

THE CENTRE REPORTER.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 24, 1911.

County Christian Temperance Union.

The annual convention of the Centre County Christian Temperance Union is to be held in the W. C. T. U. Petrikin Hall, at Bellefonte, August 29th and 30th. Mrs. Ella M. George, State President, is to make the annual address on Tuesday evening.

A Flowing Well.

Philip Durst, one of the progressive farmers below Centre Hall, was one of the most fortunate men, the latter part of last week. At a depth of sixty feet, water was struck which for several hours rose to the surface and overflowed. The well was drilled by Al. P. Kraspe, of Centre Hall, who next will begin drilling for Roland Treaster, at Centre Hill.

LOCALS.

The Sunday-school at Pine Stump will open next Sunday at two o'clock. After the Sunday-school session is over, Dr. W. H. Schuyler will hold services.

After being confined to bed for the greater part of the time since June, Mrs. Lizzie Hasenplug, of Spring Bank, is able to be about again. She suffered from heart trouble.

Harry V. Gentzel sold his property in Penn township to W. B. Muser and George Decker, of Gregg township. Mr. Gentzel will move to Millin county in the spring.

Messrs. Boise Brown and Elmer Miller, and Misses Blanche Moyer and Myra Rockey, all of Tusseyville, were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cummings, at Centre Mills.

A cement walk was laid on the diamond fronting the residence of M. L. Emerick. The walk is considered one of the best in the town, and was laid by Messrs. Mingle and Booser.

The September Woman's Home Companion is the advance fall fashion number of that periodical. It contains an immense amount of fashion news that will interest and be of practical service to women.

The Centre Hall school board is short a teacher, John Wetzel, of Rebersburg, who was elected to that position some time ago, having resigned. It is Mr. Wetzel's intention to take up civil engineering.

State College borough has decided that it wants to own its own water plant, and has offered to buy out the local water company's plant. If the company refuses to sell the borough will proceed to condemn it.

Rev. S. H. Deitzel attended the sessions of Chautauquas, at Chautauquas, New York, for a week, but is now back again to Centre Hall, where he is spending his vacation period. Next week he and Mrs. Deitzel will return to Pleasant Unity, in the Pittsburgh district.

Lock Haven, the most beautiful city on the west branch of the Susquehanna, is the location of the Central State Normal School, an institution which ranks among the very best in the state. It is not only strong as an educational institution but the management of the school have developed a home like spirit and in this way, it fosters a development of character. Its students therefore leave the school with higher ideals of life and living and are better citizens in consequence. The fall term begins September 11th. Write for its catalog.

Aaronsburg.

Miss Mertz visited at the home of W. H. Phillips.

Miss Florence Orwig is visiting her grandparents at Hartleton.

Mrs. C. C. Bell, of Huntingdon, is visiting relatives and friends in this place.

The Citizens Band played at the festival held at Madisonburg on Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stambaugh, of Lock Haven, visited at the home of E. G. Mingle.

Mrs. Kathryn Bower Snyder, of Milton, is the welcome guest of Prof. C. E. Kreamer.

Mrs. Thomas Schaffer, of Dakots, Illinois, visited at the home of Mrs. (Dr.) E. J. Dasher.

Mr. Campbell and family, of Lock Haven, were the welcome guests of J. H. Crouse over Sunday.

Mrs. Sue Rote died on Monday at the age of seventy-one years. She was always a faithful worker in the Reformed church.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierce Vonada, of Coburn, spent Saturday at the Reformed parsonage, being the guests of Rev. W. D. Donat.

Mrs. John Rote, of Axe Mann, and Jerad Harper, of Bellefonte, were guests of Mrs. Sue Rote (now deceased) last week.

After an absence of several months, during which time she visited friends in the western states, Miss Mabelle Crouse returned to her home.

Miss Mildred Acker, one of the accomplished young ladies of this place, who is employed in Chicago, is spending her vacation with her parents and friends here.

Miss Mary Kerstetter, of State College, and Master John Williams, of Lemont, are spending some time with their aunt, Rebecca Snyder, at the home of Z. D. Thomas.

Courtaut the Wolf.

Paris has forgotten the time when it used to go in terror of the wolves which carried off women and children from the streets and even raided the graveyards. At one time they became so mad with desire for human flesh that in a single week they devoured fourteen persons, all between Montmartre and the gate of St. Antoine. On the vigil of St. Martin (says Grace James in "Joan of Arc") there was hunted and taken a horrible wolf, "which it was said had done more, and more cruelly, than many others put together. That day he was killed. He had no tail, and from that he was called Courtaut. There was as much talk about him as if he had been an outlaw of the woods or a cruel captain, and when he lived folk said to one another as they went forth to labor in the fields, 'Look out for Courtaut!' And on this day he was taken through Paris in a cart, dead, with his great jaws open, and all the people went to see, and they made half day and rejoiced, because Courtaut could trouble them no more."

Rented Wedding Cakes.

There was something wrong with the cake, the baker said. It looked all right, and it smelled all right, but his artistic sense told him it would not taste all right.

"Then fix it up with an extra coat of icing and we will keep it for a renter," said the proprietor.

"Who in the world would rent a cake?" some one asked.

"Wedding parties," said he. "They want a big cake in the center of the table for show, but a cake of that size good enough for a wedding would cost more than they can afford to pay, so they order fine cake put up in individual boxes for the guests and use the bride's cake just as an ornament. They don't buy it; they rent it. Sometimes a cake is rented a dozen different times. After each wedding it is freshened up with a new coat of icing and looks as good as new for the next occasion. A good renter fetches about $3 a wedding."—New York Press.

