

Centre Hall Lecture Course.

The Committee in charge of the Centre Hall Lecture Course is glad to report the success of the course just closed, being the third season of its existence. Five numbers were given as during the previous seasons; and under its auspices two free illustrated lectures were given; one on Public Schools by Dr. Crosby of the Agricultural Department at Washington, D. C., and one by Dr. Hunt of the Pennsylvania State College on Industrial Conditions in Europe. The course just closed seems to have met with general approval from the community and was well patronized. This has made it a financial success. Credit in part is due to the members of Progress Grange for this. The Committee has sought to advance the good of the community and not the financial gain of any institution or individual; but recognizing the fact that the success of the course would not be possible except for the fine hall of the Grange and that the Grange still is in debt for its hall, a proposition was made to the local Grange that, if it would cooperate with the Committee, the profit accruing would be given to it for the use of its building and toward the liquidation of its debt. Under this mutually advantageous arrangement the Grange receives $60, the Committee retaining a very small sum to meet expenses incident to arranging for the season of 1912-13. The initial steps towards a course for next winter have been taken, and the Committee asks for the cordial support of all interested in the welfare of the community. If the encouragement of the past is continued and increased the success of this effort to do good is assured.
