TURNED THE BATTLE.

Impulse That Moved the British Lancers at Aliwal.

The Sixteenth lancers, than whom there is no more famous regiment in the British service, performed a feat at the battle of Aliwal, in the Punjab, in January, 1846. The gallant Sikhs had thrown them selves into squares and in this formation for a time resisted the desperate charges of the English cavalry just as stubbornly as the British infantry had resisted the French cuirassiers at Waterloo. Again and again did the Sixteenth lancers strive to break through the masses of the Sikhs, and again and again scores of saddles were emptied, and the British were beaten back with slaughter. As the lancers got close enough to deliver their thrusts their weapons would splinter like match-wood upon the stout shields of their swarthy foes. Suddenly an inspiration came to the troopers. Without receiving any orders to that effect, but as if controlled by a unanimous impulse, they shifted their lances to the bridle hand and charged in once more. The Sikhs, entirely unprepared for this sudden and masterly maneuver, received in their bodies instead of on their targets the spear points of the horsemen. Into and through the squares swept the Sixteenth, with lances as crimson as their tunics. Even so, it is recorded that the resistance was so desperate and sustained that the Sikh square had to be ridden through again and yet again before it was finally overcome.—Exchange.

WON BY A SONG.

Incident That Hastened the Success of Telephones in England. Following the establishment on a solid basis of the American telephone system, work for European exploitation was early begun. The results were hardly encouraging. Five-eighths of the British rights were purchased for $500 by a Providence man, says the National Magazine. After working in London four months he could not find any one who would put a shilling in the telephone. An English review said of it: "The telephone is little better than a toy. It amuses the English, but is inferior to the well established system of air tubes." The victory was won at last by Kate, who sang "Kathleen Mavourneen" over the telephone to Queen Victoria. The queen was delighted, and Bell, if she might buy two telephones, and it was not long before all England was interested. An exchange with ten wires was opened in London, and in April, 1879, Theodore Vail sent an order to the factory in Boston in his terse, characteristic way: "Please make 100 hand telephones for export trade as early as possible." In the Italian Alps, on the peak of Monte Rosa, is the highest telephone in the world. Strung at the order of Queen Margherita, it took six years to complete the connection between the top of the mountain and the queen's apartments in Rome.

Thackeray's Mistakes. Thackeray probably wrote the prettiest and most legible hand of any distinguished author. But the master of the easiest and most flexible style in English fiction occasionally made careless and irritating slips. He wrote "different to," which is a common and quite unaccountable mistake, and "compared to," which is as bad. No one would think of saying or writing "compare this to that," yet you find "compare to" in print every day in the week. And he also fell into the common error of making the surname plural instead of the prefix—the "Miss Potters," for instance, in "The Newcomes," instead of the "Misses Potter." Would anybody write the "Mr. Potters"? Who should the ladies be so dishonored?—London Chronicle.

The Fruit Cuckoo. The Indian fruit cuckoo, which, like all members of the cuckoo family, lays its eggs in the nests of other birds and thus avoids the trouble of hatching them, is said to exhibit a great deal of cunning in dealing with crows, its natural enemies. Whereas the hen, a conspicuous, speckled gray bird, conveys herself in the foliage, the cuckoo, remarkable for his brilliant black plumage and crimson eyes, places himself on a perch near a crow's nest and sings a great racket. The crows immediately rush out to attack him, and he takes to flight with them in pursuit. The hen meanwhile slips into the nest and deposits an egg. Sometimes the crows return before the egg is laid and then the intruder gets a trouncing.

A Link with Primitive Times. All conventional dances at court, in parliament, of learned societies and municipal bodies, field marshals' batons, gold and silver sticks, etc., are descended from the heavy fighting sticks and clubs of primitive savages. The chiefs always had the best carved clubs, which were the symbols of prowess and authority. The Australian boomerang and the Irish shillelagh are both made.—London Standard.

Also the Whale. A Kansas fisherman declares that a catfish will purr like a tomcat when it is stroked the right way. Did he ever try stroking a German carp and hearing it sing "Hi ho, hi lo"?—Kansas City Star. And did he ever stroke a whale and hear it spout?—Cleveland Plain Dealer. Every man has a fair turn to be as great as he pleases.—Collier.

The Transformation of Percy.

His name was Johnny, and his ambition was to be grown up. He had watched Cissy and Percy, but that's another story, as Kipling says. "Papa," he piped as he walked with his dad on the beach, "what's under those rocks?" "Limpets!" snapped papa. This was not the first question. "Wouldn't they rather walk about, pa?" "No!" rapped out pa. "They prefer to cling where they are!" "Is everything that likes clinging to something else a limpet, pa?" "For goodness—yes!" roared father. Johnny thought. "Well, pa," he concluded, "is Percy a limpet, pa, when he says goodby to Cissy in the passage?"—London Answers.

There Was a Coolness. Two fashionable Philadelphia women met in Chelsea one morning recently. As they shook hands and stopped to speak Mrs. Brown said to Mrs. Jones. "That's a beautiful hat you are wearing." "Yes, my dear. Isn't it cunning? And I'm so glad you like it. John gave me the money, and I had it imported from Paris." Next day little Susie Brown was playing with the Jones girl, and she said, "My mother says your mother has an ugly old hat but what is her last year's lid made up new." And when Mr. Brown and Mr. Jones reached a mutual friend's, hoping to spend the week end together, they found a coolness between the families.—Philadelphia Times.

Hot Air as a Polisher. Hot air is used for polishing. The articles to be treated are placed in a basket in a centrifugal machine driven at a very high speed and heated air is blown from a pipe through the basket. A high polish is thus produced very rapidly. Nickel plated articles that have become tarnished are made bright in a few minutes. Wet metal, fresh from the bath, needs no preliminary drying, for the current of air dries and polishes it at the same moment.

Punishment. "Has Tommie been a good boy since I've been out?" said the mother. "No, he hasn't," replied the father. "Did you punish him?" "No." "Oh, yes, you did, pop! Don't you remember you sang to me?" came from the boy.—Yonkers Statesman.

Hard Luck Stories. "I don't like to listen to hard luck stories, do you?" "That depends on whether they are reminiscences of the preliminaries to a touch."—Washington Herald.

Hope is a flatterer, but the most upright of all parasites, for she frequents the poor man's flat as well as the palace of his superior.—Shenstone.

The Supreme Dairy Feed for your milk cows. You will be pleased with the result.—R. D. Foreman, Centre Hall.

70 Years with Coughs. We have had seventy years of experience with Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. This makes us have great confidence in it for coughs, colds, bronchitis, weak throats, and weak lungs. We want you to have confidence in it, as well. Ask your own doctor what experience he has had with it. He knows. Keep in close touch with him.

One of Ayer's Pills at bedtime will cause an increased flow of bile and produce a gentle laxative effect the day following. Formula on each box. Show it to your doctor. He will understand at a glance. Dose, one pill at bedtime, just one. Made by the J. C. AYER CO., Lowell, Mass.

John Bunyan's Indictment.

The bill of indictment preferred against John Bunyan ran thus: "John Bunyan hath devilishly and perniciously abstained from coming to church to hear divine service and is a common upholder of several unlawful meetings and conventicles, to the disturbance and distraction of the good subjects of this kingdom, contrary to the laws of our sovereign lord the king." He was convicted and imprisoned twelve years and six months.

Levity in Court. Judge—You saw the prisoner steal the sheet of music. What happened next? Witness—Then he walked out of the store with an abstracted air, your honor.—Boston Transcript.
