Court News.

Last week Judge Orvis held a session of juvenile court for the purpose of hearing the case of the Commonwealth vs. Harry Barner and Harvey Tressler, the two boys charged with robbing Edward Gillen's grocery store, in Bellefonte. The lads pled guilty and will be taken to the house of refuge at Glen Mills, Chester county.

In the case of Commonwealth vs. Joseph Conaway, charged with burglary, Thomas F. Kelley prosecutor, the defendant pled guilty and was sentenced to a period of not less than nine months in the western penitentiary, to which institution he was taken last week by Sheriff Hurley and Lewis Lonsberry.

DEATHS.

Mrs. Catharine Matilda Huller, wife of Edward Huller, of Altoona, died at her home in that city after an illness of five weeks. Her maiden name was Guisewhite and she was born at the old Foust tavern in the Seven Mountains, in Centre county, fifty-nine years ago. Most of her married life was spent in Altoona. Surviving her are her husband and the following children: Mrs. Francis Otto and Richard M., of Altoona; Mrs. Pearl Crawford and Mrs. Grace Shutt, of Milton. She also leaves one brother and two sisters, namely: A. C. Guisewhite, of Milton; Mrs. Alice Fleck, of Phillipsburg, and Mrs. Carrie Lohr, of Altoona.

Prof. D. M. Brungard, born at Loganton in 1849 died in Lock Haven, last week. He held the office of county superintendent in Clinton county for two terms beginning in 1887, and was identified with school work for forty-five years. A wife and three sons survive, as does also one sister, Mrs. Henry Wren, of Loganton.

John A. McDonald, the well-known Reedsville druggist and civil war veteran, died Thursday evening of last week, aged sixty-seven years. His wife and several children survive. His death was due to tuberculosis from which he suffered six or seven years.

Mrs. Jacob Dunkle, an aged resident of Hubbersburg and relict of ex-county commissioner Jacob Dunkle, died at her home in that place after a protracted illness.

Mrs. Mary Campbell, wife of E. G. Campbell, who suffered from asthma for over forty years died at her home at Julian.

William Shawley, a resident of Boggs township, died last week, aged sixty-nine years, and eight months.

William Armstrong Kirby, a brother-in-law of Hammon Sechler, of Bellefonte, died in Frappe, Maryland.

Tusseyville.

Miss Kate Weber, of State College, accompanied Mrs. C. J. Burchfield to her home, where she spent several days.

The members of the W. H. and F. M. Society, of Tusseyville, are preparing for an entertainment to be held on the evening of Thanksgiving day.

Miss Maud Neff, who was in the Bellefonte hospital several weeks, has returned to her home and surprised her friends on Sunday evening by being able to go out driving.

Mrs. Frank McClellan and little son Wilbur, who has been visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Wagner, left Monday morning for Oshanter, where her husband is employed as a telegraph operator.

The Halloween party held in H. A. McClellan's barn, Tuesday evening of last week, was the most important event at Tussey Sink this year. There were forty-six present; about two-thirds that number would have been there had the weather been nice. The evening was spent in playing games and eating pumpkin pies, candy and taffy, which was enjoyed by all. One of the most interested waited until morning to go home as traveling by foot was more easily done in day light. It is the writer's wish that many more will be able to attend another barn party in 1912.

Rebersburg.

Mrs. T. W. Walker spent the past week at Jersey Shore.

Jerome Meyer is at present housed with rheumatism.

Mrs. Whitman, wife of Rev. Whitman, who received a paralytic stroke several weeks ago, and was on a fair way to recovery, was again compelled to take her bed.

On last Thursday while Harry Lintbert was hauling corn out of the field his horses became frightened and ran away. The hind wheel of the wagon passed over Mr. Lintbert, injuring him so much that he has since been unable to work.

"I do not believe there is any other medicine so good for whooping cough as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," writes Mrs. Francis Turpin, Junction City, Oregon. This remedy is also unsurpassed for colds and croup. For sale by all dealers.