Sarcastic Cabby.

A certain nobleman, who may be called Lord X., bears the reputation of being somewhat stingy in money matters. On a wet afternoon he hired a cab to take him to Victoria station. Arrived at the station, he handed the cabman a shilling and of course was met by the inevitable demand for an extra sixpence.

"Certainly not," said the other promptly. "You came the longest way as an excuse to extort money. Why didn't you go through St. James' park?"

The cabman saw he had no chance and said sneeringly: "Cos St. James' park is closed. That's why."

"Nonsense," said the other sternly. "It's right, though," was the grave reply. "They say that Lord X. dropped a shilling coming across the park last evening, and the gates are closed until they find it."—London Tit-Bits.

Shut Her Up.

A young wife was continuously pestered by her mother-in-law about the way she was bringing up her firstborn babe. The young wife was intelligent and capable, and she was really doing very well with the baby. From her mother-in-law, however, she got nothing but sour advice, warnings and veiled abuse. One day the mother-in-law, looking fixedly at the mother with her baby on her lap, said angrily: "A woman has no right to have a child if she doesn't know how to hold it."

"No, nor a tongue either," was the quiet reply.—Detroit Free Press.

Berlin.

"Berle," from which Berlin has caught her name, means uncultivated land. Slavonian Wends, the earliest settlers on the sandy plain, could make but little out of the soil. The population in 1832 was only 250,000. Less than forty years later it was 800,000, and now it runs into 2,000,000. The man who gave to Berlin its present form was Frederick II., but Frederick the Great and the Great Elector started the noble hobby of beautifying the wonderful city.

The Mantle of Charity.

The lady was making some remarks about the kind of clothing some other ladies at church had on.

"The finest garment a woman can wear," said her husband, "is the mantle of charity."

"Yes," she snapped, "and it is about the only dress, judging by the fuss they make over the bills, that some husbands want their wives to wear."

Sweden's "Church Boat."

The "church boat" is a popular institution in Sweden. It brings families to service from the farms around Lake Siljan to Leksand. The water route is the nearest and most convenient, and so the big boat goes from farm to farm along the shore picking up the churchgoers, who later return by the same route.—Wide World Magazine.

Counting the Cost.

"What's the cost of a marriage license?" asked a youth whose fancy had lightly turned to thoughts of conjugal felicity.

"Well," answered his friend, "30 shillings down and your entire salary each week for the rest of your life!"—London Telegraph.

Where Time Doesn't Count.

A party of East Indian natives were found sitting in a row on the platform of a station after the train had left, and, being asked the reason, one of the men replied, "Oh, sahiv, we are waiting till the tickets are cheaper."

HOW MONT ALTO IS SAVING LIVES.

This Case of Young Man from Huntingdon Is Typical of Hundreds of Others.

The following news story, which was published in the Huntingdon Globe of Aug. 10, 1911, gives an excellent idea of the kind of work that is being done by the State Department of Health for Pennsylvania's tuberculous poor under the supervision of State Health Commissioner Samuel G. Dixon:

Lemuel Adams, who was employed as a coatmaker in the tailoring establishment of F. W. Baldwin in Huntingdon, left here in April, 1909, presumably in the last stages of tuberculosis. He had fallen off in weight, was as thin as a match, as pale as death, and when he left here two years and four months ago none of his friends ever expected to see him in the flesh again.

But Lem was in town on Monday, and he wasn't in a box, either. He was here in citizens' clothes, looking as brown as an Indian, and feeling as frisky as a colt. From Huntingdon Mr. Adams went to Mont Alto, Franklin county, where he entered the state institution for tubercular cases and became an obedient patient under Dr. Johnston, the man in charge.

For three months Mr. Adams occupied a bed in the hospital, where it took mighty close watching to keep body and soul together, but Mr. Adams won out, and in midsummer he was sent to the camp, where he did nothing but eat and sleep and breathe the fresh air of the South mountains. He remained there eighteen months, and was in the open all the time. Many a day he rose from his bed with the snow on his pillows and blankets, but he improved right along, and in March he was discharged.

Mr. Adams is now selling lightning rods, which gives him constant outdoor employment. He will never resume the tailoring business for fear of a recurrence of his trouble. He now eats like a wood chopper, sleeps like a baby and is as strong and robust as a youngster in his teens. For years Mr. Adams' normal weight was 132 pounds. Now it is 137. When he left Huntingdon in April, 1909, he weighed 110.

The splendid condition of our friend is remarkable. Indeed, he is a living monument to the patience and skill of the men who have charge of the state institution at Mont Alto. Dr. H. C. Frontz, of Huntingdon, sent Adams to Mont Alto, and on Monday when he gazed upon the shadow of two years ago he could scarcely believe his own eyes.

Capt. Williams Postmaster

Capt. H. S. Williams will soon be Bellefonte's postmaster, his appointment to that place having been sent to the senate Saturday, and was confirmed the same day. Col. T. H. Harter's term expired in March. This was a pure case of "outs" wanting and getting "in."

Seemed to Give Him a New Stomach.

"I suffered intensely after eating and no medicine or treatment I tried seemed to do any good," writes H. M. Youngpeters, Editor of The Sun, Lake View, Ohio. "The first few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets gave me surprising relief and the second bottle seemed to give me a new stomach and perfectly good health." For sale by all dealers.
