

COULD STAND PLAYFUL DOG

Young Man Considerably Relieved When He Learned the Animal Was Not in Earnest.

"Have you seen papa's new dog, Carlo?" she asked as they sat in the parlor.

"Yes," he replied, uneasily. "I have had the pleasure of meeting the dog."

"Isn't he splendid? He is so affectionate?"

"I noticed he was very demonstrative," returned he, as he moved uneasily in his chair.

"He is very playful, too. I never saw a more playful animal in all my life."

"I am so glad to hear you say that."

"Why?"

"Because I was a little afraid that when he bit that piece out of me the other evening he was in earnest. But if he was only in play, of course, it's all right. I can take fun as well as anybody."

Shopping Instinct.

A rural postmaster tells this story of one of the patrons of his office, a boy of thirty, not to say penurious, stock. When the lad comes into the postoffice he will thrust his wizened face up close to the window and, in his slow, Yankee drawl, inquire most earnestly:

"Hev ye got any postal cards?"

"Yes," the postmaster replies.

"How much be they 'd'ay?"

"A cent apiece."

Then the boy, screwing up his eyes in the intensity of his thought over the question he has to decide, always stops for a while to weigh the consequences. Finally, he will reply solemnly:

"Wal, I'll take one."—Youth's Companion.

In a Literal Sense.

Juvenile remarks are not always so naughty as they seem. Small Sam, for instance, had no intention of using bad language when he got into such severe trouble in class.

His teacher was trying to press home certain facts concerning a volcano. In reviewing the lesson she drew on the blackboard her own conception of a flaming mountain, using colored crayon with extraordinary effect.

"What is it?" she asked, the picture finished.

The scholars shook puzzled heads.

"You don't know? Well, what does it look like?" the teacher persisted.

No Indulgence.

Mrs. Alec Tweedie of the Eugenics Education society of London, said at a reception in New York:

"Eugenics will save the son from paying for the sins of his father. Eugenics shows us that there has been no escape heretofore from these penalties. In the matter of eugenics it is not as it was with Spence."

"Let bygones be bygones," Spence indignantly said to his old debts, as he started in to make some new ones."

Neat Differentiation.

Senator Lodge, at a dinner in the Back Bay district of Boston indicated very neatly the difference between a statesman and a politician.

"A statesman," he said, "thinks of the next generation; a politician of the next election."

HAVE LOCATED A MONEY TRUST

Pujo Committees Will Report it Really Exists.

RULED BY A TRIUMVIRATE.

Proposed Changes in the Banking Laws—The Real Rulers—Principal Findings.

Washington.—A "Money Trust" actually exists. J. Pierpont Morgan, George F. Baker and James Stillman, New York's mightiest "money barons" are its triumvirate. Its actual and potential power is a national menace.

These are the three salient conclusions of the Pujo "Money Trust" investigating committee. These are the three striking revelations of months of investigation, which the committee will report probably unanimously.

On the highest authority—the chairman, Representative Samuel of Louisiana, and its attorney, Samuel of Louisiana—it was stated that these are to be the principal features of the committee's "verdict," following the sworn testimony, for the first time in the history of the country, of the nation's greatest financiers.

The Real Rulers.

Here is the Money Trust—its heart—as outlined by a committee member:

"J. P. Morgan & Co., the First National Bank of New York and the National City Bank of New York."

J. Pierpont Morgan is the head of the firm bearing his name; George F. Baker is the ruler of the First National and James Stillman, of the National City.

That the domination of these men, and immediate associates, runs in to many millions of dollars, and through their more distant associates, into billions, it is declared, will be the committee's decree.

Fifteen "lieutenants" of the great army of finance are named—with Morgan, Baker and Stillman as the "generals."

These include mighty millionaires of New York, Boston, Chicago and Philadelphia, with ramifications extending across the continent and even across the Atlantic.

That these 18 giant organizations, with subsidiary interests control $25, 325,000,000 in resources, will be declared to be proven.

The "private in the ranks" of the "trust" are said to number 180, with control, or potential interest in practically every large industry of the United States.

The Pujo committee report is to be denominated an "intermediate finding." This is because of the halting of the inquiry to submit a report before the present Congress adjourns. It will be submitted within 30 days. Complete and sweeping recommendations to curb the "trust" will also be made by the committee. It is learned positively that it will report drastic change of the whole national banking act.

