

DOCTORS UNDERGO OPERATION.

Doctors Braucht and Locke Operated on for Appendicitis in Bellefonte Hospital at Same Hour.

Dr. H. S. Braucht, of Spring Mills, on Tuesday evening, underwent an operation for appendicitis. His condition Wednesday afternoon was very favorable, and there are the brightest prospects that he will fully recover.

Dr. Braucht was taken seriously ill on Thursday evening of last week, and suffered violent pain. Dr. S. C. Musser, of Aronsburg, was called, and upon examination diagnosed the case as appendicitis, and at once began to prepare his patient for the hospital, unless later developments would make it unnecessary.

Tuesday evening Dr. Braucht was taken to the Bellefonte hospital by rail, accompanied by Dr. Musser and C. P. Long, a brother-in-law. The operation, which consisted of draining the puss sack, was performed by Dr. Ball, of Lock Haven, assisted by Dr. Musser and Dr. Hayes.

About the same time that Dr. Braucht reached the hospital, Dr. J. M. Locke, of Bellefonte, was also admitted and for a similar operation. His was a more aggravated case, necessitating the removal of the appendix. The operation was also performed at five o'clock, the surgeons in charge being Dr. Hayes and Dr. Seibert, both of Bellefonte. His condition is very favorable.

2012 Students at State.

Trustees of Pennsylvania State College held their annual meeting here Tuesday evening and elected officers.

General James A. Beaver, of Bellefonte, was re-elected president of the board; H. Walton Mitchell, Pittsburgh, vice president, and Dr. Edwin E. Sparks, State College, secretary. John I. Thompson, Jr., Lemont, was chosen treasurer to succeed John Hamilton, State College, who resigned after serving thirty-seven years. The board elected the following executive committee:

James A. Beaver, Bellefonte; Vance C. McCormick, Harrisburg; Milton W. Lowry, State College; Ellis L. Orvis, Bellefonte; H. V. White, Bloomsburg; H. Walton Mitchell and J. E. Quigley, Pittsburgh, the latter succeeding the late Gabriel Heister, of Harrisburg.

The trustees received the resignation of N. W. (Pop) Golden, the famous physical instructor. The report of E. E. Sparks, the president, showed an enrollment of 2012 students.

LOCAL.

Joseph Albright, a traveling man, is ill at his home in Howard township, of smallpox.

John C. Rossman has been confined to bed for the greater part of the time during the past week.

The Republican State convention will be held in Harrisburg, Wednesday, the first day of May.

Mrs. John R. Eekley and Mrs. Samuel Bruss, both of near town, have been quite ill during the past week or more.

Mrs. J. Emory Hoy, of Philadelphia, came to Centre Hall the latter part of last week to be with her father, W. B. Mingle, Esq., during his illness.

Frank A. Yearick and Mr. Swartz, of near Madisonburg, are hauling prop timber from the Brisbin & Company lumber operations on the Harper tract to Centre Hall.

Mrs. Victor A. Auman, who for a week or ten days has been suffering greatly from attacks of indigestion and heart trouble, is improving, and her speedy recovery is looked for.

The Reporter's Boalsburg correspondent was called from home unexpectedly and consequently the customary newsy letter she writes each week does not appear in this issue.

J. Frank Smith, Centre county's register, was at his home the beginning of this week looking after his business interests here. By the first of April he expects to move to the county seat.

The engagement of Miss Roxanna Brisbin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Brisbin, of Centre Hall, was announced by her sister, Mrs. Boun, at a dinner at the Brisbin home, to George Roberts, of Hartford, Connecticut.

The home of James Sheesley, at Mt. Zion, in Sugar Valley, during the recent cold snap, was totally destroyed by fire. Mr. Sheesley and his aged mother were driven from the burning building before they could be properly clad, and suffered greatly until taken to the home of Elmer Weaver, almost a half mile distant. There was no insurance.

Mr. and Mrs. Asbridge Thomas, at Potters Mills, on Monday evening entertained a number of their young friends from Centre Hall. The party took a leap year turn. The young people were: Misses Lella Huyett, Bessie Breen, Bertha Sirohmer, Laura Mitterling, Nellie Smith, and Frelis Bailey, Messrs. Clayton Homan, Henry Mitterling, Calvin Smith, Bruce Arney, Edward Bailey, and John Bailey. The party was transported by William Bradford.

