NORTH MAGNETIC POLE.

It Is Not a Stationary Point, but Is

Constantly Shifting. Guly the experts understand that the north pole and the north magnetic pole are two entirely different things. As a matter of fact, there are few localities on the earth's surface where the compass points due north. The reason is because the north magnetic pole or area lies in the vicinity of King Willlam's Land, just off the arctic coast of North America, in Bothnia. When this magnetic pole is between us and the north pole the compass points due north. As we go either east or west from this line it is easy to see that the compass is off to a certain degree. If we were to travel north of the magnetic pole the needle would point south; west of it the needle would point east. Sir James Ross in 1831 located the north magnetic pole approximately at a point up in Bothnia. In 1903 Captain Roald Amundsen in the ship Gjoa set out on a three years' expedition, relocated the magnetic pole and made the "northwest passage" for which mariners have striven since the days of Henry Hudson. Terrestrial magnetic force is different, in every part of the earth's surface and is not always the same at a given point. It is subject to regular daily and yearly changes. Amundsen posted himself near the seat of the magnetic power and for nineteen months, readings of their instruments, both inclination and declination. He also made short excursions into the region of the magnetic pole and was able by the aid of the declination observations to prove that the magnetic north pole does not have a stationary situation, but is continually moving. But the general location is where Sir James Ross first had the honor to place it .-

BOSTON LIGHT.

It Is Said to Be the Oldest Harbor Beacon In America.

The outer light of Boston harbor is Boston light, eight miles below the city and at the very outer end of the channel that ocean liners follow. It stands on Little Brewster island, a James W. Boal, of this place, who pile of rocks partly grassed over in its gentle hollow on the sheltered side.

Mrs. Charles Segner and daughter, and boilers in which steam is kept up continually to operate the siren foghorns. Their great trumpet-like forms protrude through the wall of the building on the seaward side. In foggy weather one can hear from the open windows the faroff mooing of the foghorn on the Boston lightship, seven nfles away, as the keepers on the lightship can hear this one at Boston

An old cannon lies on the ground near the lighthouse. It was provided by the Cunard Steamship company before the foghorn was installed to give signals. It is unused now. But in addition to the great revolving light in the tower there is a set of red and white range lights that give the location of anchorage for vessels in the channel. If they see red it means that they are out of their proper location, but if white they are safe .- New York Mail.

The Son Captain Librarian. At the Melbourne university council Justice Higgins remarked that he had his time. He knew one Australian institute that bad appointed a retired sea captain to the office. That honest worthy catalogued Max Muller's "Chips From a German Workshop" under the heading of "Carpentry." He should have some fun with Ruskin's titles when it comes to classifying "Sheepfolds" and the "Ethics of timbers for a stable which is to be the Dust."-London Chronicle.

The Largest Poultry Plant in Central Pennsylvania VISITORS WELCOME EVERY DAY BUT SUNDAY.

YES, the price of eggs has taken quite a drop—caused by the cold storage packers placing a large amount of storage goods on the market at a heavy loss to them. Having lost a large amount of money they will not store so many this spring, which will cause a more healthy market for the fresh eggs and high prices again this year.

Our orders for day-old chicks, eggs for hatching, feed, incubators and brooders, are the largest by far of any season since we have been in the business. We are receiving orders almost every day for the New Chas. A. Cyphers Buffalo Incubator and Brooder. The 1911 Chas. A. Cyphers New Buffalo Incubator and Brooder is, without a question, the finest on the market and the price is the very lowest (quality considered). Come and see them and be convinced of the many good features not found in

It is a pleasure for us to sell these goods when we know how satisfactory they are to the user of them. The Colony Brooder is quite an improvement over last year's make, having done away with the wood fiber. The Brooder is "SELF REGULATING" AND IS CONSIDERED PERFECT.
