Deaths of Centre Countians.

Daniel Bower died at his home at Akron, Ohio, Saturday, of arterial sclerosis, aged eighty years. Deceased was a former resident of Aaronsburg.

LOCALS.

Read the Nieman advertisement in this issue.

Mrs. J. T. Potter visited her daughter, Miss Mary Delinda, a student at Bucknell, and also friends at Watson-town, returning to her home in Centre Hall Monday evening.

Mrs. Lizzie Jacobs, of Centre Hall, and Mrs. John W. Stuart, of State College, on Friday will go to York to visit the former's son, Guy W. Jacobs. They will also stop at Millinburg and Harrisburg.

The first number of the Centre Hall lecture course is dated for Tuesday evening, 29th inst. You will want to hear Dr. Glenn, a former governor of North Carolina, who will be here for the second time.

While driving from Rosencranse to Loganton 'Squire J. B. Overdorf had a mishap. He and Mrs. Brungard were in the vehicle, which was thrown over an embankment. The occupants were not much injured.

A potato grower of some distinction is M. H. Davidson, of near Unionville. His crop this year will be about seven hundred bushels. A single tuber grown by him weighed four pounds. That is a potato worth talking about.

An effort will be made to rebuild and put into operation the New Berlin-Unionfield railroad. The road bed was so badly damaged by the heavy rains last summer that the company quit operating the road. A receiver has been appointed.

Mention was made some time ago of the fact that W. J. Finkle moved from Muncy to Corning, New York. The Reporter learns that he is filling a very desirable position in a large flouring mill. Mr. and Mrs. Finkle, both of whom are well known here, were in Centre Hall for a few days last summer.

The McCool farm, two miles south of Spring Mills, now owned by Mrs. Jonathan Krape, of Aaronsburg, will be tenanted by William B. Bressler, when it is vacated next spring by Jefferson M. Heckman. The farm contains over two hundred acres, and is productive. Mr. Bressler now lives on the Luse farm, east of Old Fort.

Ray Roseman, son of merchant H. F. Roseman, has become a student in the Spring Mills railroad station under Station Agent Jacob C. Lee. He is a young man of good metal and habits, and one of the type the Pennsylvania Railroad Company is always in search of to keep on building up its already colossal business. Merchant Roseman has another son, William S., who is in a railroad office in New Jersey, on the Reading line between New York and Philadelphia.

Farming has not proven too poor a business under Jefferson M. Heckman, of Spring Mills. He contemplates quitting the business next spring, but the fact that he is ready to purchase a desirable "four-horse" farm proves that as a farmer he is a success. He and Mrs. Heckman have concluded that they have farmed long enough, and next spring will move to Spring Mills, but if it is possible the dollars earned will be invested in farm land and let to a tenant.

"YIELDING OBEDIENCE."—T. R.

Yes, He Gave the Steel Trust His Personal License; the Morgan Interests Immunity; and Harriman's Merger Suit Was Withheld.

"I made the biggest men in the land yield obedience to the Anti-Trust law," boasted Mr. Roosevelt at Chicago. Of course he did.

When at the end of the panic of 1907 Judge E. H. Gary and Henry C. Frick hurried to Washington to see the President, Mr. Roosevelt left the breakfast table in the White House and granted them his personal license for the Steel Trust to absorb the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company. As he stated to the Stanley Committee last year, he knew that the sale could not be made without his sanction.

Judge Gary and Mr. Frick "yielded obedience" by telephoning from the White House to New York to put through the deal.

When the Harvester Trust was under investigation by the Roosevelt Administration, and George W. Perkins, Chairman of the Finance Committee and a member of the voting trust of the Harvester Trust, was importuning the Administration to take no action, the President and the Attorney-General and the Commissioner of Corporations debated "whether we can afford to throw away the influence of the Morgan interests that have been so friendly to us," and Mr. Roosevelt directed Mr. Bonaparte "not to file the suit until I hear from you." No suit was filed.

Mr. Perkins and "the Morgan interests that have been so friendly to us" "yielded obedience" by enjoying immunity.

When George H. Earle, Jr., of Philadelphia, sought to lay before the President the facts as to how the Sugar Trust had secured possession of the Pennsylvania Refinery and kept it out of operation, Mr. Roosevelt refused to consider the evidence.

The Sugar Trust people "yielded obedience" by escaping prosecution until after Mr. Roosevelt had left office, and by retaining possession of the Pennsylvania Refinery until Mr. Earle, as receiver, by bringing a civil suit, compelled them to relinquish it and pay $2,000,000 in damages.