DEATHS.

In another column in this issue is an account of the burning of the Musser home, near State College, which caused the death of Emanuel Musser, and also tells of the escape of Mrs. Musser from the burning building.

About fifty-four years ago Mr. Musser and Miss Catharine Bottorf were married, and began housekeeping near Pine Grove Mills, and about thirty-one years ago the couple moved to the farm where the story of their married life was completed at midnight of Saturday. Throughout the active life of Mr. Musser he was prominently connected with the public affairs of the community in which he lived. He was a believer in liberal education and caused his children to take advantage of the educational facilities afforded by Pennsylvania State College.

Seven children and the mother survive, the children being these: Luther W., Lemont; Mrs. D. O. Eiters, State College; G. Fred., Bellefonte; Boyd A., Scranton; Mrs. Edgar Bowman, Philadelphia; Mrs. Geo. Handlong, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Mrs. R. L. Duff, Rocheville Park, N. J.

Funeral services were held from the Eiters home at State College on Wednesday morning, and were conducted by Rev. J. I. Stonecypher, pastor of the Lutheran church, of which church the deceased was a member. Interment was made at Shiloh.

J. Frank Warfield, one of the most highly regarded and useful citizens in Bellefonte, fell over dead Friday evening at the Hecla railroad station. Mr. Warfield, Hard P. Harris and Joseph Baker, the latter from Philadelphia, had spent the afternoon and evening at Nittany Country Club house, at Hecla. After a brisk walk they reached the station to return home a few minutes before the train approached. It was 9:25 o'clock when the trio were standing in the waiting room chatting, when suddenly Mr. Warfield called to his companions, "catch me!" He sank to the floor without uttering another word.

When the train arrived the body was placed in the baggage car, and a through run was made to Bellefonte. The funeral took place from the Warfield home Monday afternoon; interment at Bellefonte. His age was fifty years.

Mr. Warfield general freight agent of the C. R. R. of Pennsylvania, treasurer and general manager of the Bellefonte Lime Company, and was also interested in other business affairs in and about Bellefonte. He was a thirty-third degree Mason, and a member of the Presbyterian church, a wife and a daughter, Mary, and one sister survive.

After an illness of several weeks from a complication of diseases Samuel Weiser, a life-time resident of Millheim, died Monday evening. Interment will be made Friday morning, Rev. W. J. Dico, pastor of the United Evangelical church of which church the deceased was an active member, to officiate. There survives, beside the mother, three children, namely, Ward and Emerson, at home, and Mrs. Charles Breen, of Spring Mills. The brothers and sisters surviving are Frank F., Millheim; Solomon, Marion, Ohio; Mrs. Sallie Grove, Larned, Kansas; Mrs. R. H. Harter, Bridgewater, South Dakota.

Mr. Weiser was engaged in the hardware business in Millheim, and also conducted a tin shop. He was an ardent supporter of the Democratic party and frequently represented his borough in the conventions of years ago. His age was sixty-eight years, two months and twenty-four days.

Before her marriage, Mrs. Weiser, who survives, was Miss Clara D. Cantner. She had been seriously ill during the illness of her husband but is now able to be out of bed.

Word was received at Spring Mills on Tuesday announcing the death of J. J. Grenoble, at Gettysburg, whose age is about sixty-seven years. Mr. Grenoble was born in Gregg township. He enlisted in the Civil War when but sixteen years of age. After the war he began clerking for Major J. B. Fisher, and later was elected recorder of Centre county. His first business venture was the establishment of a general store on the site now occupied by C. A. Krape, in Spring Mills. Early in the eighties the large hotel on the hill, and a large store room near by were erected by him. In the latter he did business until the disastrous fire in about 1887, when he closed up his business affairs in Spring Mills, and located at Gettysburg. In that place he engaged in writing insurance, and later added dairying.

Mr. Grenoble was twice married, both wives being sisters and daughters of Henry Krumrine. The last wife survives as do also four children, two by each marriage.

