Smith-Wilson.

Sunday evening at the bride's home in Millheim, L. Earl Smith and Miss Jennie Wilson were united in holy wedlock by Rev. J. Max Lantz. The groom is a resident of Potters Mills where the couple will make their home. Congratulations.

Coburn Girl Missing.

Miss Nora Kling, daughter of Henry Kling, disappeared from her home near Coburn last spring and up to this time nothing has been heard from her. Last week her mother died, and every effort was made to locate her, but so far without success. Prior to her disappearance Nora had been an inmate of the Danville asylum, but was sent home as her mental condition had improved. When she left home she left a note stating that she had gone away to be married. Any person who knows of her whereabouts will confer a favor by informing her father, Henry Kling, of Coburn, Pa.

LOCALS.

Rev. J. R. Sechrist, of Bellwood, was in town for several days last week.

Preaching services will be held at the Pine Stump school house Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Miss Cora Luse, daughter of Clement Luse, is a student in the Central State Normal School, in Lock Haven. Last spring she took a course in music at Freeburg.

William G. Fisher, of Sunbury, was through the valley beginning of this week advertising the American Union scrap tobacco. He is a regular salesman for the makers of these goods, and Centre Hall is on his trade line.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Spicher, formerly school teachers in Centre county, are spending a three weeks' vacation among friends in this vicinity, and attended the Encampment. Mr. Spicher is one of thirteen hundred employees in the postoffice at Pittsburgh.

Messrs. Harry A. Hoy and J. A. Creamer, the former of Oak Hall, and the latter from State College, were Reporter callers last week. They are both progressive young men. Mr. Hoy is operating the Homan farm, and Mr. Creamer is engaged in threshing.

The Pennsylvania State College had a very pretty exhibit in the center of the large building devoted to the display of fruit, vegetables, antiques, etc. The ladies especially appreciated the effort the institution put forth, and several hundred ferns and plants of various kinds were purchased by them.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Shirk, of Glenn Iron, made their annual trip to Centre county last week. Mrs. Shirk spent most of the time with her parents in Georges Valley, but on Wednesday and Thursday she and her husband, who cast aside the huckstering business for a few days, attended the great gathering on Grange Park.

Among the Reporter's callers on Tuesday was E. J. Yearick, a contractor of East Pittsburgh, who came to the valley in company with Joseph Swisher, of Bellefonte, the latter being on the hunt of horses for lumbering. Mr. Yearick is the son of Jacob Yearick, who fifty-five years ago left the Allison saw mill along Penns Creek, near Spring Mills, to locate at Jacksonville.

Dr. G. W. Hosterman is in Lancaster, with his son, S. V. Hosterman, Esq. Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Shaw, who for a long time have been at the Hosterman home, are now at State College. Mr. Shaw has been in the various parts of the state making a soil survey for the national government, but now has resumed his work at Pennsylvania State College, being on the experiment station staff under Dr. Hunt.

Among the several hundred automobiles that brought pleasure seekers to Grange Park last week, was that of Dr. George W. Krumbine. The Doctor, his wife and three daughters came from Ashville to the Camp on Wednesday and remained over Thursday. It was the first trip the ladies made to Penns Valley in their car, and since the distance was traveled swiftly and without a mishap of any kind pleasure was added. Dr. Krumbine is enjoying a very good practice in Ashville, which town has a fine field around it from which he draws a large portion of his practice.

A Very Large Mine.

There was once in Cripple Creek an odd character named Burns. He was an odd person who always, no matter what his work, wore what used to be called a "Prince Albert." He struck a rich vein of ore and named that the Prince Albert. Being of a generous and convivial disposition, this lucky fellow was, of course, surrounded by many self-seeking friends. When he and they were in their cups some of them, with an eye to the main chance, managed to wheedle out of Burns on one pretext or another a deed of a share in his mine. With royal prodigality he scattered deeds about among his retainers and camp followers until finally something had to be done, and the case was taken into court. One of the lawyers had Burns on the stand. "Now, Mr. Burns," said the lawyer, "will you please tell the court how you can explain your conduct? The evidence shows that you have deeded away twenty-nine twenty-fourths of your mine. What have you to say to that?" "Well, sir," replied the witness, "you must remember, sir, that the Prince Albert is a very large mine."

A Cleanup.

The three amateur sharpers smiled. They thought they had found an easy mark. He was well dressed and grossly inebriated. And he bore a tight roll of bills that looked like a bologna sausage.

"Boys," he thickly said, "I'm going to send this wad of stuff to the government laundry and have it dry cleaned. It's so fearful dirty. May be one of you gents would kindly see it's addressed to proper place?"

"Why, yes," replied the gang. "We'll take care of it."

"Thanks," replied the victim. "And now I must ask you to lemme have a few clean bills for emergensish, don't you know?"

So they searched themselves and gave him a new twenty and a ten and a five. Then, taking the soiled wad, they hurried away.

Two days later the three clever ones were arrested for having counterfeited money in their possession.

But the guileless inebriate was seen no more.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Born Diplomat.

"Splendid!" exclaimed the old colonel as C company passed the saluting base.

"Did you hear wot ole nasty face sez?" No. 3 of the front rank asked No. 4.

"Stand fast after parade, No. 4, for talking in the ranks!" snapped a sergeant from near by.

"It wasn't me talkin'" muttered No. 4.

"You'd better not git two on us in trouble," advised No. 3 in a whisper.

"Talking while marching past!" echoed the adjutant. "What on earth did you find to talk about then?"

"As we was passing the salutin' base," explained No. 4, "the colonel sez, 'Splendid!' Yes, I sez to meself, 'an' you've got the smartest officer in the British army to thank for makin' us splendid, and that's our adjutant.'"

"Er—sergeant, send the man away and don't bring such frivolous complaints before me again," snapped the adjutant.—London Answers.

The Change of a Word.

"You wouldn't think there'd be enough difference between the definite and the indefinite article to matter much, would you?" said a woman who writes for a living. "I made a lifelong enemy of a woman once just by writin' 'the' where I meant 'a.' It was an account of her wedding I was doing. I said something about the ceremony being performed at the home of the bride's aunt, and then I added that there were present 'only the few friends of the family.' The bride never got over that 'the' in front of few. It happened five years ago, and when my name is mentioned she still froths at the mouth."—Washington Post.

Beaver Tales.

The Indians say that if a beaver sent out from the parents' lodge fails to find a mate he is set to repair the dam. If he fails a second time he is banished.

An Arab writer has the same story. He tells us that those who buy beaver skins can distinguish between the skins of masters and slaves. The latter have the hair of the head rubbed off because they have to pound the wood for their masters' food and do it with their heads.

A Surprised Landlord.

The very young traveling salesman was registering at the village hotel.

"I want a room with running water in it," he remarked.

"Runnin' water?" cackled the landlord. "What do you want to do, mister—practice indoor trout fishin'?"—Argonaut.

The Getaway Fellows.

"What is this 'wanderlust' you read of so often as compelling people to leave home?"

"I don't know," replied Mr. Cumrox; "but, judging from my observation of people who have it, 'wanderlust' is German for 'creditors.'"—Washington Star.

His Literary Treasures.

"Jones took me to his rooms to see a collection of rare and curious manuscripts."

"What were they?"

"Receipted tailors' bills."—Cleveland Leader.
