T. R.'s letter file is about the handling of furniture in the Out Look's office. He has on tap any kind of letter you may wish, but his letter file contains the only proof that he has not been mixed up with Standard Oil, with Harriman, with the great insurance companies, with the Harvester Trust, etc. If his supporters will be willing to admit that T. R. is only a human being the letter file evidence will become trash.

LOCALS

Progress Grange will meet in regular session Saturday afternoon.
From present indications an occasional farmer will have a fair crop of clover seed.

During the Grange Encampment and Fair, be sure to call at the Reporter Headquarters. The conveniences there are for your benefit, and free as the air. Come once, then again as often as you like.
Most of the township and borough schools in Centre county opened on Monday. In Centre Hall the teachers are, Prof. C. R. Neff, principal of the High School; Miss Ethel Grieb, Grammar; D. Ross Bushman, Intermediate; Miss Helen Bartholomew, Primary.
The August number of "The Banker," a publication issued quarterly by the First National Bank of Joliet, Illinois, of which institution Andrew H. Wagner, formerly of Penna Valley, is the vice president, is an unusually interesting one. The publication is devoted to the financial interests of Will county.
The youth in the Bellefonte jail who is there for having stole a bicycle at State College is puzzling the local authorities. Up to the present time he has been able to baffle their efforts to ascertain who he really is, and where he is from. Sheriff Lee, a few days ago, sent a description of the lad to the Philadelphia papers, and asked their assistance in locating the youth.
Messrs. B. Frank Kennelly and Philip Helm, of Spring Mills, who since yesterday (Wednesday) a week have been building the foundation walls for the Reporter block, have shown themselves to be skilled mechanics. They are rapid workmen, and although hampered by being obliged to use inferior building stone, the work done in the time specified shows great speed.
A. I. Sweetwood, of Centre Hall, does not claim to be a snake charmer, but he has two pet black snakes, all right. They are not made bosom friends of his, but he uses them very kindly, and are fed and well cared for. The snakes were captured some months ago while Mr. Sweetwood was working in the woods for Brislin & Co. When he and his fellow workmen first began to fell trees they slaughtered every snake that could be found. After learning the harmless nature of the black snakes, it was decided that they should not be destroyed. Copper heads and the rattles are not permitted to escape without being killed, nor are they sought for pets.

School Board and Citizen Class.

The Petter township school board had a stormy session on Saturday, when they met at Centre Hill to article with the teachers previously elected. Previous to this meeting a petition was circulated, and two thirds of the patrons of the Centre Hill district protested against the teacher they had elected for that particular district. The board called a meeting outside the district, without notifying any of the petitioners, and decided to ignore the protest. After hearing from County Superintendent Etters the president and secretary of the board called for a meeting on Saturday. The secretary of the board was unavoidably absent from this meeting. The member of the school board representing the district in dispute is quoted as having insisted that the citizens were out of order, and had no right to present their grievances, and this opinion appeared to have prevailed.

The citizens interested are incensed over the outcome of the board's last meeting, and are seeking redress, but their next step is not known to the writer.
Who is right in this controversy the Reporter is not prepared to say. These few facts are given without the expression of an opinion.

Walter J. Houtz, of Lemont, and Miss Emma A. Eckenroth, of Pleasant Gap, were united in marriage at the United Evangelical parsonage, at Centre Hall, on Wednesday evening of last week, by Rev. S. A. Snyder.

Friday night is the time for the monthly meeting of the borough council. It would be well if a number of citizens would attend these meetings, and learn first hand how the taxes are expended and measures brought before and passed on by that body.
The Spring Mills milk condensing plant is engaging wagons to gather milk in the vicinity of Centre Hall, which will be hauled to Spring Mills, where it will be sterilized and shipped to Mill Hall, where it will be manufactured into one of the various products of that concern.
The Penna Valley Banking Company is distributing a little leaflet particularly valuable at this time because of the fact that we are in the beginning of what promises to be a political campaign of more than ordinary interest. The leaflet gives a large amount of information on previous elections, etc. The "platform" adopted by the banking company is "Safety first—Liberality next."
On Thursday of last week, Emanuel Zsigler, of near Madisonburg, brought to Centre Hall Henry Zsigler, of Mill Hall, to pay a visit to his old friend of boyhood days, three-quarters of a century ago, when they were boys together in West Brush Valley and attended school in the Murray school house. Reference is made to J. D. Murray. Mr. Zsigler is now eighty-seven years old, and Mr. Murray is just six months younger. From here Mr. Zsigler went to the home of Prof. C. R.
