who is a professional promoter of swindles—Mr. Tener was elected a director and president on Jan. 4, 1910. His friend, the professional promoter of swindles, thereupon became vice president and general manager.

On motion of this same friend, the salary of President Tener was fixed at $5000 a year, and there was voted to him an additional bonus of $50,000 of stock in a paper railroad which was among the assets of the concern.

At a later meeting, President Tener being present, the secretary was instructed to attend to all matters of general business of the swindling corporation, keeping in touch with Mr. Tener.

Mr. Tener remained president until May 2, 1910, when he resigned. This was about the time his selection by Senator Penrose as a candidate for governor was decided upon. He did not resign, however, from the board of directors.

At a stockholders' meeting on May 6, Tener's 5330 shares of stock in the swindling corporation were voted by proxy. One action was the approval of two contracts, by which "banking" firms formed by some of Tener's associates and fellow directors in the concern—swindlers and bankrupts—acquired the right to sell the fraudulent stock to the public.

Although Tener's friends say that he resigned as a director "a long time ago," there is no record of such an act on the minutes up to Sept. 22, 1910, and letters and circulars used by the swindlers continued to bear his name as president after he resigned that office.

Why Meat is High.

Thirty-five per cent. is the amount of profit Armour & Co. forced the public to pay last year. This became known through a statement submitted by Armour & Co. in connection with the listing of a bond issue of $30,000,000 on the stock exchange.

The company by its own showing, made a gross profit of $10,582,000 for the year 1909 on a capital stock of $20,000,000 and earned a surplus of $7,127,926, or the equivalent of a dividend of 35.6 per cent. As the price of beef was boosted with the beginning of 1910 it would appear that in the opinion of Armour & Co. a 35.6 per cent. profit on capital stock is not ample, even though the commodity involved is one of the necessities of life.

Armour & Co. is one of the beef trust firms which enjoyed perfect immunity from prosecution by the government until Federal Judge Landis, of Chicago, an insurgent, forced the Taft administration to take cognizance of the fact that the beef trust was illegally holding up the public.

After Election.

The Republicans promise to make public the source of their campaign contributions — after the November congressional election.

The report of the stand-pat Republican members of the Ballinger investigating committee is to be made public — after the election.

Nothing further is to be said of the $5,000,000 Taft-Humphrey ship subsidy grab bill — until after election.

The soft pedal is to be applied to the Oklahoma Indian land thievery — until after the November election.

Nothing is to be done with the Lorimer investigation — until after election.

No step is to be taken in the sugar trust-trial lands Philippine scandal — until after the November election.

And, last, but not least, from the standpoint of relative importance, the National Monetary Commission, of which Senator Aldrich is chairman, will not make its report recommending a central government bank — until after the November election.

THE CRISIS.

A Loving Mother Guides Her Girl at the Fateful Moment.

"Your whole future life depends upon it."

The mother, her face tinged with sympathy which we must ever feel in the presence of an immaturity that is hesitating between right and wrong, laid her hand over that of her beautiful daughter.

"Yes, dear," she continued, "into every life there comes at one time or another a supreme temptation. If the crisis is passed all is safe, but if you yield at the fatal moment you cannot retrace your steps. You are then committed to a fatal policy."

"But, mother, father says he cannot afford it."

"Exactly. Fathers from time immemorial have always said that. It is their way of impressing on youth and innocence. Go forth at once and buy the gown. Do not forget that I am with you, that I will stand back of you with all the feeble strength I can command."

So saying, the proud woman folded into her arms the weak creature, who even then, if it had not been for her timely rescue, would have been betrayed into a humiliating and shameful surrender.—Success Magazine.

A Stage Manager's Ruse.

The house bill of the Imperial theater of La Roche-sur-Yon announced for the evening performance "La Tour de Nesle," a five act melodrama, and "La Soeur de Jocrisse," a one act farce. The drama had been disposed of, but the low comedian was missing and could not be found. What was to be done? A luminous idea finally entered the manager's mind. The orchestra played an overture, then another, then a third, then a polka and finally a quadrille. At last, when the audience had grown quite obstreperous, the stage manager appeared. He addressed the three conventional bows to the spectators and said: "Ladies and gentlemen, you are anxious, I know, to listen to 'La Soeur de Jocrisse.' The piece has just been acted, but through an unaccountable oversight on the part of the stage hands they forgot to raise the curtain."

Saw It in a Dream.

For many years ivory manufacturers were trying to devise a machine for turning out a billiard ball as nearly perfect as possible and at the same time avoiding waste. Among those who strove to perfect such a machine was Mr. John Carter of the firm of John Carter & Son, well known ivory manufacturers. One night, after Mr. Carter had been striving to solve the problem for some time, he suddenly awoke his wife by shouting out, "I have got it," and rushed downstairs into his study, where he made a drawing of the last knife for the want of which he had been so long waiting in order to complete his machine. It appears that he had fallen asleep and dreamed about the machine, and in the dream the solution of the difficulty was revealed to him.—London Answers.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

Bulletin

OPENING OF THE GREAT PENNSYLVANIA STATION IN NEW YORK.

On Sunday, November 27, full train service will be inaugurated by the Pennsylvania Railroad to and from its new station at Seventh Avenue and Thirty-second Street, New York City.

The location of the Pennsylvania Station, one block from Broadway, two blocks from Fifth Avenue, is in the heart of the hotel, club and theatre district of Manhattan. Within a short radius are located the majority of the big retail stores and restaurants. The Seventh Avenue surface cars and the Eighth Avenue surface cars pass its doors; the Thirty-fourth Street surface cars (crosstown) pass its Thirty-fourth Street entrance, and the stations of the Sixth Avenue, Elevated and Hudson and Manhattan Tubes are a short block from its main entrance.

Time tables showing the service to and from the Pennsylvania Station are now being arranged, and may be obtained at Ticket Offices before the opening of the Station.

Connections will be made at Manhattan Transfer (near Newark) with local trains to and from the downtown stations by way of Jersey City, so that downtown New York passengers who desire may continue to use the Cortlandt and DeWolfe Street Stations and the Hudson Terminal Station of the Hudson and Manhattan Tubes.
