

GETTING EVEN WITH MAMM!

In This Case Child's Punishment Certainly Failed to Have Salutary Effect.

A little girl had been so very naughty that her mother found it necessary to shut her up in a dark closet—in that family, the direst punishment for the worst offense. For 15 minutes the door had been locked without a sound coming from behind it. Not a whimper, not a sniff.

At last the stern but anxious parent unlocked the closet door and peered into the darkness. She could see nothing.

"What are you doing in there?" she cried.

And then a little voice piped from the blackness:

"I thipt on your new dress and I thipt on your new hat, and I'm waiting for more thipt to come to thipt on your new parasol!"

HIS HANDS CRACKED OPEN

"I am a man seventy years old. My hands were very sore and cracked open on the insides for over a year with large sores. They would crack open and bleed, itch, burn and ache so that I could not sleep and could do but little work. They were so bad that I could not dress myself in the morning. They would bleed and the blood dropped on the floor. I called on two doctors, but they did me no good. I could get nothing to do any good till I got the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. About a year ago my daughter got a cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment and in one week from the time I began to use them my hands were all healed up and they have not been a mite sore since. I would not be without the Cuticura Remedies.

"They also cured a bad sore on the hand of one of my neighbor's children, and they think very highly of the Cuticura Remedies. John W. Hasty, So. E. 5th St., N. H., Mar. 5, and Apr. 11, '09."

Just Guessed.

"Mrs. Wadsworth, I am very glad, indeed, to meet you. But, haven't I had the honor of being introduced to you before? What was your name formerly, if I may ask?"

"My maiden name."

"No; your name before you were divorced."

"How did you know I had been divorced?"

"Why, hasn't everybody?"

All that is necessary is to anoint the affected parts night and morning until a cure is effected. I am free to say that it ought to be called 'A Sure Pile Remedy,' for such it certainly is. STATE CAPITAL

One State Board.

The subject of the proposed school code occupies a prominent part in the annual report of Dr. N. C. Schaeffer, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, which was just made public here.

Dr. Schaeffer does not show very much favor of the idea of creating a State Board of Education. He speaks of the subject at length and declares that it would cause delay in securing action on questions which are now decided promptly.

Dr. Schaeffer says there is a division of opinion on the subject of creating a State board, remarking:

"Those who favor a State board claim that such a board would unify the system, as well as work other desirable changes. Philadelphia has always been adverse to coming under the State school system, and when the last Legislature was considering this question, the leaders promptly eliminated the Philadelphia schools from the jurisdiction of the proposed State Board of Education. If a State board is not good for Philadelphia, is it good for the rest of the State?"

The superintendent points out that experience with the college and university council shows how difficult it is to get a quorum of a board whose members serve without compensation. In discussing the subject, he says:

"Here, if anywhere, individual preferences should be subordinated to the general welfare of the schools. If functions which are now vested in superintendents and school boards, or in the Legislature itself, can with advantage be transferred to a State Board of Education then such a board should be created. If, on the other hand, such a board is an unnecessary adjunct to the State school department and a hindrance to the local administration of the schools, then it would be unwise to create such a board, even though a majority of the States have seen fit to limit the power of the local authorities by some central authority above the department of public instruction."

Halts Milk Complaints.

The State Railroad Commissioner declined to go any farther into the complaints of L. F. Flick, Jr., of Philadelphia, regarding milk shipments into Philadelphia unless they are supported by health authorities. And these must show that by reason of delays or unsanitary conditions the milk is injured.

Flick had complained against the milk service into Philadelphia, by both the Reading and Pennsylvania Railroad Companies. He alleged that there were delays, inadequate accommodations and unsanitary conditions.

The commission decided to send him notice that, because of improvements made by the companies, as shown by the answers filed by them, and in view of the fact that Flick had sent no communication since he was advised of the filing of answers, the commission does not feel like going ahead unless the complaints are supported by some health authorities, alleging that the delay occasions "such change in the character of the fluid as to make it injurious for use." These are questions which the Commission holds it is not competent to determine.

At the office of the Commission it was stated that answers of the companies had been forwarded to Flick.

Gettysburg Board.

Representatives of the National Government and of the States and Territories, named at the invitation of Pennsylvania to participate in the arrangements to observe the semi-centennial of the battle of Gettysburg in 1913, were formally welcomed here by Governor Stuart.

The representatives include a number of distinguished men from 23 States and a committee of Congress headed by United States Senator George T. Oliver.

The representatives were escorted to the Capitol by Colonel Lewis E. Bettler, of the Governor's staff. There the members of the Pennsylvania commission awaited them. General Louis Wagner, of Philadelphia, chairman of the Pennsylvania commission, presented the members, and the Governor briefly welcomed them.

Immediately afterward luncheon was tendered to the visitors at the Harrisburg Club by the Pennsylvania commissioners. Their sentiments expressing opinion that the proposed celebration should have a love feast and reunion between members of the North and South were given. Delegates from Northern and Southern States fraternized.

