William J. Bryan tersely defines the New Nationalism of Theodore Roosevelt as "the doctrine of monarchies, not of republics."

John K. Tener, the Republican candidate for Governor, has sued the North American for criminal libel. The hearing is set for Friday. The move on the part of Tener will give the North American further opportunity to show the dark spots on Tener's hide.

Dr. Stewart has the force, ability and all the general qualifications to make an ideal Senator and every man, without regard to party affiliations, who desires to see an intelligent, earnest, progressive Senator, one who will be a credit to the district, representing the thirty-fourth district in the next Legislature, should vote for Dr. Samuel Cooper Stewart on the 8th day of November.

A careful reading of the editorial and news pages of the Philadelphia Public Ledger will convince any one that its choice for governor of the four candidates is Tener. No newspaper, organization of men, or clique of men, lessened the chances of Mr. Grim's election more than did the utterly silly explanation by the Philadelphia Record of the midnight withdrawal of C. LaRue Munson, and then to cap the climax, on the morning of Mr. Grim's appearance in Centre Hall, asked the candidate to withdraw! Grim would have good reason to swat the Record's editor and lay his hand over the mouth of the Ledger editorial writer.

If the Republican organization in the state and its supporters would be sincere in their laudations of the regular nominee on the Democratic ticket, there would be future hope for Pennsylvania. Berry is not given standing room by an organization Republican, and that is why the encouragement given by this element to Mr. Grim is looked at cross-eyed by the better class of Democrats. Personally Mr. Grim will stand a good test, but he cannot afford to be weighted down in this contest by Republican organization applause. To be politically clean in Pennsylvania one must be hated by the Republican organization, and earn the personal hatred of many of the leaders of that organization.

Dr. Stewart, the Democratic candidate for State Senator, is a man of action at all times—a worker and leader and not a follower. He possesses boundless energy and rare executive ability, and if sent to Harrisburg—which he undoubtedly will be—he will be the Senator for the thirty-fourth district, and no man or set of men will be able to control him or handle him in anyway. He is no man's man at home and will be no man's man at Harrisburg.

Neese Farm Bid to $4500.

The Jacob Neese farm, located near Farmers Mills, containing eighty-three acres, was bid up to $4500 by ex-Commissioner P. H. Meyer, of Centre Hall. A second bidder was William Musser, a brother of Jacob Musser, of near Penns Cave, who a short time ago sold his farm in Kansas.

A. B. Homan, one of the trustees and heirs, of Altoona, had the sale in charge. The price offered was thought to be too low, and consequently there was no sale, but the farm may yet be sold privately.

The C. P. Long Company, of Spring Mills, speak to the Reporter readers through an advertisement in this issue. It will be well for any one in need of the goods advertised by them to call at their store and secure the bargains offered.

LOCALS.

There will be a regular meeting of Progress Grange, Saturday afternoon.

The weather has been cooler during the past week, but pleasant nevertheless.

Mrs. M. L. Riebel, at Farmers Mills, has been ill during the past ten days. Her present condition is somewhat improved.

Miss Estle Ocker and one of the professors at Bucknell University were in Centre Hall on Saturday, guests of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Rossman.

The Lewisburg and Tyrone railroad between Montandon and Millinburg is to be electrified. The service will be a great convenience to the people of that section of country.

Mrs. David Zigler, of Glen Iron, near Millinburg, who is sixty-five years old and totally blind, tripped and fell down a flight of stairs. Her neck was broken and she died almost instantly.

The rain on Friday night, freshened up the wheat plants, and made the wheat fields look more promising than ever. It was the first rain to fall since the 7th. There was a change in temperature on Saturday, the air having a more decided fall feeling.

Miss Mary Fisher is continually improving her farm at Penn Hall, tented by William H. Siskabine. Recently considerable concreting was done, and a building to accommodate a gasoline engine constructed, as well as many other improvements made about the premises.

Rev. D. J. Wolfe, of Taneytown, Maryland, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Durst, in Centre Hall, the beginning of this week. Rev. Wolfe came to Altoona to attend the sessions of the Reformed Synod, and while so near Centre Hall did not miss the opportunity to visit the home of his wife's parents.

Dr. John Barber, accompanied by Miss Mary Barber, of Hazleton, were guests of the former's grandson, Dr. J. V. Foster, in Centre Hall, last week. Mr. Barber is in his eighty-seventh year, but he is remarkably active, and has an altogether clear mind. He was a resident of Millinburg for sixty years, where he practiced his profession.

Commissioner John L. Dunlap attended the funeral of his uncle, William Homan, whose death is mentioned under a proper head. Mr. Dunlap is a descendant of Jacob Homan, who it will be noted, was one of the early settlers immediately west of Centre Hall, and did the first clearing on the land which afterward was known as the Hoffer farms.

