It isn't because the Reporter is so well pleased with the foundation being built for the new road that it is keeping quiet, nor because it is afraid to speak and point out where good money is being wasted, but it wants to give the council a chance to see how big a donkey it can make of itself when not interfered with. Just now everybody else is making such loud expressions that the criticisms the Reporter would dare print would be so mild in comparison that they might be mistaken for compliments.

LOCALS

One of Centre Hall's greatest needs: a stone quarry.

Mrs. William F. Keller went to Johnstown, last week, to visit her sister, Mrs. S. M. Goodhart.

The only farmer in this section who had oats sown before Saturday was J. H. Detwiler, east of Old Fort.

Dainty Daisy Mason, in a "Winning Girl"—the big, long show, at Garman's. Admission 10, 20 and 30 cents.

China Hall, Bellefonte, Pa., carries the largest and finest line of China, cut glass, lamps, etc., in Central Pennsylvania.

Mathias Weagley and daughters, Mary and Gladys, and Miss Maggie, Seltzinger, of Spring Mills, on Monday were guests of Prof. and Mrs. W. A. Kriss, in Centre Hall.

Clayton Homan went to Altoona, last week, on his motorcycle, his mission there being to instruct his brother, A. B. Homan, to operate an automobile he purchased recently.

The Standard Steel Works at Burnham are having a busy season, and the superintendent informs the officials at Lewistown that if houses are furnished, employment will be given to two hundred additional men.

Catharine and Earnest, daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Clayton Wagner, of near Centre Hall, have been quite ill during the past week or more. The former is suffering from typhoid fever and the latter from tonsillitis.

The Perry County Times gives an account of a hearty welcome extended to Rev. G. W. McInay, at New Bloomfield, participated in by his parishioners and the ministerium. One of the latter was Rev. J. W. Wagner.

Fergus Potter, Esq., one of Harris township's leading citizens, was in town on Monday. He is a firm believer in Wilson's methods of handling matters at the National Capitol, and is hopeful that he and the political party he represents will lead the nation safely through its present troubles.

J. L. Rankle, the Bellefonte plumber, who has been doing considerable work in his line in Centre Hall, was in town last week looking up additional plumbing. Mr. Rankle makes an effort to do his work in first-class style, and has little trouble in securing contracts where good workmanship and material are most desired.

Charles D. Bartholomew leased the Glass property, and will occupy it during the time his dwelling house will be undergoing remodeling. The location is across the street from where his improvements are being made, and this will give him a better opportunity to personally oversee the work, than were he to live at some more distant point.

John D. Lucas, the builder and contractor, purchased several of the foundry buildings from D. J. Meyer, and removed the material to a lot just east of where he lives. It is Mr. Lucas' intention to erect a dwelling house during the next year, provided he is not too hard pressed for time. The location is a corner lot, to the rear of Grange Acre.

The Lewistown Democrat and Sentinel of Tuesday contained this notice: Dr. J. Van Valzah Foster, Frank Goodhart and several other gentlemen from Centre Hall, made a trip to Lewistown last evening by auto. Dr. Foster was one of a class of eight candidates upon whom the initiatory and first degrees of Old Fellowship were conferred by Lewistown lodge, Bridge-Grafting.

T. C. Foster, one of the state's orchard demonstrators, did some high class work in the orchard at Old Fort, owned by W. Frank Bradford. A number of ten-year-old apple trees had been girdled by rabbits and mice, and bridge-grafting was resorted to with the hope of saving the trees. One particular tree was so badly damaged, that another method was adopted. Two wild apple sprouts were planted on opposite sides of the tree and the tops grafted onto the trunk of the main tree. Of course, not every bridge graft grows, but the work done by Mr. Foster was well performed, and if a small per cent. of the trees are saved, the reputation of Mr. Foster and bridge-grafting will be saved.

Valuable Horses Die.

Two valuable horses, one belonging to John Snaveley, of Spring Mills, and the other to William H. Homan, of near Centre Hall, died within the past ten days. Both animals suffered from a disease similar to, if not the same, as attacks western horses when first shipped east.

Perry H. Luse, of near Centre Hall, is nursing a sick horse with the same disease, and Mr. Snaveley also has several other horses very sick, but he is hopeful of their recovery.

Sheriff's Fee Bill.

In an opinion filed, at Easton, by Judge Stewart, the sheriff's fee bill of 1911 is declared unconstitutional, and the court holds that sheriff's are entitled to charge fees under the act of 1901. It is the first judicial opinion given out on the act of 1911.

The opinion contains a discussion of what fees are allowed under the latter act. The matter was brought before the court in a case stated between Sheriff Henry Meyers and the county of Northampton.

Harris Township.

David Stuart, of Bellevue, spent a few days in this place.

Fishermen were plentiful on the banks of our streams on Tuesday.

Mrs. Wm. Myers and sister, Mrs. Ellen Shuey visited at Centre Hall. John Stover and Roy Coxey were home from Altoona for a short visit.

F. W. Weber is putting a new roof on his house and doing some other repair work.

Services in the Reformed church next Sunday will be held in the afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Margaret Riley, of Millinburg, spent Monday and Tuesday at Boalsburg, her former home.

