

Strictly Local Happenings

Dr. Charles Calvert Ellis will lecture at Spring Mills, Friday night.

The Reporter office is having a rush of work. But that is what we want.

Dr. Guy Carlton Lee is a writer as well as a lecturer. Be sure to hear him. Grange Arcadia, Friday evening.

The Centre Hall evaporating company shipped a car load of winter apples last week. The market seems rather dull, there being few requests for this fruit coming this way.

After serving on the New York city police force for some years, W. H. Felding, son of Mr. Felding, of Linden Hall, purchased the Caldwell pharmacy, in Lynbrook, New York, and is now located there.

Read the advertisements in this issue. The merchant and dealer who buys space in a newspaper has something to sell worth the while for the customers to investigate. Act on the suggestion in these advertisements, and you won't go wrong in your buying.

Mrs. Agnes Meyer, of Linden Hall, was a caller at this office on Friday. She just returned from McElhattan where she spent a month with her son, George Meyer, a railroad man. Having sold her Linden Hall property, Mrs. Meyer contemplates making McElhattan her place of residence after next spring.

While Archey Zettle has been in Centre Hall almost continuously since the Zettle Brothers came into possession of the Centre Hall planing mill, it was just last week that he moved with his family. He occupies a cottage on Wilson street. It is Mr. Zettle's intention to build a home next summer, but the quarters he now occupies are quite neat and altogether comfortable.

Centre Hall friends who recently visited Mr. and Mrs. I. V. Musser, in Millinburg, report they have one of the prettiest and coziest homes in that town. He has had considerable experience as a builder, having erected two or more residences in the Pittsburgh district prior to locating in Millinburg. It was this knowledge of building that gave him advantage in constructing the home he now occupies. Mr. Musser is engaged in the hardware business, and is enlarging the scope of the business all the time.

Mueller, the forester on Nittany Mountain, advertises pole and cord wood for sale in this issue.

George Runkle, who for several years had charge of the Schoolehip Saratoga, is now on a freighter between Boston and Norfolk.

Pass the news along to the Reporter. When you think of the good things you have done, just ask yourself how many news items you passed along to the local paper.

Do not fail to hear Dr. Guy Carlton Lee, in Grange Arcadia, Friday evening. A scholarly lecturer may be expected. The Lyceum Bureau will not need to make apology for Dr. Lee. It will be up to his audience to go up to his level.

There was a fall of one-half inch of rain Thursday and Thursday night, most of the fall having been during the night. The springs previous to this rain were not as strong as desired for wintering in, and, in fact, a good deal more rain would be welcome before the ground freezes to any considerable depth.

If the plans contemplated by Thaddeus R. Hamilton, of Bellefonte, materialize State College will have a new industry—a planing mill—and one very much needed there. Mr. Hamilton is doing business in Bellefonte at present, and he is seriously considering a proposition to move his plant to the College town.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Myers, of Millinburg, were to Renovo to attend the funeral and burial of Gottlieb Myers, a brother of Mrs. Myers, who met death at Driftwood while on duty for the Pennsylvania Railroad Company as a conductor. Mr. Myers was born at Beech Creek, and was aged sixty-four years. Had he lived until next July he could have retired on pension.

The interior of the Lutheran parsonage at Lewisburg was consumed by fire the other Sunday morning. Rev. Seebach discovered the fire on awaking in the morning, but before the fire could be extinguished all the furniture was burned, and the whole of interior of the brick structure gutted. The loss on the parsonage is over $3000, and the minister's loss was quite heavy, and included a library, and manuscripts on which he and Mrs. Seebach worked for twelve years. The fire was caused by a defective flue

Following the ceremony the young couple went to housekeeping in their newly furnished flat at 245 Baird Ave., Austin Sta., Chicago. The groom is a son of J. C.
