

The Marshall Farms Sold.

The Marshall farms, west of Centre Hall, were sold at sheriff's sale on Monday, at Bellefonte, for $8000, and were purchased by Clement Dale, attorney for the Misses Gregg, who sold the farms to Mr. Marshall and held mortgages.

"The Rosary"

Whatever else may be said of Rowland and Clifford's new production "The Rosary" which came to the Garman Opera House, Bellefonte next Friday evening, the charge of imitation of other plays cannot be made. "The Rosary" virtually breaks new ground in the dramatic field and should prove a veritable surprise when the curtain rises upon it.

Mingled with the darker colors of human tragedy is a vein of natural comedy evolved from the events which occur during the action.

Admission, 25, 50 and 75 cents.

Egg Preservative.

There are many methods of preserving eggs, some of which are good and others fail. Rev. S. A. Snyder, of Centre Hall, has for a period of fifteen years used a formula which continuously produced favorable results, and since his coming here the recipe was given to others who also obtained the same results. The formula is inexpensive and the method of handling the eggs so simple, that any one can preserve eggs who cares to give slight attention to details. The recipe and instructions follow:

- 4 lbs. air slaked lime
  - 1 qt. salt
  - 1 oz. cream of tartar.
- Pour three gallons of boiling water over the above, stir well, and when cool strain through a cloth into a stone jar. Place the eggs each day in the solution, which is sufficient for at least ten dozen. The eggs, of course, are put into the preservative when they are cheap. Care must be exercised to select only fresh eggs. Sterilized eggs are best.

Colyer.

Mrs. W. F. Rockey and daughter Myra last Tuesday were at the home of Samuel Klinefelter.

Miss Mae Cooney returned to her home. She was employed at the William Stuart home.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Sparr Wert, of Aaronsburg, for a few days visited among friends at this place.

Mrs. S. C. Bodorf and Mrs. Stuart Jordan spent a few days visiting at the home of Thomas Fleisher.

J. H. Moyer spent a few days visiting at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Arthur G. Cumings, at Center Mills.

The Schaefer sale held on the farm recently sold by H. E. Shirk was attended by a number of people from this vicinity.

Among the sick in this community are John Dashem and Samuel Klinefelter. They are afflicted with neuralgia and grip, respectively.

Ralph Ricker will move his family to Pittsburg where he has found employment. He was engaged for several years with William Rockey, the produce man.

Rebersburg.

William Minnich, of Aaronsburg, spent a day with Scott Stover.

Samuel Ketner and wife, of Logan, spent a day this week among relatives here.

Miss Flossie Luse, who had been staying for the past two months at the home of Jacob Sprow, near Centre Hall, has returned home.

A little child of William Bowersox, near Wolf's Store, is suffering with brain fever; there is no hope for its recovery.

Grip is prevalent in Rebersburg, and while some of the cases are rather severe in character, there is after all no serious illness on account of it.

Mrs. Stapleton, of Millinburg, wife of Prof. Stapleton principal of the Rebersburg school, is spending a week in this place with her husband.

Mrs. Annie Kebler and children, of Flemington, who were visiting relatives in this vicinity for a week, have returned to their home. Mrs. Kebler is a daughter of Moses Gilbert, of Wolf's Store.

Victor Walker has been awarded the contract to carry the mail from this place to Coburn. Mr. Walker, last Thursday, purchased from Breon & Co., of Millheim, a Ford auto which he will use in connection with his transfer car when necessity calls for it.

With the March number The Ladies' World becomes The Ladies' World and Housekeeper, the publication formerly known as The Housekeeper ceasing existence as a separate magazine. The combination is very effective, the brightness and sparkle of the one being heightened by the practicality of the other.

This is the season of the year when mothers feel very much concerned over the frequent colds contracted by their children, and have abundant reason for it as every cold weakens the lungs, lowers the vitality and paves the way for the more serious diseases that so often follow. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is famous for its cures, and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all dealers. adv.

DO YOUR VERY BEST.

And Then Be Sure That You Are Satisfied With Yourself.

