

SPRING MILLS AFTER BUSINESS.

Stock Being Subscribed for $75,000 Milk Condensing Plant.

Not all projects in country or city are realized, but a movement on foot today at Spring Mills is well worth the best of consideration, for if it materializes it will be of vast benefit not only to the thriving business center in which it is located, but to every farmer in Penns Valley. Reference is made to the effort being made to secure $50,000 with which to erect a milk condensing plant at Spring Mills. The Continental Condensing Company, at Mill Hall, is the prime mover, and the Reporter is informed that the Mill Hall company will furnish the remaining funds over the $50,000 to erect a $75,000 plant.

Representatives of the Continental Condensing Company have been on the ground several times during the past few weeks, and it is given out that parties about Spring Mills have agreed to subscribe $25,000 to the stock of the proposed corporation, and the prospects are bright to secure the remainder of the required funds to meet the proposition of the Mill Hall company.

Millinery Opening.

The fall opening days at the millinery establishment of Mrs. Lucy Henney, in Centre Hall, will be on Thursday and Friday of this week. The trimmed hats and frames just received from the eastern markets are exceptionally pretty, and varied, so that all can be suited.

Mrs. Henney is so well acquainted with the wants of her many customers, that she is capable of making selections that please at first sight. There are multitudes of shapes this year, and each one is calculated to suit a particular feminine type.

From the tiny tot to the oldest grandmother there is a wide range of styles, but no one has been overlooked—the opening day display will have something suited to each one.

Prices, well, it is scarcely worth the mentioning. Prices have been a large factor in extending the trade of this establishment, but they have never been permitted to interfere with the selection of the most stylish and substantial goods.

LOCALS.

William Hass has been made superintendent of the Bellefonte fish hatchery, and he is already in charge of the plant. Mr. Hass was formerly located at the Spruce Creek hatchery, but this plant will be abandoned because of its unsuited location, every freshet carrying away a part of the improvements and liberating the young trout. The Bellefonte hatchery, so it is given out, is to be materially enlarged.

Residents in Harris township are very enthusiastic over the prospects of having a site near Boalsburg selected as the location for the new state penitentiary. It is claimed that verbal and written options have been secured on about four thousand acres, the tract extending from Colyer westward to and including the McFarlane properties, and reaching well out into the valley. This location adjoins a very large tract of state land. The average price of valley land is said to be $47.00 per acre, which is very low. Governor Tener and Warden Francis visited Harris township when in the valley last week.

DEATHS.

Mrs. Catharine Hosterman was born at Freeburg, Snyder county, January 20, 1836, and died at Penn Hall, October 5th, making her age seventy-five years, eight months, and fifteen days. She was a daughter of John and Catharine Hains. Two brothers, William, of Selingsgrove, and Peter, of Freeburg, survive her; three sisters, Mrs. Charles Horner, Mrs. Rebecca Apple, Miss Susan Hains, and one brother, J. Ambrose Hains, having preceded her to the spirit world.

She was married to F. D. Hosterman, and unto them were born four children, William P., Emma C., both at home, Mrs. A. F. Heckman, Tusseyville, and John F., Penn Hall. Her husband and children, eleven grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren survive her.

To read profitable literature, to be young in spirit, rich in humor, patient in adversity, loyal to her church, to be a good mother, serving her God and her fellowman was her great delight.

Interment was made in St. Paul's cemetery, near Penn Hall, Rev. D. M. Geesy, of the Lutheran church, and the pastor of the deceased, officiating, the services having been held on Monday.