Interment was made at Gettysburg.

Mrs. Mary Catherine Lucas, wife of Roland Lucas, of Axe Mann, was taken to the Bellefonte hospital and operated on for complication of diseases with which she had suffered for months. Her condition, however, was beyond hope and she died on Sunday a week. Her maiden name was

Miss Mary C. Campbell, and she was forty-five years, eight months. Surviving her are her husband and the following children: Mrs. Elizabeth Shutt, of Bellefonte; Mrs. Maude Hazel, of Clearfield; Fred, of Curtin; Harris, of Bellefonte; Rebecca, at the home of George Spangler, at Tusseyville; Christina, of Pleasant Gap; George and Robert at home. Funeral services were held in the Forge church on Monday afternoon, burial being made in the Union cemetery.

Mrs. Joseph J. Garbrich died at her home in Bellefonte, Sunday morning, aged sixty-five years and about two months. She had been ill but for several days. Interment was made Wednesday morning at Zion. Rev. Fred W. Barry, Lutheran pastor at Centre Hall, and former pastor of the deceased in Bellefonte, officiated at the funeral services.

Mrs. Garbrich's maiden name was Anna Elizabeth Fryberger. Her husband and four children survive, namely, Charles and John, Bellefonte; Harry E., Zion, and Mrs. J. C. Jodon, Bellefonte. Capt. C. T. Fryberger, of Philadelphia, is a brother, and Mrs. P. S. Flater, of Zion, and Mrs. Adm. Grilum, of Kansas, are sisters of the deceased.

On another page of this issue is an item referring to the fact that a young man, who gave his name as John Parker, passed several forged checks in Bellefonte. The young man, twenty-one years old, was traced to Olean, N. Y., and he proved to be George Page, a son of Edward Page, of near Oak Hill Station. He is now in the Centre county jail, under the care of Sheriff Lee.

Road surveys at Millheim.

A corps of eight surveyors are now located at Millheim, having completed the surveying of the Lewisburg and Old Fort turnpike between Lewisburg and that point, and are now working in the vicinity of Smithtown. They will work on this road until they reach the Old Fort, where the route intersects with the Lewisburg and Bellefonte route.

Paltering With the Eternal Verities.

The uncle from the west took his little Boston nephew on his knee.

"Wadsworth," he said, "once there was a man—"

"Then he still exists, Uncle Peter," interrupted the little Boston boy.

"No sentiment, reasoning belief within whom the vital spark has found a lodgment on this mortal plane ever ceases to be, albeit his activities may seek expression in another form. An nihilism is abhorrent to the aesthetic sense. Matter may vanish from the sight, but the elements of which it is composed are imperishable. In like manner the intangible essence that constitutes the real man, the ego, survives all changes and mutations. It is the indestructible, sempiternal self, that persists through the ages. A little reflection, Uncle Peter, would convince you that the time worn phrase, 'once there was a man,' is a solecism."

Uncle Peter after a little reflection put the boy down from his knee and began to talk of something else.—Chicago Tribune.

Love and a Ring.

The story of one woman's pride and devotion comes out of a jeweler's shop. A young man bought an engagement ring. Apparently he was an impetuous young man. At any rate, he ordered an imperfect diamond. In less than a week his fiancée called at the shop alone.

"Is this a flawless diamond?" she asked. "I want an honest answer."

She got it. "I thought so," said she. "Poor fellow! I don't blame him. He did the best he could. I don't care for myself, but I have friends who are good judges of diamonds, and it would nearly kill me for them to find out that he gave me a cheap ring. Will you take this stone out and replace it with a first class diamond? He will never know the difference. I will pay the bill."

The substitution was effected, and that young woman is now proudly showing an engagement ring that for splendor cannot be outdone on the whole west side.—New York Times.

Orvis, President of the Court of Common Pleas of the Forty-ninth Judicial District, consisting of the county of Centre, having issued his precept bearing date the 21st day of December, 1911, to me directed for holding a Court of Common Pleas, Orphans Court, Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace, Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery, in Bellefonte, for the county of Centre, and to commence on the Given under my hand at Bellefonte, the 24th day of January in the year of our Lord, 1912, and the one hundred and thirty-fifth year of the Independence of the United States of America.