It is not what people say about you—it's what you are that counts. The one person in all this world whom you should aim to satisfy is yourself. You alone know yourself. Other people know your outward appearance, your actions, your deeds. You, and you alone, know your motives, your ambitions, your thoughts.

Are you satisfied with yourself? It is your own fault if you are not. Are you satisfied that you are doing the best you can in your work, that you are making the most of your time? Are you confident that your conduct toward your family, your friends, your neighbors, your employer, cannot be improved?

Look yourself straight in the face this morning in your mind's looking glass. Ask yourself whether it is what people say about you or what you are that hurts. Analyze your own conduct in all matters.

Put yourself in the other fellow's place and try to see your actions through his eyes. Imagine that you are your employer instead of yourself. Answer honestly whether if he knew as much about you as you know about yourself he would discharge you or would raise your wages. If you do this conscientiously there are many things you will do differently.

Remember this, too—other people's opinion of you is based on your own opinion of yourself. Are you self-respecting? Other people will respect you. Are you truthful? The world will believe you. Are you honest? Every one will trust you.

But weigh yourself frequently. Weigh yourself carefully. Be certain that your own opinion of yourself is justified. Be satisfied with yourself.—William Johnston in American Magazine.

CRABBE, THE NEGLECTED.

A Poet Whom Byron Called Nature's Best and Sternest Painter.

Dante was a great traveler and the greatest pen impressionist who ever wrote. He describes a landscape in a line so that it stays with you forever. He uses the fewest possible number of words, hardly any adjectives, and the picture leaps up before you, immortal and unforgettable. Who can do this among the moderns? Keats could. Tennyson gives you English landscape. If you read "In Memoriam" you have lived a year in the English country and seen the march of the English seasons. Crabbe can do it. Who reads Crabbe? Nobody. And yet he is a wonderful poet, as realistic as Tolstoy and Arnold Bennett. Byron called him the best painter of nature—"Nature's sternest painter, yet her best."

He writes about the poor as they are, without sentimentality and with out exaggeration, and as a painter of English landscape he still remains the best. He may not be read by the modern generation, but he is not forgotten. A Frenchman wrote a long and excellent book about him not long ago. He is safe in the temple of fame, which place you have entered and can't leave. And this temple is like a wheel. It goes round and round, and some of its inmates are in the glare of the sun, and sometimes they are in the shade, but they are there, and they never fall out.—Maurice Baring in Metropolitan.

Writing For Posterity.

A prominent French critic, the story runs, once said to George Bernard Shaw:

"You are putting on a new comedy Monday night. Let me attend one of the dress rehearsals, won't you?"

"Impossible," said Mr. Shaw. "My dress rehearsals are always private. I have to refuse even the most distinguished critics access to them."

"But," said the other, "I want to write a critical criticism. If I have to write and telegraph it in a few minutes on Monday night it will be very hurriedly done, and I fear it will give a wrong impression of your comedy to Paris the next day."

"Have no anxiety on that score," Mr. Shaw replied. "My comedies are not written for the next day."—Exchange.

Restoring Rubber.

People using articles made of rubber that frequently lose their elasticity through oxidation may restore the material to its original condition by a simple process. Soak the part in a mixture of one part of ammonia to two parts water. This is said to be particularly well adapted to the restoring of rubber bands, rings and small tubing which are ready to become dry and brittle.

Just Like an Immigrant.

"Charley is so poetical! When I accepted him he said he felt like an immigrant entering a new world."

"Well, he was an immigrant."

"What do you mean?"

"Wasn't he just landed?"—Atlanta Constitution.

What's in a Name.

"But now that these sisters are married, a social gulf separates them hopelessly."

"Indeed?"

"Yes. One of them married a mechanic and the other a mechanician."—Pack.

Cattish.

"Do you think Oscar proposed to me merely on account of my money?"

"Well, my dear, you know he must have had some reason."—Fleegende Blatter.

WHERE THE OCEAN BOILS.

Upheavals That May Be Caused by Submarine Earthquakes.