TRAPPING EAGLES.

The Chinese Get Them With a Baited Net and a Decoy Bird.

Every year, according to an old custom, in the second quarter of the September or October moon, the inhabitants of the Chinese province of Shantung go to Mongolia to hunt the eagles which abound in that region. The hunters march in troops along the roads, carrying on their shoulders long poles from which are suspended their baggage and provisions and on which are perched tame eagles to be used as decoys.

The hunters make use of a large net, spread open on the ground and baited with small dried fishes, in the midst of which is placed a tame eagle. The decoy naturally begins to devour the bait and thus invites its wild cousins to follow its example. When the birds have alighted and are feeding the hunter, from his hiding place two or three hundred yards distant, quickly closes the net by means of cords and thus captures the eagles.

Eagle hunting is very lucrative. The feathers are used in the manufacture of fans and are sold at a high price even in China. There are three sorts—Klepel, black with white centers; Chema, white spotted with black; Toutsing, half white and half black. Several eagles contribute to the making of a fan, for only a small part of the plumage can be utilized; hence these fans are very costly.

ANIMAL EVOLUTION.

Changes in the Partridges of the Canary Islands.

A remarkable example of the effects of environment and changed conditions of life upon the forms of animals is furnished by a species of partridge living in the Canary Islands. Over 400 years ago the Spaniards introduced the red legged partridge from Europe into these islands, and the bird has continued to flourish there; but, as recent examination proves, it has undergone modifications clearly brought about by the conditions under which it lives.

Its back has turned from russet color to gray. This looks like protective coloration, since the bird passes its life among gray volcanic rocks.

Its beak has become one-fourth longer and thicker than that of its ancestors and of its European relatives, and its legs also have increased in length and girth stouter.

These changes are exactly such as were needed to suit it to the life that it is now compelled to lead amid the rocks and on the mountain sides of the Islands, where a more rigorous physical development is required than was needed in its former home.—Harper's Weekly.

Mighty Queer.

The negro on occasions displays a fine discrimination in the choice of words, says the National Monthly.

"Who's the best whitewasher in town?" Inquired the new resident.

"Ale Hall am a bond a'tist with a whitewash brush, sah," answered the colored patriarch eloquently.

"Well, tell him to come and whitewash my chicken house tomorrow."

Uncle Jacob shook his head dubiously.

"Ah don't believe, sah, Ah'd engage Ale Hall to whitewash a chicken house, sah."

"Why, didn't you say he was a good whitewasher?"

"Yes, sah, a pow'ful good whitewasher, sah, but mighty queer about a chicken house, sah; mighty queer."

Tennyson's Bird Sounds.

Perhaps the best word for the cry of the cricket is that of Tennyson. "Not a cricket chir'd," he writes in "In Memoriam." But Tennyson was always curiously exact in his vocal rendering of the songs of birds. What could be truer to sound than "the moan of doves in immemorial elms?" Then, too, the linnet, the robin and the thrush "pipe," the woodpecker "laughs" and "mooches," the lark and the plover "whistle," the jay "scratches," the parrot "screams," the peacock "squalls," the blackbird "warbles," while the ocean fowl "shriek" and the eagle "yelps."—London Graphic.

High Finance.

"What makes him look so solemn? He gets his month's salary tomorrow." "That's just the trouble. His wife and his mother-in-law allow him 50 cents a week out of it, and he's trying to make up his mind to strike for a dollar!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Balked.

"You got a raise in pay, didn't you?" "Yes, but it didn't do me any good." "Why not?" "I talk in my sleep, and my wife found out about it."—Toledo Blade.

Pretty Steady.

"That Jones boy who used to work for you wants to hire out to me. Is he steady?" "Steady? If he was any steadier he'd be motionless."—Judge.

Great Britain's Great Seal.

Measuring six inches in diameter and made of silver, the great seal of Great Britain is kept in the custody of the lord high chancellor, and a new one is prepared for each reign.
