

DEATHS

The following death notice is reprinted from the Orangeville (Illinois) Courier:

Capt. W. J. Reitzell died at his home in Freeport last Saturday afternoon after an illness of several years. The funeral was held Monday afternoon from his late home. Capt. Reitzell was born in Rebersburg, Pa., January 19, 1835. He came to Stephenson county in 1840. At the opening of the war he enlisted in the Company B, 46th regiment, Illinois Volunteer Infantry. At the close of the war he was brevetted major by President Johnson.

On October 17th, 1865, he was united in marriage to Miss Susan Hershey, of Lancaster township, who survives him. Nine children were born to them: Allie M., at home; Mrs. J. S. Barnore, of Orangeville; John J., who died in childhood; Harry W., of Pasadena, California; Mrs. E. L. Boggs and Wilbur H., of Chicago; Mrs. F. E. Dillon, of Los Angeles, California; Mrs. F. M. Gund, of Freeport, and Frank A., of Greenfield, Mass.

William E. Miller, a member of the firm of John H. Miller's Sons, grain dealers, died Thursday of last week, at his home in Tyrone. While Mr. Miller had been seriously ill for some time of a complication of diseases, his death came as a great shock to his family and friends. Mr. Miller was of a quiet and unassuming disposition, a good husband and a kind father.

William E. Miller was the son of the late John H. Miller, deceased, and Nancy K. Bottorff Miller. He was born at Pine Grove Mills forty-six years ago last February. When a young man he moved to Peterburg and in 1888 located in Tyrone. Twenty-three years ago he was united in marriage to Miss Grace Chamberlain, who with the following children mourn the death of husband and father: Fred, Robert D., Jessie and Marian. He is also survived by his mother and the following brothers and sisters: John K., Charles O., Miss Blanche, of Tyrone, and Mrs. W. A. Krebs, of Ebeneturg.

William Randolph, aged six months, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Hez, of Greenburg, died at that place. The body was brought to Pleasant Gap for interment.

Deaths of Centre Countians.

Ralph Spicer, aged twelve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Spicer, in Benner township.

John Guiser, in Walker township aged seventy-three years.

Mrs. Henry Emel, at the Forge, aged forty-two years and six months.

Edna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Dunkle, of Nittany, aged ten years.

Rebersburg.

Mifflin Moyer and family, of Centre Hall, spent last Saturday and Sunday with relatives at this place.

W. J. Carlin, Esq. is at present afflicted with the automobile fever, and we would advise some auto agent to come and prescribe for him.

Mrs. Harry Musser has returned from her visit to Philadelphia. She was accompanied home by her husband, who is employed in the Quaker City.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Minnich and son Stover were to Aaronburg on Wednesday to attend the funeral of Mr. Minnich's grand-mother, Mrs. Solomon Winkleblech.

Quite a number of the farmers in this section in their haste to complete oats seeding, overheated their horses. The weather was warm and this had much to do in causing the faithful animals to suffer.

H. K. Small, the blacksmith, has placed a lot of mason stones on his building lot which adjoins the school lot. Mr. Small, some time ago, bought a blacksmith shop at Wolf's Store, and will in the near future tear it down, and haul the lumber to this place and use it to build a dwelling house for himself.

Victor Walker, the mail carrier, quite recently had several men employed at his own expense to remove the loose stones from the public road which leads from Rebersburg to Centre Mills. The public roads have been greatly neglected during the past year, and if this continues there is reason to fear there will be trouble in the future for some one.

Rain set in on Saturday night, and continued throughout Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. The total precipitation was a little less than two inches, making the total for the month 2.44 inches. Much of the oats and barley was sown during last week, and the rain will be beneficial to this as well as that sown earlier. The clover and grasses are also growing more rapidly since the rains, and the wheat fields continue to look more promising as the days go by. Farmers are well along with their work, and as soon as the surplus moisture is carried off, corn fields will be gotten ready for planting.

JULIET'S BALCONY.

It Looks Just as It Did When Romeo Wooed the Sweet Veronese.

This was the home of the Capulets, from whom descended Juliet, for whom so many kind hearts have wept and of whom the poets have sung.