Mariners say that in the midst of the Atlantic, about where the twenty-fifth meridian west from Greenwich crosses the equator, there lies a region of mystery. It is on the line that ships take from Madeira to Brazil. Only within the past half century has it been sounded and its strange phenomena reported.

One investigator declared that he saw the sea about half a mile from his vessel suddenly disturbed. For about two minutes it boiled up violently as from a subterranean spring. Throughout the day there were observed great patches of discolored water which had exactly the appearance of extensive shoals.

These and similar phenomena are frequently observed in this part of the ocean. Often a ship reports that she has experienced a violent shock similar to that which is felt when a rock is struck. Sometimes a great rumbling is heard, like that of a heavy chain running through the hawse pipes, and the vessel quivers like a leaf in the wind. At another time, in smooth water, a vessel has been known to heel over suddenly, as if she had run on a sand bank.

Before this part of the ocean was as thoroughly sounded and surveyed as it is now these phenomena were attributed to the presence of unmarked sand banks and rocky shoals, and the old charts were marked accordingly. But it must have astonished the mariner somewhat to find that he got no soundings with his deep sea lead immediately after experiencing one of these shocks.

It is now generally believed that submarine earthquakes are the true cause of these convulsions.—Youth's Companion.

EGYPT'S GREEN SUN.

A Phenomenon That Was Commented Upon by the Ancients.

The appearance of a green light at sunset was noticed and commented upon by the ancient Egyptians and more particularly so because in the clear air of Egypt the tints of sunset are peculiarly distinct.

As the sun there descends nearer and nearer to the horizon and is immensely enlarged and flaming it suddenly becomes for an instant a brilliantly green color, and immediately a series of green rays suffuses the sky in many directions, well right to the zenith. The same phenomenon appears at sunrise, but to a smaller extent. Sometimes, just as the last part of the sun's disk vanishes, its color changes from green to blue, and so also after it has disappeared the sky near the horizon often is green, while toward the zenith it is blue.

This was alluded to in Egyptian writings. Day was the emblem of life and night that of death, and the nocturnal sun, being identified with Osiris, thus rendered Osiris king of the dead. The setting sun was green; therefore Osiris, as the nocturnal deity of the dead, was painted green. The splendid coffins of the high priests of Ammon frequently depict the green sun, and the funeral deities are all colored green.

There are innumerable instances in the Egyptian relics of representations relative to death being colored green. The practice undoubtedly arose from the green tints of sunrise and sunset. The green sun disk is referred to 5,000 years ago in Egypt. This is the earliest known human record of an astronomical phenomenon.

THE CUTTLEFISH.

Its Queer Ink Sac and Its Ability to Change Its Color.

Sepia is a peculiar animal substance obtained from the ink bags or ink sacs of cuttlefish.

The cuttlefish are a group of singular sea creatures allied to slugs, snails, oysters and other so called "shell fish." The cuttlefish has a sort of shell beneath the skin (sold under the name of "cuttlebone"), a pair of large eyes and a horny beak. Like all molluscs, they have no real limbs at all, but from around the head there spring eight or ten long tentacles, each armed with numerous suckers.

By forcibly squirting out the sea water which it has taken in the sepia can shoot backward through the water with great speed. The sepia is interesting, too, as being able to change its color in a measure so as to harmonize with its surroundings. Just under the topmost layer of skin there are distributed all over the surface of the body a number of cells, containing a dark pigment. When these cells are expanded the surface of the body becomes darkly spotted, but as they are contracted the creature looks paler.

Though best developed in the sepia and its nearest allies, nearly every member of the cuttlefish group possesses an ink sac. The ink sac contains the dark pigment secreted by a special gland. When discovered or pursued by an enemy the sepia discharges some of its ink through a sort of funnel or tube. The pigment mixes with water very quickly and forms a dark cloud of inky water, beyond which the sepia will dart into safety.

Sepias are often caught in nets with fish. The fishermen, despising the cutties, throw them out upon the beach, and then they may be seen lying in tiny pools of dense black liquid and continually oozing out more ink in a vain attempt at concealment.