Joseph H. Call, special attorney for the government in 1905, in the Harriman merger suits, has just published the official correspondence showing how he was advised from Washington to dismiss the cases against the Central Pacific and Southern Pacific Railroads barely nine months after Mr. Harriman had raised $25,000 in New York at Mr. Roosevelt's instance for the Republican campaign fund in 1904.

Mr. Harriman "yielded obedience" by keeping his Southern Pacific merger intact.

Morgan, Havemeyer, Harriman, the biggest men in the land, the biggest trusts and railroad companies, were all made to "yield obedience"—nil.

Rev. Black on New Charge.

Rev. A. A. Black, who for several years was pastor of a mission church at Derry, in the Pittsburgh district, is now on a new field in Clearfield county, known as the Paradise Reformed charge. His residence is at Troutville. The minister will be kindly remembered by many of the readers of this notice, he having been pastor of the Boalsburg Reformed charge for many years.

Orchard Demonstration.

T. C. Foster, connected with the state division of zoology, and orchard demonstrator in this district, will be at the orchard of S. W. Smith, west of Grange Park, Wednesday, 23d inst. All interested in this work are invited to witness the demonstrations at that time.

The Youth's Companion For 1913

The Youth's Companion appeals to every interest of family life, from housekeeping to athletics. It begins with stories of youthful vim and vigor, with articles which disclose the secrets of successful play in the great games, with charming tales of life at the girls' colleges. But The Companion does not surrender these readers when they have entered the more serious paths of life. Mothers will welcome the page for little children and the weekly doctor's article. Fathers will find the important news of the day as it is, and not as it is rumored to be. The entire household will appreciate the sketches which touch gently on common foibles or caricature eccentricity. In short, for less than four cents a week The Companion brings into the home clean entertainment, pure inspiration, fine ideals, increase of knowledge.

Names rarely seen in tables of contents will be found in The Companion's Announcement for 1913, which will be sent upon request—with samples of the paper, to those not familiar with it.

Every new subscriber for 1913 will receive free all the issues for the remaining weeks of 1912; also, free, The Companion Window Transparency and Calendar for 1913, in rich, translucent colors—the most beautiful of all Companion souvenirs.

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION, 144 Berkeley St., Boston, Mass.

Cent Reporter, $1 a year, in advance.

ATTEMPT TO KILL ROOSEVELT.

New York Lunatic Shoots Ex-President in Right Breast—Deed Committed in Milwaukee.

Former President Roosevelt was shot in the right breast, in Milwaukee, about eight o'clock on Monday evening as he was leaving his hotel, by a lunatic named John Schrank, of New York. The colonel proceeded to the place of the public meeting and delivered his address. Later he was taken to a hospital where the wound was examined, and it was found the point of entrance of the bullet was to the right of and one inch below the right nipple.

Tuesday morning he went to Chicago, and has been there since. His condition is very favorable.

The lunatic was at once placed under arrest, and the next morning before the proper authorities pleaded guilty.

Linden Hall.

Mrs. Samuel Gingerich is quite ill at this writing.

Fergus Potter is having his house remodeled. It is now ready for the painters.

Dr. Kent, of Brooklyn, is visiting with his wife at the home of her sister, Miss Mary Potter.

Mrs. Will McClintic returned home Saturday after spending several weeks with friends in Bellefonte.

Miss Bertha Meyer, a student at the Williamsport Business College, spent a few days recently at the home of her mother.

Misses Lavon and Margaret Ferre, the former a student at the Lock Haven Normal, were entertained Saturday by friends in town.

Miss Irene Ross, a nurse in the Altoona Hospital, spent the time from Saturday until Sunday afternoon with her parents in this place.

Station Agent Ishler is off on a two week's vacation. During his absence Mr. Eyster, of Sunbury, will have charge of the station.

Miss Fannie Wolfenberger, after spending some months with relatives in Penns Valley, left for Chicago where she will visit a sister before going on to her home in California.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Brooks left last Thursday for a ten days stay at Niagara Falls where they will visit Mr. and Mrs. Christ Meyer and Mrs. J. A. S. Flick, the latter a sister of Mr. Brooks.