You read the words on a tablet by the side of a tall and slender gray house in a quiet street of Verona. A few steps farther on the busy life of the old city is centered in the market place and in the one or two streets that lead from it. You stand in front of the lightly built dwelling, and you look at the slim balcony of wood from which bent forward the form of the radiant girl whose undying love story has echoed down the ages. It is an autumn day, and within the rail of the narrow framework some one has placed red flowers in tall green pots. A curtain at the little window moves in the breeze, and you expect at any moment to see the dainty form of Juliet appear and to hear a rippling laugh fall from her lips.

A woman steps from the room beyond, through the open window and stands to listen. She has a child in her arms, and he claps his hands, laughing and crowing, no doubt just as the beloved Veronese did centuries ago. The mother hushes him, for she is intently listening to the market cries. In the midst of that everyday life walks the immortal Juliet—London Telegraph.

POWER OF THE SUN.

If Man Could Only Utilize It in a Perfect Heat Engine.

The heat of the sun that would be received on one square acre of the earth's surface at right angles to the rays of the sun, if the sky was clear and all other conditions favorable, would, if man could utilize all in a perfect heat engine, exert the power of 12,000 horses. But this figure is not of mathematical accuracy owing to the discrepancy of results among different researchers in many parts of the world, on plains at sea level, higher and on tops of the highest mountains to which scientific instruments could be carried.

And this great force has been at work during millions of years in forming the world for the abode of coming man. Winds, tides, rains, chemical activity, coal, wood, oil—these and more are all due to this vast power of the sun.

A "horsepower" (how much longer will this word be used, when kilowatt is so much better?) is a force that can lift a weight of 33,000 pounds through a height of one foot in one minute. Thus the solar power reaching the deck of a slow going steamer, if all made available by the genius of man, could run the engines at a reasonable and comparatively safe rate.—Edgar Lucien Larkin in New York American Satellites of Saturn.

Photometric studies of six of the principal satellites of Saturn, made by Guthnick of the royal observatory of Berlin, indicate a confirmation of the previous conclusions of other observers that several, and perhaps all, of these satellites behave like our own moon in keeping always the same side toward the planet around which they revolve. In regard to the satellite named Tethys, an interesting hypothesis is offered to account for its very marked changes of luminosity. The theory is that Tethys possesses the form of a long ellipsoid, the two principal axes of which are to one another in the ratio of five to two. A similar suggestion has been made concerning the shape of the asteroid Eros, which likewise exhibits great variations of light, according to its position in its orbit around the sun.—Harper's.

Keep the Armholes Down.

It is strange that not one person in a thousand knows how to help a man on with his coat or a lady with her jacket. They all make the mistake of holding the garment too high, especially the last sleeve. They lift it so that a man nearly dislocates his arm reaching for it. The more futilely he grabs and claws and lurches for it the higher they hold it until the wretched victim would have to get on a pair of stilts to find the armhole. The proper way? Why, hold the coat so that the armholes are as low down as the man's waist, taking care to keep the skirt of the garment off the floor, of course. If there is any struggle to find the last armhole, drop it still lower. Never raise it. Drop it until his hand slips into it naturally.

Emily Bronte.

G. K. Chesterton has added his meed of praise to Emily Bronte, the woman writer, who of all others has perhaps won most unstinted praise from men. A splendid creature Chesterton calls the author of "Wuthering Heights," and the book itself he finds likewise splendid. "But there is nothing human about it. It might have been written by an angel."

A Perfect Defense.

"Sam, dear," asked Mrs. Prouty, who had been away from home the greater part of July and August, "what is the matter with the garden?"

"I don't know," answered Sam humbly. "I haven't done anything to it."—Youth's Companion.

Spunky Retort.

Mrs. Peck—Henry, why did you feign sleep last night when I was talking to you? Henry—My dear, I did not feign sleep, though I fain would have slept.—Judge.

LOCALS.

It is just developing that it even requires some forethought and skill to build a good road.

R. M. Gordon, of Bloomsburg, a man of experience as a funeral director, is associated with Harry N. Koch, at State College, in the undertaking business.