One of the first of the farmers in the vicinity of Centre Hall to finish up his corn crop was Harry E. Fye, tenant on the farm of George H. Emerlick. He had thirteen acres planted to the good variety, and husked 1523 single bushels, or an average of one hundred and seventeen bushels per acre. B. H. Arney, a neighbor, also finished his corn crop. His average yield was just two bushels less than that of Mr. Fye's.

Rev. and Mrs. J. J. Glenn, of Huntsdale, during the past week have been guests of Mrs. Glenn's mother, Mrs. Mary J. Goodhart. On Tuesday Rev. Glenn went to Pittsburg as a commissioner to the Pennsylvania State Presbyterian Synod, which opened in that city on Tuesday evening, from the Carlisle Presbytery. After the close of the synod, Rev. Glenn will return home by the way of Centre Hall, and take with him his wife and baby.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Klinger, of Manhattan, Illinois, and their daughter, Miss Vira, are guests of D. K. Geiss and daughters, Mrs. Klinger being a sister of Mr. Geiss. The Klingers were actively engaged in farming for many years, but are now living retired. It is forty-three years since Mrs. Klinger was in Penns Valley, the home of her girlhood, but Mr. Klinger, who is a native of Penn township, was here about seventeen years ago.

Mrs. I. Y. Moyer and daughter, Miss Helen, returned to their Cleveland home a short time ago. The latter just recovered from a serious attack of diphtheria before leaving. They were guests of Mrs. Mary Rearick, mother of Mrs. Moyer. The great care exercised by this family to prevent any spread of the disease is appreciated by the people of Centre Hall. Local Health Inspector James I. Weaver, of Aaronburg, disinfected the Rearick home, and since the inmates have their freedom.

Cotton, rice and persimmons were some of the southern crop specimens brought home by W. S. Rossman, the Oak Hall railroad station master, on his trip to Stuttgart, Arkansas, from which he returned Thursday of last week. His route was by the way of Chicago, and his prime object of making the tour pleasure. He visited his brother, who is one of the professors in the Stuttgart Training school in the city of Stuttgart, Arkansas, and also took a number of side trips. Generally speaking he was well pleased with the country, but he thought it too warm a section to attract him for permanent abode.

Aaronburg.

Clarence Eisenhour is employed in Joseph's Store, at Bellefonte.

Mr. and Mrs. Shull and daughter, of Millheim, spent the Sabbath with the lady's sister, Mrs. John Hains.

Kreider Frank for the winter moved his family to Millin county. His many friends and neighbors were sorry to see him go away.

"Jim" Swabb, of Linden Hall, was in town one day last week. When he left he took a dandy cow he bought from Hal. Crouse along with him.

One of Aaronburg's boss carpenters, Thomas Hull, left for State College again, after spending a week with his family. He thinks State College all right.

Gillard Eisenhour and daughter, Mrs. Mary Weaver, and the latter's daughter Sarah, left on Wednesday morning for Akron, Ohio, where the lady's husband is employed. They will make Akron their future home.

The stork passed through town on Saturday and left a baby with merchant J. W. Krape. Both baby and mother are doing well, and the parents think the winter nights will not be as long as they used to be.

A few weeks ago Mrs. J. G. Meyer, one of the aged ladies in this place, went to Centre Hall and spent some time with her nephew, ex-Commissioner James B. Strohm, and on her return she visited among her many friends at Coburn. She is at home again, and is cozily fixed for the winter.

Robersburg.

Anthony and Sumner Wance, both of Aaronburg, spent last Sunday in town.

Charles Bierly had taken the contract to build a dwelling house for Edwin Gramley, at Millinburg.

Charles Bierly lost by death a valuable colt. The animal tramped on a nail, and lock jaw followed.

The members of the Evangelical church are at present making preparations to put a new roof on their church at this place.

The farmers are hurrying corn-husking at a two forty rate. The crop is an excellent one, and is selling at fifty cents per double bushel.

The other day while Calvin Weaver's hireling was assisting in taking the hay ladders off of a wagon, one of the beams struck him on the head inflicting an ugly scalp wound.

Victor Brungart has returned from his trip to Texas, and is very favorably impressed with that country. He bought a tract of land while there and will move onto it some time in the near future.

Woodward.

Allen Yearick is on the sick list. William Wert, of Booneville, is visiting his sister, Mrs. Glantz.

Rev. Haney and wife, of Madisonburg, were in town Saturday.

James Weaver is ill with pneumonia.

Mrs. Seanson, of Linden Hall, was a visitor at the Eby home on Sunday.

Rev. Dice, of Millheim, and Rev. Reeser, were in town Saturday.

Mrs. Tammie Meyer, of Coburn, spent a day last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Weaver.

Revival services are being held in the Evangelical Association church, conducted by the pastor Rev. E. E. Haney.