Lloyd McIntyre and sister Miss Anna, of Frenchtown, New Jersey, and Mr. and Mrs. George M. Hall and daughter Virginia, of Huntingdon, motored over from Huntingdon Saturday in the former's touring car and were entertained at the Wieland and Hess homes. They returned Sunday evening. The McIntyres made the trip from their home in three days, having come via Allentown and Harrisburg.

Rebersburg.

David Deihl is at present nursing a very sore throat.

Mrs. Amond Kessler is at present visiting relatives in Sugar Valley.

Mrs. David Glasgow, of Potters Mills, is at present visiting at this place.

The much dreaded hog cholera has made its appearance in the eastern part of this valley.

Mrs. J. D. Houser, who was visiting relatives at this place for the past week, has returned to her home at State College.

Charles Heller and wife, who were visiting for several weeks at this place, on Monday returned to their home in Canton, Ohio.

Robert Hackenberg, who was kicked on the leg by one of his horses and who was housed up on account of the injury for several weeks, is again able to be about.

Mrs. Adam Greninger sold her mountain home, south of this place, to Willis Bierly, for $450. Mrs. Greninger quite recently bought the Elmer Miller property at Samulton.

Samuel Mowery lost a valuable horse one day last week. The animal, while out in pasture, tried to leap over a wire fence and became entangled in the wire, turned a somersault and broke its neck.

Victor Walker, who owns and runs the transfer car to and from this place to Coburn station, is meeting with abundance of success. The car is crowded with passengers. He has attached a truck to the rear of the car in order that trunks and packages may be carried for the convenience of his many patrons.

Play at Boalsburg.

A number of the members of the Heidelberg League, of St. John's Reformed church, at Boalsburg, are preparing for an evening's amusement. The play is entitled "The New Minister."

Here is a woman who speaks from personal knowledge and long experience, viz., Mrs. P. H. Bregan, of Wilkes, Pa., who says, "I know from experience that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is far superior to any other. For cough there is nothing that excels it." For sale by all dealers. adv.

IN INTEREST OF FAKERS.

"Theodore Rex" Promises to Shield Them Against Discrimination by Educated Physicians.

The political tentacles of the third term candidate have been extended in every direction from which might be gathered voters irrespective of sex, race, color or previous condition, of all vocations, factions and trades into the Progressive fold. By specious promises cunningly adapted to each the colonel beckons them to follow with bleating approval wheresoever his belated adjutants may lead in order that Theodore Rex may again sit in the White House.

Tempting bait is thrown to the working people in the minimum wage, to the Socialist in the enlargement of government ownerships, to the women in the furtherance of suffrage aspirations, to the farmer in blasphe-mous promises of rural life, etc. Now he appeals to the quacks, those true and hitherto despised men of predatory wealth, offering them tenderest regard and freedom from prejudice "for or against." The following "blanket policy" is offered for protection of our most precious possessions—health and life:

"We favor the union of all the existing agencies for fundamental government dealing with the public health into a single national health service without discrimination against or for any one set of therapeutic methods, school of medicine or school of healing, with such additional powers as may be necessary to enable it to perform efficiently such duties in the protection of the public from preventable diseases as may be properly undertaken by the fundamental authorities, including the execution of existing laws regarding pure food, quarantine and cognate subjects, the promotion of appropriate action for the improvement of vital statistics, the extension of the registration area of such statistics and co-operation with the health activities of the various states and cities of the nation."

This would votes for Theodore Rex be multiplied.

Insults Educated Physician.

This quack plank of the Progressive platform not only insults the intelligent voter, but wounds the educated physician, in that it places the latter in the same category with empirics of high and low degree, rubbers, sun curists, magnetic and other healers and all other pretenders who fatten upon the credulity of the helpless sick and their terrified relatives. The Sun has adverted to the outrageous violation of propriety and justice which characterizes the medical laws of several states in the Union, the last instance of which we deplored in the medical regulations of the canal zone and which the bull moose platform threatens to inflict upon all the states in the Union. These legislative enactments require all persons who propose to become physicians not only to pursue a more or less thorough course of preparatory education, but also to be trained in all branches of medicine and, besides, to be subjected to a rigid examination by appointees of the state. All these serve to protect the public against ignorant pretenders and would be perfectly fair did not the very same enactments exempt the latter from the provisions applying to educated practitioners.

Favors For Cormorants.

Thus do our sagacious legislators stultify themselves in the interest of the cormorants to whom they grant special privileges, because, forsooth, they claim to "heal" without medicines! There is now no discrimination against "schools of medicine." Therefore the special protection demanded for them by the bull moose platform is gratuitous and intended only to entrap votes. The "healers" belong to no school. Now comes Theodore Rex and dignifies them by a special provision and, expressing a most tender regard for their sensibilities, promises to shield them against discrimination by educated physicians.