MICHIGAN TO SET NEW RECORDS

Captain Benbrook.

Everyone who has watched Michigan football teams train in other years and then has taken a daily look at the squad while at work at Whitmore Lake recently, is convinced that the 1910 eleven is going to set some records. Yost thinks so, although as yet he isn't saying so; Coach Douglas of the freshman eleven thinks so, and has not the slightest compunction about saying so; while Athletic Director Bartelme, Assistant Coach Dave Allerdee and Trainer Kraenzlein are equally optimistic. That being so, the team could hardly keep from making some records and already one new mark has been established by the 1910 squad.

When Don Green, Herrington and Cornwell joined the squad at the training camp the other day it swelled the list to 25, and of the 25 no less than seven won their "M" by playing on the team that downed Pennsylvania and Minnesota last year.

For uniformity in size, this year's group of line candidates surpassed the teams of 1903, 1904 and 1905. Captain Benbrook easily towers above the others, but with that one exception the men are about equal in weight. When it is considered that the bunch of line-men will average more than 155 pounds, one can readily see why Yost is so well pleased with the prospects for a formidable set of forwards for this year's eleven.

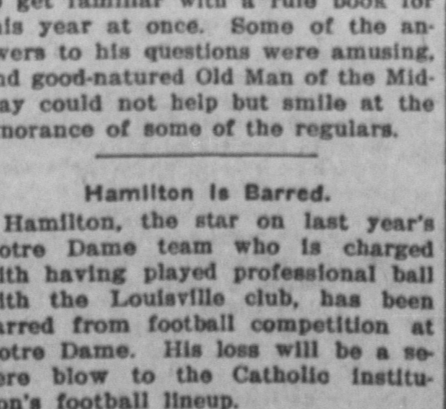

Captain Benbrook will be left at guard, where last year he showed so well that Walter Camp chose him for his imaginary All-America eleven.

STAGG SEVERE WITH MAROONS

Midway Candidates Treated to Strenuous Daily Practice—Ignorant of New Rules.

Capt. "Bill" Crawley has been busy recently lining up the candidates for the University of Chicago football team. At the start Crawley and Coach Stagg put the men through a severe course of practice. This was kept up for several days.

Coach Stagg departed long enough from regular practice one afternoon to give his entire squad a quiz lecture on the new rules, which lasted over an hour, and to his great surprise he found few of his men acquainted with them. The mentor of the university not only gave each man a formal introduction to the new code, but invited them, one and all, to get familiar with a rule book for this year at once. Some of the answers to his questions were amusing, and good-natured Old Man of the Midway could not help but smile at the ignorance of some of the regulars.

Capt. "Bill" Crawley.

REULBACH HAD MANY STARTS

Crack Pitcher of the Champion Chicago Cubs Says College Training Assisted Him Greatly.

By ED REULBACH.

(Copyright, 1910, by Joseph B. Bowles.)
My start in professional baseball is hard to find, as I had started several times. I am willing to tell the facts of the case now, and defend them, because I always thought a college pitcher had the right to pitch for money when not at his own college. I did not consider it wrong. I had pitched around Detroit and St. Louis as a boy, and, being strong and having a lot of speed, had made some little reputation among the fellows. I wanted to go to college and I did not want my family to have to bear all the expense. In fact, while they could have afforded it, I thought it better to earn my way. I could make money pitching baseball, and I was offered certain favors, which would materially reduce the expense, if I would go to a certain college and go in for athletics. I did not consider this as a salary or bribe, and as I would have gone to the college, anyhow, I thought it as legitimate for me to pay part of my expenses by playing ball as it would have been for a skillful student to keep books for the varsity and help pay his way.

Also I determined to pitch during vacations and to make it pay my college expenses. Under the rules I did not dare use my own name, as that would have barred me. So I pitched under an assumed name. This might be considered unfair to pitchers for rival colleges, and taken to give me an unfair advantage, but the truth is that it was not so, for two reasons. In the first place the rival pitchers also were pitching all summer, whether or not they were paid for it. But the second reason is better. It is a fact that what I learned about pitching at college helped me more in the minor leagues than what I learned in the minor leagues helped me at college. So I did not gain any unsportsmanlike advantage at all.

MENTOR SAYS YALE IS WEAK

Walter Camp Declares Old Eli's Material is Lacking in Strength—Talks of New Rules.

Walter Camp, the football mentor at Yale, gave out an interview recently in which he stated Yale will not have as strong a football team next fall as in the last two or three seasons. The material is said to be not as good as in former years, and it is Camp's opinion that both Harvard and Princeton will have strong teams, but he would not say whether they would be able to defeat Yale.

Speaking of the new rules formulated last spring, Mr. Camp said: "I think we ought to have a great game this fall if the coaches and players are quick to grasp the possibilities. Of course, there are a number of technicalities in the rules which are going to make the work of the officials mighty hard. One of the hardest kind of tasks for the officials is to determine when one player is pushing another. When the players are massed, it will be hard to designate the man who is pushing or pulling another. In this connection it might be said that one of the hardest problems for coaches to solve is to stop the players from pulling or pushing. Before this season the words pull and push were heard more than any others in practice and the players have been coached so much in this that it will be a task to stop them."