Mrs. John Hosterman, of Centre Hill, visited a few days last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Orndorf and brother, Lewis Orndorf.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wieland and daughters, Misses Edwina and Mildred, Mrs. J. H. Keller and son Harry, Mrs. Maggie Swabb and Miss Ruth Ross, all of Linden Hall, spent Sunday very pleasantly at the home of Mrs. R. M. Wolfe, coming down in their new Ford cars.

Jewelry Store for Sale.

The jewelry store of the late George W. Bushman, in Centre Hall, is offered for sale. Will be sold at a reasonable figure. There is a good opening for sales business and repairing. A quick sale is desired. Write or apply in person to the undersigned.

FILIPINO WOMEN.

Their Cares Begin Early, and They Win Husbands by Hard Work.

"Filipino women know how to win husbands," says an American woman who is living at Manila. "It is a common thing in the islands to see a girl, young and heavy, with a strong, crushing rice with a heavy wooden mallet, while around her sit a number of admiring swains, looking on, but never dreaming of offering to help. And the girl doesn't expect it. She pounds cheerfully away, and by and by her reward comes in a husband to work for."

"Life accustoms the Filipino woman to labor at a very early age. As a tiny girl she is rarely seen without an appendage in the shape of a baby brother or sister perched on her little brown hip. When she grows a few inches taller and a few degrees stronger she is pressed into service as a water carrier, bearing heavy jars of water poised gracefully on her head from the river to her home. Now, too, she works in the fields, and a vivid bit of color she makes in her short kilted scarlet skirt. When she becomes a woman—and she is a woman at fifteen or before—she may have a small shop to tend, and there is the rice to beat and much other work to do."

"Marriage brings no vacation. She is pretty sure to have many children to care for. She tends the fields, cooks and frequently has a stall in the market for several hours a day. But when the women are really old then their rest time comes. They sit quietly by, looking on as life goes past them, but taking part no more. In spite of the hard labor they have had there is generally a very peaceful look in the brown, wrinkled faces of these old women."—New York Tribune.

A ROYAL BED.

The Magnificent One That Was Used by Queen Elizabeth.

An interesting description of the magnificence of a bedstead ordered for Queen Elizabeth's use is found in a "wardrobe warrant" dated 1581 and quoted in "Gleanings After Time." It was of walnut tree, richly carved, painted and gilded. The centre, tester and valance were of cloth of silver, figured with velvet, lined with changeable taffeta and deeply fringed with Venice gold, silver and silk. The curtains were of costly tapestry curiously and elaborately worked, every seam and every border laid with gold and silver lace, caught up with long loops and buttons of bullion.

The headpiece was of crimson satin of Bruges, edged with a passamuney of crimson silk and decorated with six ample plumes containing seven dozen ostrich feathers of various colors profusely decorated with gold spangles. The counterpoint was of orange colored satin quilted with cutwork of both of gold and silver and of satins of every imaginable tint embroidered with Venice gold, silver spangles and beautifully colored silks fringed to correspond and lined with orange sarcenet.

This was a queen's bed, but almost equally gorgeous ones were common for several centuries. In the reign of Queen Anne a bedstead put up as a prize in a lottery was reported to have cost over $3,000.—London Family Herald.

Graft in the Household.

The tipping system has become acute now that graft is boldly recognized as "business," and the world has no shame for the majority of workers in the vineyard. A charming young matron exclaimed the other day that graft had even invaded her household. She was asked how that were possible and replied, "I have discovered that my most trusted and faithful maid has been approached by some one who shall be nameless to advise the cook, who is another treasure, to leave me." "But she did not?" "Yes, she did," said the young matron, laughing. "Yes, she did, and I don't blame her for the price. My nice Julia was paid $20 to sell me out, and the cook's wages are about double what I can pay." "A case of bribery." "Not at all—plain, unvarnished graft," was the philosophic response.—Boston Herald.

One of Field's Jokes.

Edward Everett Hale greatly enjoyed a joke which was perpetrated on him by Eugene Field. Field celebrated one of Dr. Hale's visits to Chicago by giving a luncheon in his honor and inviting a number of prominent persons to meet him. "Field was aware," said Dr. Hale, "that I was a temperance man, and therefore I was somewhat surprised to see that the table on which the luncheon was served was very abundantly supplied with bottles labeled 'Whisky,' 'Brandy' and 'Champagne.' But when these bottles came to be uncorked they were all found to contain nothing but water!"

Effective.

A Chicago judge recently rebuked a person who was sitting in the courtroom with his feet placed upon the table by setting him, through a bailiff, a piece of paper on which he had written the following query: "What size boots do you wear?" The feet were at once withdrawn.

No Panic.

"We had a bad fire scare in church today."

"Wood gracious! Was there a panic?"

"Not to notice. The minister preached on the infernal regions."—New York Journal.

Prodigal.

"That fellow seems to be extravagant."

"Hopelessly. He spends his own money just as if it were the government's."—Louisville Courier-Journal.