This platform would raise the quack and healer above the men who daily exemplify their personal and professional superiority by some unselfish devotion to the public weal. In his eagerness to placate the influential horde of empirics Mr. Roosevelt would have us oblivious of the fact that the educated physician is the only real altruist in the community. Instead of arousing the public conscience (T. R.'s favorite slogan this self appointed reformer deepens the crying shame and thus exemplifies again that "under no circumstances" need he be bound by his prior professions.

WASTE TURNED TO USE.

Story of a Sauerkraut Factory and Its Worthless Juice.

A simple illustration of how apparent waste may be utilized is shown by the story of a sauerkraut factory on Long Island. In the manufacture of this German delicacy the juice is pressed out of the cabbages and, as the vegetables are about 60 per cent water or juice, the waste was more than one-half. This juice was allowed to go to waste.

It was an industrial chemist who collected this juice and discovered that it contained much decomposed vegetable matter. There was an organic acid in the juice that seemed worth recovering, and by concentration and filtration the acid was obtained and refined. Today this organic acid forms an important factor in the tanning of skins and in all textile manufacturing.

At first thought it would seem as if the sauerkraut industry was too small to be of importance in recovering such an insignificant byproduct, but there are alone on Long Island upward of twenty such factories, and each one uses some 2,500,000 pounds of cabbages. From each factory there are recovered annually 80,000 gallons of juice, or, in all, 1,600,000 gallons of waste. Multiply these figures by ten and we begin to get an idea of what this factory economy means, for there are similar factories around Chicago, St. Louis and many other large cities. —George Ethelbert Walsh in Leslie's.

BATTING IN BASEBALL.

The Style of Sticks Used by the Sluggers Varies Greatly.

Heavy hitters of the past and present have always been of widely different opinions regarding their bats. Dan Brouthers, the veteran slugger, expressed the feelings of most players when he said the bat makes little difference to a batsman as long as it feels comfortable and the owner looks upon his favorite stick with something like affection.

It can be well added that the style of the batter sometimes has little to do with his hitting, whether it be the choke effect invented by Willie Keeler or the crouch that was Sam Crawford's stock in trade. Young players make the mistake of copying the style of some great batter and of using a club that is as nearly a replica of the great one's as possible.

It used to be said of Larry Lajole that he could "hit the ball a mile with a toothpick," and Hans Wagner was not particular about the ball he used so long as he could get a ball off the shoulder. As a matter of fact, most of the hard hitters make their long drives from balls that would not have been strikes had they been allowed to go to the catcher. Unless one stands fairly well back from the plate it is difficult to get the shoulders into a drive made from a perfectly pitched ball.—New York World.

Richelieu as an Editor.

The first reporter of France was Louis XIII. The national library possesses the manuscripts of thirty-six articles written by that king. Almost all are accounts of his military operations. These articles were published in the Gazette de France. The "copy," however, did not go directly to the printer. Louis XIII. wrote abominable French, and he had vague notions of orthography. His articles were corrected and often entirely rearranged by a secretary named Lucas, who copied them, sending to Richelieu the new manuscript. Richelieu examined it in his turn and often introduced additional corrections. At the siege of Corbie the king wrote a few lines eulogistic of the cardinal, but afterward crossed them out of his article. Richelieu wrote them in again, and so they appeared in the Gazette de France.

Habits of Game Birds.

I was riding along the shore of Great Bear lake, in Utah, one afternoon and, coming suddenly over a rise of ground, surprised a grebe in the edge of the tules. She swam into the lake, turning and calling repeatedly. Then two little grebes appeared, and swimming low, with only their heads and beaks visible, hurried after their mother. As they overtook her, each one reached out, and, catching the feathers of her back in their beaks, they drew themselves alongside and quickly huddled under her wing, completely hidden. Had I not been a spectator to the act I should never have suspected her of carrying two little "stowaways" as she hurried off.—J. Alden Loring in Outing.

Announcement . .

MY health has compelled me to dispose of my business in Centre Hall, and I take this method of thanking the public in general for the patronage I have enjoyed for the past 44 years.

On October 22nd Thomas L. Smith, a young man of recognized ability in the business will take charge, and I recommend him to you as an able tinner and a man who wants to give all a square deal.
