Dr. J. B. Hingley, secretary of the board of conference claimants, stated that more than $200,000 had been raised to ease the burdens of the old ministers, and that before the close of 1911 the fund will reach close to $400,000.

Married.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Zeigler, at Rebersburg, Calvin M. Stover, of Woodward, and Miss Emma Adleman, of Hosterman, Virginia, on March 8th, by Rev. N. A. Whitman.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Brungart, at Rebersburg, March 18th, Allen R. Geiswite, of Rebersburg, and Miss Nora M. Brungart, of near Wolfs Store, by Rev. N. A. Whitman, of the Lutheran church, Rebersburg.

LOCALS.

Miss Bell Byers, of Chambersburg, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. E. S. Ripka.

Thomas Scholl, who for eight years was tenant on the Zeigler farm in Haines township, on Wednesday, moved to the Fiedler farm, east of Madisonburg.

E. S. Ripka advertises a sale of household goods at his home at Centre Hall, Saturday afternoon. Mr. Ripka expects to move to Bellefonte.

John A. Heckman moved from the Gregg farm to the Dr. Lieb farm, east of Centre Hall, on Tuesday. This farm was vacated by John A. Korman, who moved to below Millsburg on a farm he purchased some months ago.

John H. Wagner had a good sale, in Georges Valley, on Saturday. The sum total was a bit over $1200. One horse, purchased by W. W. McCormick, brought $230, and another sold for $1.25, but at that price it was considered high, since it had a blemish or two.

W. F. Rishel, of Farmers Mills, was well pleased with his sale held last week. He sold some fine young horses and colts, but now expects to breed better ones from the thoroughbred brood mares purchased some time ago. He has some splendid types of draft mares, that ought to bring first class colts.

Rev. J. Max Lantz accompanied by Mrs. Lantz, attended the Methodist conference at Bloomsburg, returning to Spring Mills on Monday. It was their fortune to be returned to the old pastorate, and this is also appreciated by the members of his charge as well as by others who do not belong to his particular flock.

George Boone, who lives with his grandfather, James Wert, at Aarohsburg, while standing outside of his home, was hit on the nose by a piece of a cartridge shell that had been exploded by some mischievous boys. While the wound is not considered dangerous, it is exceedingly painful. The young man has no clue to the perpetrators of the deed.

Married 45 Years.

On Tuesday of last week it was forty-five years since Rev. W. H. Groh united in marriage Miss Phoebe Weber and J. Henry Meyer, both of Boalsburg, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Weber. This was March 15, 1866, a dreary, rainy day. After partaking of a wedding breakfast the groom and his bride started on their wedding trip in a carriage, the groom's brother being the driver. The first obstacle found in the path of this young couple was placed there, so it is said by good authority, by John Q. A. Kennedy. It was a rope fastened taut across the roadway, a common barrier in those days, and not unlooked for by these young people. The easy removal of this obstruction evidently indicated to them that all subsequent barriers in their lives could be overcome by the use of their best efforts, and it proved so. The first stop on this eventful honeymoon journey was at the home of the elder Felix Burkholder; thence to Reedsville and Lewisport, where they boarded the train for Harrisburg. Two weeks or more were spent among relatives in the eastern counties, and then they returned to enter the struggle with the rest of mankind. They began housekeeping on a farm west of State College, afterwards they moved to near Centre Hall, a short time at Linden Hall, and in 1876 they located on a farm west of Boalsburg, where they continued farming for thirty years, and four years ago Boalsburg was again made their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Meyer are the parents of four children, and while they have had sickness in the family, death never yet entered their home. Surley goodness and mercy followed them all the days of their lives, as says the Psalmist.

On the evening first named above, a surprise was planned and effectively carried out by the children of Mr. and Mrs. Meyer, and some of the good neighbors. The couple were induced to go to the old home, presided over by Miss Annie Weber, in Boalsburg, for supper, and while they were enjoying the freshly recalled incidents of almost a half century ago, others were busy in the Meyer home fitting it for the event unlooked for by the bride and groom of forty-five years. At last everything was in readiness, the room having been decorated in lavender and white, and the figures "45" prominently displayed. There were bouquets of carnations, hydrangeas and jonquils, for an anniversary like this would not be complete without the pretty, suggestive flowers.

The scene upon the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Meyer in their own home the writer will not attempt to describe, because it is impossible to do so.

Elaborate refreshments were served; there was music, recitations and speeches. Of the guests present there were but two who were at the wedding, namely, Miss Weber, who was but a tot at that time, and Mrs. Sarah Musser Sweeney, who was a bosom friend and all through these years continued as such.

From the brothers who could not be present there were letters of regret as well as remembrances, and the latter were also received from the friends present. There was much good wishing on the part of the guests, and especially that Mr. and Mrs. Meyer should be able to celebrate their fiftieth anniversary and others in addition.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Meyer, George E. Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. Nevin Meyer, Mrs. W. E. Gettig, Mr. and Mrs. William McTearnsburg and son John Henry, Miss Anna M. Weber, Mrs. J. P. Weber, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Sweeney, Rev. and Mrs. S. Charles Stover and son Elwood, John Hook, Adam Felty, Mr. and Mrs. John Fortney, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Sover and son Riley, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Harro, Mr. and Mrs. H. Hosterman and sons Charles and Frank, Mr. and Mrs. William Goben, Miss Lucretia Goben, Miss Della Ishler, Mr. and Mrs. L. Mothersbaugh, Mrs. E. A. Fisher, Mrs. Alice Magoffin, Mrs. M. A. Woods, Mrs. Elizabeth Myers, Mrs. E. E. Brown, Mrs. Susanna Ishler, Mrs. C. W. Corl.

Last week mention was made of the fact that Sheriff Hurley, by command of the court, brought Jonas Foust before the judge, and that the court gave the youth over to the care of his father, Lewis Foust, against the boy's will. Young Foust was placed in the home of John Bubb, at Red Mill, by his father, but he was discontented there, and on Monday night he arose from his bed, saying he was sick and wanted to go down stairs. That was the last seen of him in that quarter. Rumor has it that the boy, thirteen years of age, that night went to Coburn, and in the morning took the train at Coburn for Phoenixville, where it is supposed he again joined the Jerome Auman family with whom he had lived for three or more years. The sheriff was about Potters Mills on Tuesday, and it is said he was looking for some one not old enough to vote for him for Republican county chairman, and the conclusion was drawn that that he was hunting "Yony," as the boys know him.

In times past the country listened to the call of the city, but a change both social and economic, has taken place and the country calls the city, a condition which will, no doubt, be an uplift to social and industrial conditions in general. An example of this is the coming to the farm of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Zeigler, of Altoona, and Prof. W. F. Zeigler, of near Philadelphia, both of whom had been called to the cities a number of years ago. The brothers named together with the former's wife have taken charge of the John Zeigler farm, in Haines township, vacated by Mr. Zeigler in 1880, and since which time four tenants—David Bowersox, Henry Zeigler, John Bubb, and Thomas Scholl—have occupied the place for three, ten, ten and eight years, respectively.
