

STRIPPED BY LINE SHAFT.

Wolfs Store Young Man Twirled Around Shaft and Lives to Tell The Story.

Wolfs Store has a young man, Floyd Bressler by name, aged twenty-five years, weight one hundred and sixty-five pounds, that lives to tell how it feels to be twirled around a line shaft, and how one can undress himself without bothering to loosen buttons and pulling your shirt off over your head.

Mr. Bressler is employed in the saw mill operated by William Bowersox, at Wolf's Store. Last Saturday he was adjusting several nuts on the machinery, when a set screw caught his clothing, and then a second and a third set screw fastened itself in his clothing. It was a hurried performance and Mr. Bressler is not able to say how often he was twirled around the shaft, but when the belt ran off the pulley and the line shaft and the human wheel stopped their revolutions, Bressler was divested of all his clothing except his shoes and stockings. When the set screws first took hold of his clothing he was dressed in three shirts and as many pantaloons. These were now in shreds, and on many places on the victim's body there were bruises.

There was only about two feet of space between the line shaft and a heavy beam, but Mr. Bressler was able to make the revolutions without being seriously injured. How he escaped death is a mystery, but he did, and tells the story.

Letter from T. G. Wilson.

You will find check inclosed which will advance my subscription to 1915. Everything in this section is selling at high prices. The roads just now are in horrible condition, but if the high winds keep up a few days longer they will soon dry up. We are all well at this time. Kindly remember me to all my old friends. T. G. WILSON. Hazel Green, Wisconsin.

Centre Mills.

Arthur Cummings has recovered from a recent illness. Harry Miller is improving his farm by erecting new fences and roofing his barn. Miss Marian Debler attended the funeral of her father at Rebersburg on Monday. Mr. Shaffer attended the Raymond and Kidder sale near Boalsburg last week. Wm. Bair, who moved to Nittany, was seen in this community last Saturday. John A. Kline desires an honest and industrious young man to learn milling. The place is open now. Mr. Hackenberg and family, of Spring Mills, spent Easter with Mrs. Hackenberg's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Breon, of this place. Prof. Godshall and family, of Centre Hall, also George Kline, of Anties Forts, Lycoming county, spent Easter with John A. Kline. Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Miller and baby returned to their home in Union county after spending several weeks at the home of Mr. Miller's parents at this place.

Potters Mills

Samuel McCoy is home from Philadelphia. Mrs. Bodtort and Mrs. Jordan, of Colyer, were callers here on Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. G. H. McCormick and little son spent Sunday at Aaronsburg. Mrs. Clayton McKinney and family left this place last week for Altoona. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Smith spent Sunday at Millheim with Mrs. Smith's parents. Mrs. Catharine Carson attended the funeral of Miss Alexander at Centre Hall on Monday. Michael and Emanuel Smith, of this place, attended the banquet at Spring Mills on Thursday evening. Catharine and Mary Carson spent Easter with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bible at Oak Hall. Alexander McCoy fell last Monday, and fractured his knee cap and has been under the care of a doctor since that time. J. A. Slack moved from their farm near the Red Mill, to the Rocky house at Tusseyville, last Thursday; and James Harshbarger moved onto the Slack farm.

LOCALS.

Correct spring clothing—Kessler.

Ladies, read the Kessler clothing adv. in this issue.

Almost one inch of rain fell in a short but violent shower Wednesday morning.

Miss Mary Delinda Potter was home from Bucknell University for her Easter vacation.

A new lot of books have been placed in the free circulating library in Grange Arcadia, and will be open to all every Saturday at four o'clock.

Mrs. T. W. Simkins, on Wednesday morning, went to Huntingdon as a delegate to the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Presbytery of Huntingdon.

The average price paid at the J. C. Goodhart sale for cows was $57. This is a very good figure, as none of the cows were fresh, most of them being due to calve in the fall.

James Durst, of near Milroy, had a large public sale last week. The farm stock and implements sold for $4500, and including the grain in the ground the sale footed up to $5100.

Mr. C. E. McClellan, one of Millheim's successful business men with his wife and little son, spent Sunday at the home of his mother, Mrs. J. R. McClellan, of near Tusseyville.

Charles D. Bartholomew is very much pleased with the work his pullets and one-year-old hens are doing, and especially since they are laying over one thousand eggs per day.

Albert S. Furst, Esq., attorney and business man, who for many years lived at Cedar Springs, in Clinton county, died at his home Saturday morning. His age was seventy-two years.

If you buy right you can sell right. We call buying right the purchasing of the best of everything in large quantities, paying the cash for it, thereby getting advantage of both the cash discount and quantity lots—Weber, Centre Hall.