"Of course, this is only my opinion, but I hope the rules work for the satisfaction of all."
Camp said it was a hard fight to agree on many of the points which have been adopted, as each member of the committee had certain suggestions which he wanted converted into a rule. As a result, several compromises had to be made.

SHARKEY YELLS FOR 'ARTHUR'

Once Noted Fighter Witnesses Initial Performance of Play and Misperceptions.

Tim McGrath is as full of stories concerning Tom Sharkey as a coconaut is full of milk. For the last ten years the McGrath stories have been making the rounds. Here's the latest:
It seems that Tim and a friend of his who had just written a play, and was to have the same produced at the Central theater in San Francisco, induced Sharkey to be a first nighter and witness the initial performance. All went well, and after the first act the players were called out and cheered and applauded. Then Tim turned to Sharkey and said:
"Yell for the author."
"Yell for who?"
"The author."
"Is that the guy's name? All right, Arthur! Arthur! Arthur!" It took Tim five minutes to stop the enthusiastic sailor and tell him where he was off.

SUFFERED FIFTEEN YEARS.

How Chronic Kidney Trouble Was Permanently Cured.

F. P. Semmel, Sr., 236 N. 6th St., Lehighton, Pa., says: "For over 15 years I suffered from kidney trouble. My kidneys were weak; the secretions contained sediment and passed with a smarting sensation. Sharp pains shot through my body and bent me almost double. I became so bad I could not drive to my work. After doctoring without benefit, I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills and soon received relief. Continued use cured me. I believe Doan's Kidney Pills saved my life."

History of Red Cross Seal.
"Charity stamps," first used in Boston in 1862 for the soldiers' relief funds during the Civil war, were the original forerunners of the Red Cross Christmas seal, which will be used this year to bring happiness and cheer to millions. The Delaware Anti-Tuberculosis society in 1907 for the first time in America made use of a stamp for the purpose of getting revenue to fight consumption. In a hastily organized campaign of only three weeks they realized $3,000. The next year, 1908, the American Red Cross conducted the first national tuberculosis stamp campaign. From this sale $135,900 was realized for the anti-tuberculosis movement. In 1909, under many adverse conditions, $250,000 was realized from these stamps. This year the slogan of the tuberculosis fighters and the Red Cross is "A Million for Tuberculosis from Red Cross Seals in 1910."

Popularity of Thais.
"Every other young actress is calling herself Thais," said Henry E. Dixey at a dinner at Manquin's. "Thais McGinnis, Thais Endicott, Thais Schmidt—the thing is universal."
"Universal and ridiculous; for they who have read Anatole France's story of 'Thais' know that she was a very naughty little girl, indeed. I am quite sure that no real reader of 'Thais' would ever, under any circumstances, consent to be called such a name."
"It makes me think of a man who, taking his infant daughter to be baptized, told the clergyman to call her Venus."
"But I refuse to call her Venus," said the clergyman, indignantly. "Venus is the name of a pagan goddess."
"Well, how about your own girl, Diana?" said the man.

The Place of Honor.
Farmer Hodge was of the good, old-fashioned school, and he always gave a feast to his hands at harvest time. It was harvest time and the feast was about to commence.
Giles was the oldest hand and the hostess, with beaming cordiality, motioned him to the seat by her right hand. But Giles remained silently unresponsive.
"Come," said the hostess, "don't be bashful, Mr. Giles"—he was just Giles on ordinary occasions—"you've a right to the place of honor, you know."
Giles deliberated a moment, then spoke.
"Thank you kindly, Mrs. Hodge," he said, "but if it's all the same to you, I'd rather sit opposite this pudding!"

COFFEE WAS IT.
People Slowly Learn the Facts.

"All my life I have been such a slave to coffee that the very aroma of it was enough to set my nerves quivering. I kept gradually losing my health but I used to say 'Nonsense, it don't hurt me.'"

"Slowly I was forced to admit the truth and the final result was that my whole nervous force was shattered. My heart became weak and uncertain in its action and that frightened me. Finally my physician told me, about a year ago, that I must stop drinking coffee or I could never expect to be well again."

"I was in despair, for the very thought of the medicine I had tried so many times nauseated me. I thought of Postum but could hardly bring myself to give up the coffee."
"Finally I concluded that I owed it to myself to give Postum a trial. So I got a package and carefully followed the directions, and what a delicious, nourishing, rich drink it was! Do you know I found it very easy to shift from coffee to Postum and not mind the change at all!"

"Almost immediately after I made the change I found myself better, and as the days went by I kept on improving. My nerves grew sound and steady, I slept well and felt strong and well-balanced all the time."

"Now I am completely cured, with the old nervousness and sickness all gone. In every way I am well once more."
It pays to give up the drink that acts on some like a poison, for health is the greatest fortune one can have.
