On Wednesday Misses Jennie and Ruth Thomas drove from Centre Hall to Curtin to attend the wedding of Miss Margaret Corman, of Curtin, and Edgar Kelley, of Roopsburg.

Many cities, towns and rural communities are suffering for want of water. Centre Hall, up to the present writing, has had an abundance of water furnished by the borough plant. A few days ago there were ten feet of water in the upper reservoir.

In this issue will be found an advertisement announcing an excursion to Texas to leave Coburn, Monday of next week. The excursion will be personally conducted by C. Glenn Nichols of the real estate firm of C. A. Ehnert & Co., Houston, Texas. Read the advertisement carefully.

Messrs. C. T. Foster, of Winfield, and James Bergy, of Millintown, were in Centre Hall Monday and Tuesday. They represent the division of zoology, department of agriculture, each having several counties in which they do work for the department named. The gentlemen are assisting each other in their districts, which accounts for Mr. Bergy being in Mr. Foster's territory.

W. H. Lucas, of near Centre Hill, is much elated over a trip to Northern Illinois, and was much interested in the advanced methods of handling the large crops of oats and corn grown in that section. In one bin he saw 5000 bushels of oats stored, which had not been touched with hands from the time it was sown until fed in the form of chop to cows and steers. This was on the farm of John Dauberman, a distant relative. Mr. Lucas also visited F. W. Sweetwood at Symerton, Illinois, who is making the soil produce profitably.

Everywhere the merry sound of the sleigh bells lend enchantment to the winter season.

The thank offering service held by the ladies' home and foreign missionary society of the Lutheran church, of this place, was a great success. Although the inclement weather kept some away, the church was comfortably filled, and the entire program was gone through with confidence and zest. When the exercises were drawing to a close, the pastor, Rev. B. F. Bieber, made a short address in which he left the thought, "what do we believe, and how hard do we believe it." It is certain that the audience was well pleased and benefited as was shown by their close attention.
