

DEATHS.

Samuel Wilson Barr died at his home at Tyrone after a brief illness from kidney and heart troubles, Saturday evening. He was born near Lewistown, April 25, 1834, and died at the age of seventy-seven years. When a young man he taught school near Linden Hall, and later followed clerking in a general store in McVeytown, after which he entered the hardware business in Williamsport. During the Civil War he was register and recorder of Mifflin county. In 1886 he went to Tyrone and became a partner of James A. Crawford in the hardware business. He sold out his interest in the store in 1872 and became bookkeeper for the McCamant and Harper planing mill, which later became the McCamant & Company mill. He served in this last capacity until the time of his death. He served a term as burgess of Tyrone and later as councilman.

On November 27, 1867, he was united in marriage at Potters Mills to Miss Mary E. Stiver, to which union were born three children, two of whom with their mother survive—W. C. and Miss Elsie S. Barr—one son, Ralph, having passed away in 1879. He was the son of the late Samuel and Sibella Barr. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon in the First Presbyterian church at Tyrone.

Mrs. Reuben Crust, aged about fifty-two years, died at her home near Fillmore. Interment was made Monday. A husband and five sons survive.

Cave and then to Centre Hall. From here they started for Bellefonte, thence to State College, Pennsylvania Furnace and Spruce Creek.

Every morning William H. Moyer, of near Colyer, hauls into the Seven Mountains from ten to fifteen berry pickers and in the evening they and the day's crop of berries are brought out into the valley. From two to five hundred quarts of the berries are gathered in this way every day. Mr. Moyer buys the berries from the pickers, and hauls them to the Lewistown district where they are resold.

Mrs. L. R. Custer and son Philip, of Munnhall, are at the Centre Hall hotel. Mrs. Custer before her marriage was Miss Mary Miller, youngest daughter of Rev. J. K. Miller, and claims Centre Hall as her old home. Mr. Custer holds a responsible position with one of the large steel concerns in the Pittsburgh district. The Custers just returned from an extended tour through the Virginias in a Packard touring car, which is their way of travelling when Mr. Custer accompanies the family.

Way back in the early sixties, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Johnston McCloskey, and their three sons left Sprucetown for the west, finally locating at Clay Center, Nebraska, where both the elder McCloskeys died. Two of the sons—William F. and Horatio B.—are now living at Clay Center, and David E., at Girard, Kansas, all engaged in farming. William F. arrived in Centre Hall on Monday, and in company with G. L. Goodhart called at the Reporter office on Tuesday. The dry weather very much interfered with the development of the crops in Nebraska, the oats being almost a total failure, and the pastures being dried up. As a rule, Mr. McCloskey says the crops are good in that section of the west, and farming is done with much less labor than in Pennsylvania.

With the new automatic oiling system the interior frame construction of the DeLaval cream separator is so designed that the oil is caught up by the revolving gears and distributed in a fine mist-like spray, not only between the meshing gears, as in other machines, but throughout the length of every shaft and bearing of the machine. This results in such complete and thorough lubrication that all of the metal surfaces are practically floating in oil at all times and literally never touch each other during their operation. The machines are sold by D. W. Bradford, at Centre Hall. Call him over the Bell lines or write, and he will be at your service.

Buy it now. Now is the time to buy a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed before the summer is over. This remedy has no superior. For sale by all dealers.

Why Cream Tests Vary.

The United States Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Animal Industry, Washington, D. C., in circular No. 10, gives various reasons why cream tests vary. The circular says:

"The conditions affecting the efficiency of skimming and the relative amounts of cream and skim milk which may cause variations in the test of cream are as follows: The breed of cattle, period of lactation, length of intervals between milkings, change of feed, change of milkers, exposure of cattle to bad weather, rough treatment, unusual excitement or sickness, change in the temperature of milk, variation in richness of milk, acidity of milk, variation of the speed of the separator, variation in the steadiness of the bowl, rate of flow into the machine, adjustment of the cream screw, and the amount of flush water used."

A meeting of the W. C. T. U will be held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. J. W. Whitman.

The Tin Plated Tomato and the Moral That Goes With It.

A good theory that won't work isn't half as good as a poor one that will.

Twenty years ago a young man just out of college had a great idea. He was going to tin plate tomatoes. There was to be no more troublesome paring and cooking and canning to preserve tomatoes throughout winters. It would be necessary only to drop a nice ripe tomato into his tinning solution and it would come out coated with tin and would keep for twenty years. In fact, there wasn't any reason why it should not keep forever! The young inventor figured it would cost him 50 cents a gallon to make this tinning solution. It surely would sell for $2 a gallon. Every one eats tomatoes—that is, nearly every one. Everybody would eat them if they could always have a nice tin plated tomato lying around. He ought to sell a million gallons a year. That would be a profit of a million and a half dol— Well, no tin plated tomatoes are on the market yet, and the man who invented them is still making only $15 a week.

The moral of this is that whenever you hear of a great idea that is going to reform or uplift the world make sure that it is not of the tin plated tomato brand.—Chicago Tribune.

Willing to Divide.

Cobble—I should like to lend you that $10, old man, but I know how it would be if I did. It would end our friendship. Stone—Well, old chap there has been a great deal of friendship between us. I think if you could make it five we might worry along on half as much.—Life.

The Fateful Message.

Hubby—Didn't I telegraph you not to bring your mother with you? Wifey—I could not help it, Frank. She insisted on coming after she'd read your telegram.

Genuine benevolence is not stationary, but peripatetic. It goes about doing good.—Nevinis.

THERE IS NO PLOW SUPERIOR TO THE SYRACUSE RIDING PLOW

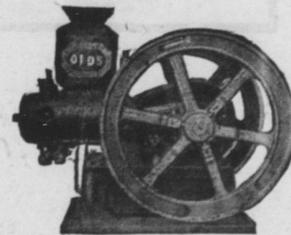

It plows the same depth the whole day long; sticks to the ground in stormy soil; can be well handled on rocky hillsides. It leaves no dead furrows to wash; will throw the soil up hill better than any other plow made; it is strong enough to do its work, yet not clumsy. It is made for two or three horses.

THINK THIS OVER

You say you can make more from your surplus than a life insurance policy will make for you.

How much comfort of mind will your "increased earnings" bring you when you are ill and face the question of your family's needs? Mental worry and illness combined speeds death.

Mental ease contributes to longevity.

A Royal Union policy is the greatest balm in the world for that feeling of uncertainty about your family's future if you are no longer here to provide for them, and for the time when age will impair your activity. No policy is better secured or yields a better return than the one issued by the Royal Union.