ARTHUR B. LEE, Sheriff.

A Scotch Marriage.

By the act of 1856 the parties sign in the presence of two witnesses a declaration that they take each other as husband and wife. They then present a petition to the sheriff asking him to certify that they have been married and that one or both of them had their usual residence in Scotland before the marriage or had resided there for twenty-one days preceding it. This petition may be presented within three months of the declaration constituting the marriage, but is usually presented within three hours.

The parties and witnesses attend before the sheriff, and the witnesses confirm on oath the statements of fact. The sheriff thereupon grants warrant to the registrar to register the marriage. The registration can then be completed at once. The whole procedure takes only an hour or two, and the cost is only a few shillings. On the eve of the new year and summer holidays there is a constant procession of newly married couples and their witnesses before the sheriff in Glasgow.

The suitors are principally drawn from the artisan classes and the classes below them, but there is usually a sprinkling of a better class.—London Spectator.

Making His Mark.

"One funny thing I have learned about human nature," said a drug store cashier, "is the habit many people have of marking their name in the city directory. They do that because the directory is the only place where their name ever gets into print, and it has such a fascination for them that they can't resist calling attention to it. A funny little old man who likes to talk tells me that he has made special trips to different parts of the city just to mark his name in the directories of the neighborhood. He puts a little cross in red ink before it. I asked him what good it did. He said none, possibly, although he is a teacher of languages and may get a few calls on account of that queer advertisement.

"But his is an exceptional case. Not many persons spend time and money hunting up city directories, but every time they happen to see a new one they can't help looking up their name and putting some kind of a mark around it."—Philadelphia Ledger.

When One Drills With Diamonds.

A diamond bit for rock drilling is quite an expensive article, says Cassier's Magazine. Its value, however, will undergo fluctuations, dependent upon the price of the diamonds. Perhaps $500 is a fair value for a bit. The diamond used is exceedingly hard—harder than those usually used as jewelry. Their carat price is considerable, averaging, say, $90 per carat. The diamonds used will weigh from one to two carats, so that they have a value ranging from $480 to $900 on the average. The loss of a bit means many diamonds gone and may lead to difficulty with the hole. The diamond is not tough, but brittle. It will withstand heavy pressure if applied evenly and without shock. It can readily be seen that drilling through seamy rock may become quite unfavorable. If there is much quartz present the abrasion may become excessive. Under ordinary conditions, however, the wear on the diamonds, while considerable, is by no means prohibitive.

Queensland Pearl Divers.

The Queensland diver gets into his dress at daybreak, steps on to the ladder over the side and fastens the life line round him. The tender screws on the face glass, the pumps are started, and down goes the diver to look for shell. If he is on ground where shell is plentiful he fills his bag, then allows his dress to fill with air, which brings him to the surface, when he is hauled to the boat by the life line. He empties his bag on to the deck and goes down for another bagful. Some of the divers occasionally work in twenty-five fathoms. The greatest danger with which the diver has to contend is paralysis, and, knowing the danger he runs, he sometimes demands £200 in advance, and this amount is sometimes lost to the pearl through the zeal and daring of the diver.—London Globe.

Evolution of Clothes.

Centuries ago, as Sir Walter Scott says in "Ivanhoe," men wore one thickness of clothes, whether of wool, leather or velvet. The shirt was invented, but for a long time was worn only by the nobility and gentry. Then followed the waistcoat, breeches and later on trousers. The overcoat, which succeeded the medieval cloak, was rare until the seventeenth century.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Meteoric Matter.

In the early days of its history the earth is believed to have grown rapidly by the addition of meteoric matter. It is still growing in the same manner, though scarcely to an appreciable extent, for the mass of meteoric matter added yearly is reckoned to be only 20,000 tons.

Evidences of Wealth.

"Father seems impressed with your talk about coupons," said the girl. "Have you really any?" "Sure," answered the gulfyouth. "Got 700 saved up toward the furniture for our little flat."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Of Course Not.