G. W. Ocker, of Lewisburg, in making a remittance to the Reporter, which puts him a year in advance, states that he was greatly pleased with his visit to the National Capital at the time of the inauguration, and thinks President Wilson the real thing.

Lawrence Runkle moved to Centre Hall from near Penn Hall. He is a carpenter by trade, and is employed by John D. Lucas. He and his family occupy the house vacated by D. W. Sweetwood, who moved to the Sweetwood home in Georges Valley.

Those from a distance attending the funeral of Miss Emily Alexander were: Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Murray, Miss Guesie, and Mrs. Homer Barr, Boalsburg; Mrs. J. W. Kerstetter and Mrs. D. H. Shook, Millheim; Mrs. Anna Wirth and Mrs. Blanche Close, Milroy; Frank McClintic, Millburg.

Philip Musser, one of the Millheim Banking Company force, and Dentist and Mrs. Fred E. Gutellus, accompanied by their daughters, Misses Laura Bell and Mary, respectively, attended the minstrel show in Centre Hall last week with a view of encouraging Millheim talent on the platform. They made the trip in Mr. Gutellus' car.

In The Ladies' World for April there is a remarkably interesting article on the subject of the hour—eugenics, the science of race improvement. This shows that while the practice of proper selection is only now being considered seriously by present day scientists and thoughtful people generally, it has been strictly observed by members of royal families almost as far back as research takes us, for their interest in healthy progeny was a state as well as a family matter.

Milinery Goods at Mrs. M. E. Stroh's. Mrs. J. W. S. Person, of Phillipsburg, N. J., will be at the residence of Mrs. M. E. Stroh from April 10th to April 15th with a full line of milinery goods, of the latest New York styles. adv. 21.

PAMPERED PRINCES.

Luxurious Lives of the Gilded Young Rajahs of India.

"It is almost impossible for an American boy or girl to imagine the extravagance and luxury that surround some of these young India princes," says a writer in St. Nicholas. "Servants attend them night and day, fan them, dress them and obey their slightest wish. If a wind stirs while they sleep curtains are drawn that they may not be disturbed. When they drive out a mounted escort accompanies them, and all the people salaam as they pass."

"Once when taking tea with a rajah in his garden I was amused to notice that as he moved about among his guests a servant followed carrying a cup, which he kept always within reach of his master's hand. The rajah would take a sip of tea and with perfect unconcern set his cup down in midair. With unflinching dexterity the saucer was placed under it by the servant in time to avoid accident."

"One prince had suspended from the ceiling a silver couch, which was kept gently swaying while he slept or read. Another had a beautiful vine covered arbor, where artificial rain was made to fall while the nabob sat under a marble canopy in the center, cool and refreshed, with the rest of the world broiling about him."

Hardy Shetland Ponies.

The cost of raising Shetland ponies is remarkably low. These little animals are natives of a rough and semi-barren locality, where they are used to rustling for every mouthful of their food. When they are first brought over to this country they don't know the difference between oats and rice. They are complete strangers to a grain ration. In the Shetland Islands they run out the year round, without any shelter, and pick their living from between the rocks. For generation after generation these ponies have had to make this kind of a struggle for existence, and the result is a race of hardy little animals that are able to thrive on the coarsest food and to stand an amount and degree of exposure that would put an ordinary American horse out of business.—National Stockman and Farmer.

Burmese Tartar Wooling.

Wooling as done among Burmese Tartar tribes is as simple as it is idyllic. On the first day of winter the tribe holds a great feast at which all the marriageable girls gather and listen to the music made by the bachelors, who sit under the "desire tree" and play their favorite instruments. As the maiden he loves passes him a youth will play louder and more feelingly. If she ignores and passes on he knows she will have none of him. If she steps up to him and lays a flower upon his instrument he jumps up, takes her by the hand, taking care not to drop the flower, and off they wander.—Argonaut.

Sea Anemones.

Sea anemones, delicate and sensitive though they look, may attain great age. Sir John Dairyle, a Scottish naturalist, captured in 1828 a sea anemone of the liver colored sort so common around our shores. Its age was then estimated at seven years. It flourished in Edinburgh until 1887 and was just attaining a vigorous and sober maturity when from some unknown cause it died.—London Express.

It Hurt Him.

Tommy—Did the fowl hurt you, Mr. Squires? Mr. Squires—What fowl? You mean, my dear? What fowl? Tommy—Well, I wanted to know if it hurt, because mummy said you had been henpecked for twenty years.—London Strand Magazine.

A Rare Feat.

"The patent sprinkler which is such a success for its inventor is a contrary sort of thing."

"In what way?" "It raises the dust for him, you know, by laying it for other people."—Exchange.

Rough on Pa.

"Pa, what's a genius?" "Ask your mother; she married one." "Why, I didn't know ma had been married twice."—Houston Post.