Principal Findings.

As tentatively outlined, briefly, these will be the principal findings:

Control of J. P. Morgan & Co., of banks, having $1,406,000,000 resources and $989,000,000 deposits; of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, with $1,249,000,000 assets; of 12 great railroads, with $4,379,000,000 capital and mileage of 48,000 miles; of innumerable industrial corporations with assets worth scores of billions of dollars.

"Morgan" directors on 39 corporations with resources of $10,036,000,000.

Directors affiliated with George F. Baker's First National Bank in 49 corporations with $11,542,000,000 assets.

Directors affiliated with James Stillman's National City Bank in 47 corporations with $13,205,000,000 assets.

That the concentration of wealth, conceived a generation ago, has been perfected since the 1907 panic, and is still growing.

That "interlocking directorates," lax national bank examination, weak banking laws and passive public interest are the principal causes.

That the more powerful financiers are "partners" and not competitors.

That security issues are divided under an agreement against "poaching" upon competitors' reserves, in financial territories established by unwritten laws of financial ethics.

COMMERCIAL

Weekly Review of Trade and Market Reports.

Bradstreet's says:

"Business is more than up to the seasonal mark, but more or less conservatism is engendered by the disposition of some interests to discuss tariff revision. In the face of this is the overwhelming fact that trade continues to move at a steady pace."

"It is true that new business with the steel mills is not so large as it was, but it is probable that the intake of orders equals shipments."

"A negative side to industrial matters is furnished by the continued strike of garment workers at New York, while fremen on eastern roads have apparently assumed a disconcerting attitude."

"Funds are more plentiful for mercantile purposes, for which there is a good demand. Rates are easier, and the withdrawal of gold for export is viewed with equanimity."

"Business failures for the week were 343, which compares with 361 in the like week of 1913."

ECZEMA FOR TEN YEARS

1809 Little Walsh St., Baltimore, Md.—"I was afflicted with eczema for about ten years, the most tormenting and agonizing. It was dry eczema, all itching. It was scratch, scratch, scratch and burn, burn, burn. By scratching I brought sores which scabbed. I tried all remedies which I knew or heard of; some gave me temporary relief, but none permanent cure. I couldn't sleep for scratching, after which there was burning. I saw the advertisement for free samples of Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment and wrote for them. They did me good immediately and I then bought a box of Cuticura Soap and a cake of Cuticura Soap. I was cured in two weeks." (Signed) George Woodson, Jan. 21, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston." Adv.

Showing the Goods.

IDEA ANNOYED OLD GOLDE

He Knew From Experience That College Education by No Means Unfitted Boy for Work.

"Woodrow Wilson naturally believes in a college education for boys and girls alike," said a banker at the Princeton club in New York.

"Mr. Wilson, lunching with me here, once said in his quaint way that the old idea about a college education unfitting a lad for work had quite died out."

"We no longer hear," he declared, "stories like that of Gobbsa Golde."

"When Gobbsa Golde's son Scattergood," he explained, "desired to go to Princeton, he said to the old man:

"Pater, is it true that boys who go to college are unfit for work afterward?"

"Of course it ain't true!" snorted the old man indignantly. "Why, I've got a Princeton graduate runnin' my freight elevator, two of my best coal heavers are Harvard A. B.'s and a Yale B. S. is my star truck driver."

New York Flat.

They who have ever flat-hunted in New York know well that, till a rental of $5,000 or $6,000 a year is reached, flats are incredibly cramped. Indeed, in a good neighborhood, even a five-thousand-dollar flat is apt to be a tiny one.

Discussing this phenomenon, Prof. Brander Matthews said at a luncheon:

"I remarked to a lady the other day: 'Why, madam, your dog wags his tail up and down!'"

"Yes," she replied, "he has to. We are comparatively poor, you see, and Fido was raised in a five-thousand-dollar flat."

Demagogue.

William H. Maxwell, the superintendent of New York's schools, said the other day, apropos of certain demagogic proposals:

"But the best definition of a demagogue will always remain that of a little girl of seven, who said:

"'A demagogue is a vessel containing beer and other liquids.'"
