

DEATHS

Charles Eckenroth died at his home in Bellefonte on Friday, aged seventy-five years, five months and four days. Interment was made on Tuesday, the ceremonies being conducted by Rev. Fred W. Barry, assisted by Mr. Walter Traub, a student at the seminary at Susquehanna University.

Mr. Eckenroth was twice married, first to Priscilla Peters, who died sixteen years ago, and two years later to Mrs. Elizabeth Kerlin.

One daughter, Mrs. William H. Baird, of State College, and two sons, Edward, of Bellefonte, and Frank, of Sunbury, survive, as do also the sisters and brothers: Mrs. John Tressler, Pleasant Gap; Mrs. E. Omer, Bellefonte; Mrs. Joseph Miller, Bellefonte; Thomas E., Unionville; and James, Pleasant Gap.

LOCALS

And now we are living in the first day of August, 1912.

Friday night is the time for the regular meeting of the borough council.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Smith, at Centre Hill.

Mrs. Rebecca Murray was ill for a few days during the beginning of this week.

Charles Smith, of Howard, is visiting his brother Peter Smith at Centre Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Getchell and little son, of Youngwood, are at the Brungart home.

Mrs. Charles Dunham, of Port Richard, New York, returned to her home after a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Weber, in Centre Hall.

Uniform size and strength are characteristic features of the O. K. McCormick binder twine, the Standard brand, at seven and one-half cents.—R. D. Foreman, Centre Hall.

F. M. Crawford, the Potter-Hoy Hardware Company representative, of Bellefonte, in cranking his car badly sprained one of his wrists. The injury is now improving.

The sooner we realize that we cannot have everything our own way in this world, and that it is a blessing we can't, the more likely we are to become permanently happy and contented.

Mrs. S. E. Weber, who is taking a course in a hospital to become a trained nurse, came here from New York, and after a brief stay at the Weber home went to Altoona and from there will go back to New York.

Mrs. Charles Rice and son Clifford, of Reedsville, Mrs. Walter Thompson and daughters, Catharine and Alberts, of Lewistown, came to Centre Hall on Wednesday and will be guests at the hotel for a short time. Mr. Rice, who accompanied them here, returned home, as did also George D. Taylor.

There was a case of gross brutality not far from town that should be investigated by the authorities and the inhuman brute placed in the pen, remarks the State College Times. A hatchet figured in the case and had it not been for the prompt action of the attending physician the woman would have died.

Mrs. James H. Lohr, and daughters, Misses Nellie and Mabel, and the former's mother, Mrs. Welsh, of Philadelphia, are at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lutz. Mr. Lohr, who is employed in the railroad offices of the Pennsylvania at Broad street, will be here today (Thursday), and for a week will be among friends and relatives.

Huckleberries are being brought from the mountains in great quantities by parties who make a business of picking them and selling them to dealers. Hayes Zettle, of Pottery Mills, hauled twenty-five bushels of the berries to the Lewistown district, and John Taylor gets his supply of them from the same point and keeps State College people supplied.

Mrs. S. H. Heckman and daughter Catharine, of Johnstown, came to Centre Hall on Tuesday evening from the club house at Pennsylvania Furnace where they spent a few days. They are traveling in a touring car handled by a skilled chauffeur. Mr. Heckman expects to join his family in ten days. While in Centre Hall they are being entertained by Mrs. Heckman's father, Merchant H. W. Kreamer.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Savidge, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Keefer and son, of Sunbury; Mrs. A. P. Shure and son, of Harrisburg; Mrs. J. DeHaven, mother of the ladies; Misses Pauline H. and Ruth D. Shure, of Harrisburg, are at the Centre Hall hotel, where they have been coming for the past few years to spend a part of their vacation. Mr. Savidge is connected with the Sunbury postoffice, and Mr. Keefer is a merchant.

A vast amount of ill health is due to impaired digestion. When the stomach fails to perform its functions properly the whole system becomes deranged. A few doses of Chamberlain's Tablets is all you need. They will strengthen your digestion, invigorate your liver, and regulate your bowels, entirely doing away with that miserable feeling due to faulty digestion. Try it. Many others have been permanently cured—why not you? For sale by all dealers.

Editor of the Reporter

Please change address of my paper from 5024 South Ada St. to 5753 Honore Street, as I have bought a new small residence in a new sub-division where there are over 300 cottages and two flat buildings, all built since last summer. This will be a beautiful location in another year or so, and the property is increasing in value every year. Thanking you in advance for the above favor, I remain yours,

CHARLES A. MITTERLING,

LOCALS.

John Potter, of Philadelphia, is at the home of his brother, J. T. Potter in Centre Hall.

Mrs. J. T. Zigler, of Pleasant Gap who had been seriously ill with pneumonia, is able to be about again.

The O. K. McCormick Standard binder twine at seven and one-half cents.—R. D. Foreman, Centre Hall.

Sheriff A. B. Lee and Register J. Frank Smith were in town on Tuesday evening shaking hands with their many friends.

Mrs. D. Edmund Crowell, of Tyrone, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Ishler, in Centre Hall for a few days.

If you want a good, reliable binder twine, get the O. K. McCormick Standard at seven and one-half cents.—R. D. Foreman, Centre Hall.

Henry W. Swabb, on Saturday, while sitting at the dinner table received a light paralytic stroke. He has been in delicate health for several years.

"I was cured of diarrhoea by one dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," writes M. E. Gebhardt, Oriole, Pa. There is nothing better. For sale by all dealers.

Munchausen.

