

Palmer Democratic Chairman.
George W. Guthrie, ex-Mayor of Pittsburgh, and Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer, of Monroe county, were chosen respectively to be State chairman and national committeeman of the Democratic party of Pennsylvania, by a four to three vote of the special committee of seven appointed under the State Committee resolution of March 2. The meeting held in Harrisburg Tuesday, at times very exciting, was in two sessions, afternoon and night. The four who voted to supplant State Chairman Dewalt with Guthrie and to give Colonel Guffey's place to Palmer, were Congressman William B. Wilson, Vance C. McCormick, Joseph J. O'Brien and Benjamin F. Davis. The three opposing votes were from the members appointed by State Chairman Dewalt—Charles P. Donnelly, Robert E. James and Walter E. Ritter.

Preferred Strangers to Father.
About three years ago, Lewis Foust, of Potter township, placed a son, Jonas, then aged ten years, into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Auman, their contract as to wages, time he should remain, etc., being a verbal one. The lad remained there perfectly contented until Tuesday when he was taken by Sheriff Hurley on a writ of habeas corpus.
It appears the father did not want his son to accompany Mr. Auman to Phoenixville, to which place he moved on Wednesday, but was unable to induce the boy to leave the Auman home without force. When brought into court on Wednesday morning, the youth stated that he had been used well by Mr. and Mrs. Auman, and preferred to continue to make his home with them. Mr. Auman was not represented in court. Judge Orvis ordered that the boy be given into the custody of his father.

School Directors Terms Extended.

In this issue appears the announcement of Frank W. Grebe, of Phillipsburg, as a candidate for county treasurer, subject to the Democratic primaries. Mr. Grebe has been identified for some years with the active Democratic workers in his section of the county. In a letter accompanying his announcement, Mr. Grebe asks the Reporter to state that he will call personally on voters on the south side.

A car load of horses and a car load of cows were shipped from the Centre Hall railroad station on Wednesday. The cows were shipped by J. W. Mitterling, and the horses by Gus Eikburg, assisted by Alexander McCoy, of Potters Mills. The horses were a mixed lot, and were sent to Washington, and no doubt will find their way further south. Mr. Eikburg will continue buying horses for the same market.

The sale held by Jacob Meyer of near Boalsburg, was one of the largest in the valley, the total sales summing up to $4009.90, $3500.00 of which was the individual property of Mr. Meyer, the difference representing horses, etc., brought there by outside parties and sold as such. The highest priced horse sold at $288. A sow, with nine pigs by her side two weeks old, sold for $62.00. Cows and young cattle also sold high, but they were fine stock. Mr. Meyer, beside his own help, had William Swabb assisting in caring for his stock, and every animal looked it, because it was clean and in fine shape. The Meyers have long had a reputation for keeping fine horses and cattle, and while Jacob Meyer is the last to vacate the Old Meyer homestead he kept up the reputation of his elders in this particular.

He Told Her She Would Return to Him, and She Did.
She entered the room hastily.

He was awaiting her.
"I was afraid you would be thinking I had forgotten," she said.
"No," he responded calmly, in the tone of one who is master of himself. "An engagement is an engagement with me."

She was a beautiful girl. A wealth of chestnut hair rippled below the wide brim of her bonnet. Her close fitting tailored gown yielded to every movement of her supple form.

He was a bit above the average height, a clean cut, square chinled chap, whose every expression bespoke self reliance. As he looked at her his glance was deferential, yet not timid.

"It has been a long while since we saw each other," he remarked.

"Yes, nearly a year," she replied.
"But do you remember when I left that time you said I would have to come back?"

"Yes. You should have come sooner than this."

"But I have been so busy—going and coming, dances, dinners, the theater and all."

"I know. And you were married too?"

His voice did not tremble as he asked this, yet across her face there flashed a quick tinge of humiliation.

"I—I would rather not speak of that," she observed, almost coldly.

"That is all over. We—we—it was to be expected. The truth is we were not meant for each other. So I—I got a divorce."

"It was better so, no doubt," he responded gently. "Won't you sit down?"

She took the chair he indicated, and as he looked down at her she flashed him a sudden smile.

"I was afraid of you the last time," she said merrily.

"But you are not afraid now?"

His voice seemed to give her assurance. She smiled again.

"No, indeed!"

He put his fingers beneath her dimpled chin and tilted her bonny head back, then gazed at her earnestly. Her limpid eyes looked up at him trustingly. The rose pink of her cheeks came and went fitfully. The white of her throat throbbled with each breath. He bent nearer to her, still with that fixed gaze. Her lips were parted.

He raised his head, and she looked out of the window silently.

There was a pause. At last she spoke.

"What are you studying about? What have you decided?"

"I think I'll have to fill two of your teeth," he said quietly. "The rest are all right. You have taken better care of them than most women do."—Life.