Prof. J. H. Harnish departed on Saturday for Harrisburg where a good position is awaiting him.

Miss Hazel Lucas departed on Monday for Washington City, where she will remain for some time with Mrs. George Boal.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sellers spent a few days with friends at Boalsburg before going to their new home at Lewisburg.

The property of Mrs. Hannah Woamer, deceased, and also some household goods, will be sold at public sale on Friday afternoon.

The birthday of Mrs. John Luech was delightfully remembered by a surprise party composed of a number of her kindred and associates, who assembled at her home on Monday evening to celebrate the event.

Among those from this place who were present at the commencement exercises of the Pine Grove Mills High School on Friday evening were: Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Harrison, Prof. and Mrs. H. C. Rothrock, Elmer Houtz, Foster Charles, John Stover, Howard Bricker, George Houtz, John Weber, and Harry Klingler.

Shipping rhododendron and laurel plants has become a lucrative business engaged in by Andy Lytle, of near State College. Mr. Lytle owns the Burchfield home, at Shingletown Gap.

The lumber has been marketed and now nearly all of the place is used for pasture lands, but the owner found a new source of revenue. For many years the "Gap" has been a local resort. The rhododendron and laurels grow in profusion, and the spot is one most beautiful. These plants are carefully dug up, properly packed and shipped to Philadelphia, where they are sold, the net returns to the shipper being twenty and twenty-two cents. The plants are resold at fifty cents, and will beautify the estates of the wealthy living in and near that great city. Who of us, who for years have enjoyed this beauty spot, and from the shady nooks cast pebbles into the brook, ever thought the rhododendron a valuable plant? Who? Andy Lytle.

Spring Mills.

John Roush moved from Penn Hall to State College on Tuesday.

Elmer Boob, of Feldler, is baling hay for the farmers, in this vicinity.

Mrs. Willard Jamison entered the Lock Haven hospital for treatment, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Morris, of Huntingdon, are visiting their daughter, Mrs. John Myers. Arrangements are being made to begin work on the state road beginning at Penn Hall and working westward. Ten men began to quarry stone at Allison's quarry on Wednesday morning.

Robersburg.

Our farmers are greatly detained in doing their spring work on account of the late rains.

Samuel Mowery and family were to Woodward on Saturday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Mowery's father, Daniel Stover.

Henry Wolfert this week moved his family to Maryland, where he is employed at lumbering. Wilbur Deihl moved into the house Wolfert vacated.

Robersburg is in need of a good machinist. The machine shop and foundry at the east end of town is vacant and is waiting for the right man.

Jerome Meyer who bought the Ben Beck property situated along the mountain north of Wolf's Store, planted several hundred peach trees in one of the mountain fields, and will try his luck in raising fruit on that tract of land.

John Ziegler is at present engaged at spraying orchards for the destruction of the San Jose scale with which many orchards in this valley are afflicted. Mr. Ziegler makes a specialty of this business.

Hon. S. W. Bierly, of Williamsport, who owns a small tract of land south of Smulton on which he planted quite a number of fruit trees, is at present here looking after the pruning and grafting which is being done for him.

Charles Faxon would like to let the public know that he is the proud father of a wee little baby of whose birth your correspondent should have made mention in last week's issue. We beg your pardon, Charles, for this negligence.

Four Great Sauces.

A Frenchman has declared that "man has created the culinary art. He does not eat like an animal—he breakfasts, dines and sups."

The French are particularly eloquent on the subject of sauces. Among their famous chefs are recognized four great sauces—Spanish, Veloute, Bechamel and German. The Spanish and Veloute were known as far back as the seventeenth century. In the eighteenth they were modified by the masters of cookery, particularly by Carême, who was called "the Raphael of the kitchen."

The Spanish sauce is composed of juices extracted from a mixture of ham, veal, chicken and pheasant. Veloute is similar, but is not colored. Bechamel is Veloute to which cream has been added, and the German sauce is Veloute plus the yolks of eggs—Harper's.

What Hurt Him.

"Did you hear about the accident to Bjinks?"

"Why, no. What happened?"

"Oh, the darned fool was seriously hurt this afternoon."

"In his automobile, I suppose?"

"No, that's the trouble."

"What do you mean? I know he's a reckless driver, and—"

"And you think he was hurt in his car. Well, he wasn't. He was hurt by a tree about ten feet ahead of the car. If he'd been able to stay in the car he'd never have been hurt."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

East Indian Theaters.

Many East Indian theaters keep their performances going until 4 or 5 o'clock in the morning. These dramatic orgies are not, says the Times of India, however, due to the length of the plays, as in Chinese theaters, but to the fact that the tramps do not begin running till 5 o'clock. As the spectators gather from distant villages and have strong objections to paying gharry hire, they expect to be entertained until the trams start.

Pleasant Punishment.

Pastor—I hear that the lightning struck your house, Hohenbueher. That is a punishment for your wickedness. Penant—Well, sir, it's a punishment I wouldn't mind having again, for I got 4,000 marks insurance from it.—Lustige Blatter.