Many a reader of the fictitious adventures of the famous hero of the "Munchausenad" (which was first published in English at Oxford during the lifetime of this prince of all liars) has no conception that the hero was a real person. Baron Hieronymus Karl Friedrich von Munchausen was a Hanoverian nobleman, a subject of the first three Georges. He was born in 1720 and died in 1797. He took service in a Russian cavalry regiment, but retired in old age to his ancestral estate at Bodenwerder, in Hanover, where he became notorious for the magnificent lies about his military adventures with which he used to entertain his neighbors at his hospitable board. A collection of these stories, entitled "Vademecum fur lustige Leute," was published at Berlin in 1781 without the baron's permission. The English work, "Baron Munchausen's Narrative of His Marvellous Travels and Campaigns in Russia," was an expansion and improvement of the Berlin collection.

Tact and Success.

Tact is a combination of good temper, ready wit, quickness of perception and ability to take in the exigency of the occasion instantly. It is never offensive, but is a balm allaying suspicion and soothing. It is appreciated. It is plausible without being dishonest, apparently consults the welfare of the second party and does not manifest any selfishness. It is never egotistic, never opposes, never strikes the hair the wrong way and never irritates. Tact, like a fine manner, eases the way, takes the jar out of the joints, oils the bearings, opens doors barred to others, sits in the drawing room when others must wait in the reception hall, gets into private offices when others are turned down. It admits you into exclusive circles, where wealth abounds, even though poor. It secures the position when merit is turned away. Tact is a great manager. It easily controls people, even when combined with small ability, when genius cannot get along.—Leslie's Weekly.

Above Market Value.

Lady Customer (pleasantly)—I hear you are about to get married, Mr. Ribbs. I suppose I must congratulate you.

Mr. Ribbs (the local butcher, doubtfully)—Well, I dunno so much about congratulations, mum. It's costing me a pretty penny. I can tell you. Mrs. Ribbs as is to be, she wants 'er trousseau, you know, an' then there's the furnishin' an' the license an' the parson's fees, an' then I 'ave to give 'er an' 'er sister a piece of joolery each. An', wot with one thing an' another—she's a 'eavy woman, as you know, mum, thirteen ston odd—I reckon she'll cost me best part o' two and eleven a pun before I git 'er home.—London Answers.

The Iron Glove.

A refinement of cruelty is the torture of the "iron glove," as it is called, which used to be common in Morocco. A lump of quicklime is placed in a man's hand, which is closed up into a fist. Then the fist is tightly bound with leather thongs and plunged into a tub of cold water. The agony soon becomes extreme. The torture is continued for eight or ten days, until in the end mortification ensues and probably death.

A Barometer.

"Bliggins' friendship seems to flatter you."

"It doesn't flatter me," said the cynical statesman, "but it encourages me. He is one of those people who never trouble themselves to be affable except to those who are regarded as liable to have some pull."—Washington Star.

Book Without Errors.

A London publisher once determined to publish at least one book which should be faultless in the matter of errors. He had the proofs corrected by his own proofreaders with the greatest care until they had exhausted their skill and patience and assured him that there were no longer any errors to be eliminated. Taking duplicate proofs of the last revise, he sent them to the universities and other large publishing houses, offering large money prizes for each error discovered. A few errors only were found, and after every one had a chance to detect any additional errors the plates were made the book printed, expensively bound and sold as an absolutely perfect book and unique in all literature. For a long time this was conceded, but six or eight months after its publication a letter called the publisher's attention to an error in a certain line and page. Later a second was announced, and before the first year had elapsed some four or five errors had been reported.—Charles Winslow Hall, in National Magazine.

Natural Turkish Baths.

Preston, Ont., about seventy miles from Toronto, enjoys natural Turkish baths. Near the town is a lake the waters of which are impregnated with sulphur and other chemical properties. The lake is government property, and the cost to those availing themselves of its virtues is merely nominal, about sixpence being sufficient to remunerate the services of the halfbreeds preparing the bath.

This is taken in what is locally called a "sweat lodge." The lodge is made by digging a hole four feet deep, lining it with small bowlders and covering it with an air proof tent. A fire is then built in the hole and kept burning until the stones are thoroughly heated. Water from the lake is sprinkled on the hot stones, and a steam arises which is laden with medicinal properties.—London Graphic.

Nature.

"We say that nature is blind," says John Burroughs in the Atlantic, "but she has no need of eyes, she tries all courses. She has infinite time, infinite power, infinite space, and so far as our feeble minds can see her delight is to play this game of blind man's buff over and over to all eternity. Her creatures get life and the joy and pain that life brings. But what is augmented or depleted or concluded or satisfied or fulfilled who knows?"

A Thorough Test.

"Inspector, that woman I said was always listening on my party line must have quit."

"What makes you think so?"

"Why, my wife has been listening for three weeks and hasn't caught her yet."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

THERE IS NO PLOW SUPERIOR TO THE SYRACUSE RIDING PLOW

It plows the same depth the whole day long; sticks to the ground in stormy soil; can be well handled on rocky hillsides. It leaves no deep furrows to wash; will throw the soil up hill better than any other plow made; it is strong enough to do its work, yet not clumsy. Made for two or three horses.

NEW IDEA MANURE SPREADER Does its work to perfection

There are many of them in use, and every machine is giving satisfaction. The draft is light, yet no other spreader will do the work as well. The wear and tear has been reduced to the minimum in the NEW IDEA.

THE "OLDS" GASOLINE ENGINES

have many superior qualities. The cut here represents the 4-A Hopper Jacket Engine. From the material that enters into it to the smallest detail, the engine is superior in quality. The Olds engines are built in all sizes. Ask for a descriptive catalog.