The supreme court set aside the verdict of the lower court which gave Miss Lillie Dale judgement in the sum of $1800 against the executors of the estate of the late George Dale.

F. E. Brown, the stock dealer at Brook Park, near Lewisburg, is a loser of a good safe that was blown to pieces by yeggmen the other night. There was no money in the safe.

The county commissioners have awarded the contract for building the new reinforced bridge over Elk creek, on the Peters road in Millheim, to the Curwensville Construction company. The contract price is $2390.

Samuel Durst sold a bunch of nice fat cattle to a Mill Hall butcher. The cattle were all grown by Mr. Durst, and he thinks they proved profitable to him. The price paid was seven and one-half cents per pound.

Robert Meyer is suffering from a light attack of typhoid fever, and is being cared for in the Altoona City Hospital. His father, Prof. P. H. Meyer, and Clayton Homan, visited him on Sunday, making the trip in the former's car.

Prof. John Price Jackson, dean of the school of engineering, at Pennsylvania State College, has been elevated by Governor Tener as chief of the department of labor. The new position carries with it a salary of $8 000 per annum.

Dr. and Mrs. H. S. Braucht, Mrs. C. P. Long and daughter, Miss Mable, of Spring Mills, were in town Friday evening. The former states that Superintendent Geppart is making good progress in the road building, and that he undoubtedly understands his business.

J. H. Weber has laid a concrete foundation for an office and scale shed at the Centre Hall Roller Mills. The office will be built with a view of better accommodating himself and the customers, and will be so constructed that weighing may be done without leaving the office proper, and at the same time show the scale beams and weight to the customers on the outside. The scale now in use will be dismantled, and the office now occupied will become a part of the warehouse.

COURT PROCLAMATION.

Whereas the Honorable Ellis L. Orvis, President Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the Forty-ninth Judicial District, consisting of the county of Centre, having issued his precept bearing date the 29th day of March, 1913, to me directed for holding a Court of Common Pleas, Orphans Court, Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace, Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery, in Bellefonte, for the county of Centre, and to commence on the being the 19th day of May, 1913, and to continue two weeks.

THIRD MONDAY OF MAY

Notice is hereby given to the Coroners, Justices of the Peace, Aldermen, and Constables of said county of Centre, that they be then and there, in their proper persons at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of the 19th, with their records, inquisitions, examinations, and their own memoranda, to do those things which to their office appertain to be done and those who are bound in recognizances, to prosecute against the prisoners that are or shall be in jail of Centre county, be then and there to prosecute against them as shall be just.

Given under my hand at Bellefonte, the 21st day of April in the year of our Lord, 1913, and the one hundred and thirty-sixth year of the Independence of the United States of America.

ARTHUR B. LEE, Sheriff.

Sheriff's Office, Bellefonte, April 21, 1913.

There never was a time when people appreciated the real merits of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy more than now. This is shown by the increase in sales and voluntary testimonials from persons who have been cured by it. If you or your children are troubled with a cough or cold give it a trial and become acquainted with its good qualities. For sale by all dealers. adv.

ENDED THE COMEDY.

A Telegraphic Dialogue That Closed With the "Wires" Down.

Two telegraph operators were seated in a downtown cafe recently when an athletic young man and an exceedingly pretty girl entered. They were placed at a table opposite the "key" men, who were sitting side by side in a position facing the girl. As is the custom of the craft when wishing to discuss some one in a public place, they telegraphed to each other, using their knives on the plate.

"Peacherino, isn't she?" one ticked to the other.

"A tree full," came back the tapping reply. "Wonder who the sack is with her?"

"Search me—looks like a boob tied up with a wren like her."

"Bet they aren't married. If they are, all she needs to do to get a divorce is to exhibit that map of his in court."

While the two men were enjoying a laugh over their silent joking they were surprised and somewhat alarmed to hear some more "table knife telegraphy." The "peacherino" was doing it, and she did not look at all pleased, either.

"You two had better look out while you are all together," carelessly ticked her knife blade while she listened to something her companion was saying.

"This sack and boob, as you called him, with the divorce map, is my husband—safe mover by trade. He eat fresh little boys."

Something happened to the "wires" about that time, and all communication ceased.—Kansas City Journal.
