Great Deal Depends on Selection of Setting Eggs.

Should Be Those From Year Old Birds, as Chicks Will Be Larger and Stronger Than Those From Pullets.

(By A. J. WILDER.) Care should be taken to save for settings only the eggs from the best hens. A very great difference can be made in a flock in a few seasons by the selection of the eggs for hatching

"Myself and whole household had suf-By choosing the largest eggs the fowls will be much larger in size, but there is a great probability that they will not be good layers. The hen that lays an unusually large egg is quite likely to lay only every other day. By setting her eggs and again the next season setting the largest eggs, you will develop a strain of large fowls that will lay very large eggs, but will lay only every other day, or even less. On the other hand, if you set the eggs from the hens, that as pullets laid during their first fall and winter, and coptinue to set eggs from such hens, fou will develop a strain of early winter layers.

The eggs for settings should be from year old hens, as the chicks will be larger and stronger than those from pullet eggs. It is best to mate

Feed the hens a little air slacked lime in the mash to give the eggs a good strong shell. Be sure the lime is well slacked and give two tablespoonfuls to 100 hens every day.

Do not force the breeding stock for egg production. Feed them mostly whole grain, wheat, oats, corn and barley. Let the mash be a light feed and give them fresh sweet meat scraps twice a week.

Feed plenty of green food, unless the fowls have range where they can find it for themselves. Keep them supplied with pure, clean drinking water and have charcoal, grit, oyster shell and dry bone always before them. Don't forget a little salt in the mash. It should always be salted as much as the same quantity of food would be for the table.

The hens must be made to exercise might have an important bearing on by scratching for their grain in the litter. They must be healthy and in good condition if you are to raise strong, healthy chicks,

A diseased condition of the hen is transmitted to the egg and will appear in the chick when hatched.

Protection for Trees. Some orchardists have been successful in protecting their trees by smearing the trunks near the ground with mixtures which are distasteful to rabbits. For this purpose whitewash, a mixture of glue and copperas, decoction of quassia chips and blood or grease, have been used. Mechanical protection by means of some wrapping is more permanent and effective than any form of wash.

Effect of Animal Husbandry. Live stock make it necessary to diversify crops and grow more crops upon which there is a wider margin they are more than likely to yield of profit. Animals also distribute labor, furnish employment in time of bad weather, or when field work is manure is often sufficient to justify next season's breeders. raising animals.

Converted Wagon. From the standpoint of convenience, the farm wagon that has been made over into a low-down vehicle with wide steel tires has a strong appeal. It is easily loaded, and overcomes all the objections to high wagons of the old type.

IMPROVING HEN FLOCK PROPER FEED FOR THE HENS

Varied Diet Necessary for Best Re suits From Layers-Dry Mash Always Before Fowls.

A method which has given very satsfactory results for the American breeds has been worked out by Prof. J. C. Graham of the Massachusetts Agricultural college. A dry mash is kept in hoppers before the hens at all times and a scratch feed is fed night and morning. The dry mash is composed of equal parts bran, wheat middlings, corn meal, finely ground oats, ground alfalfa and beef scraps, and the scratch feed of two parts cracked corn, one part wheat and one part oats, says the Farm and Home.

The scratch feed is varied, depending somewhat upon the condition of the hens. If on examination they are found too fat more oats and wheat and less corn are fed. Sometimes we feed three parts of corn to two parts of wheat at night and oats in the morning.

At certain seasons of the year more grain is fed at night in the litter than the hens will eat, so there will be some left for them to work on early the next morning. This is found to be a very satisfactory method. At times oats are fed alone, for when the three are mixed together the wheat and corn are picked up first and the hens that eat the fastest get very little of the oats.

If it is desired to force the hens, in addition to the dry mash and grain, moisten some of the mash, getting it to a crumbly state and placing it in troughs, what they will eat in 15 minutes. This is fed at night. Fresh water, oyster shell and grit are kept before the hens. Mangels and cabbages are fed whole every day when possible, but at least three times a week.

BIG FACTOR IN INCUBATION

Lack of Ventilation Given as Cause for Many Failures in Artificially Hatched Eggs.

The question of the cause or causes of the lower hatching percentage that commonly characterizes artificial incubation when compared with results obtained when eggs are set under hens is a matter about which there is considerable conjecture, but little definite knowledge. In connection with various theories that have been advanced and several experiments that have been made, it is perhaps suggestive that investigators have recently inclined to the opinion that unsatisfactory results are probably due in greater measure than is generally supposed to an excess of ventilation. there is a larger amount of carbon dioxide in the air surrounding the eggs that are naturally hatched than question is raised as to whether and to what extent it may be an essential factor in incubation.
