Lutheran Reunion.

The five congregations comprising the Centre Hall Lutheran charge were well represented at the annual reunion of the charge held on Grange Park last Thursday. The sky was overcast with clouds in the morning, but by nine o'clock there were good signs of a fair day, and so it proved to be. After the noon repast there was an assembling in the auditorium, and after a brie! discussion the second Thursday in August was named as the time for the reunions in the future, the place for holding the same to be fixed by a committee appointed each year. Rev. B F. Bieber, a former pastor, then gave a brief talk which was interesting and instructive, and a few remarks by the pastor followed, after which the body again went into general picnic session over the camp ground. An attraction in the afternoon was a game of base ball between Boalsburg and Centre Hall, and account of which appears elsewhere in this issue.

McCleilan-Fleisher Reunion The McClellan-Fleisher reunion held near Tusseyville on Thursday of last week was largely attended by members of the respective families. The annual gathering brings together points, and the occasion is a most delightful one. Addresses were delivered by Dr. H. A. Spangler of Yeagertown, who spoke not only on the occasion, but gave his famous lecture on the "Holy Land." Other speakers were Rev. F. H. Foss, pastor of the United Evangelical church ; Rev. S. H. Deitzel, a Reformed minister, and atto:ney S. E. Gettig, the latter two being products of the locality in which the reunion was held.

Of course, a strong feature of the occasion was the social side. There was a close commution of old friends Differences were cast aside, and as one great family the assembly gathered in groups and collectively to rehearse the happenings during the past year and highest point at the noon hour, when all assembled to nourish the body. The good, old mothers, and the young and handsome sisters in such an assemblage outdo any menu at any aristocratic cafe when the spread is considered.

The reunion will be held next year on the first Thursday after the first Monday in August, which is a fixed date for the gathering.

Lion and Locomotive.

A construction train was puffing along with a heavy load of material, was sighted stretched right across the line and basking peacefully in the sun. In reply to the whistle of the engine the brute looked up lazily, but did not attempt to move. The efforts of the driver and the stoker to drive bim off the line by pelting him with billets of wood were no better rewarded. The train was on the point of coming to a standstill when the lion lost his temper. He took a sudden spring at the engine, seeking in vain for something on its smooth surface into which he could drive bis claws and thus secure a footbold. Again and again the beast sprang, falling clear of the engine every time. The driver then realized that the best thing to do was to go full steam ahead and trust to the weight of the trucks behind the train on the line to clear the lion from its path. This was done, with the result that the lion, a magnificent specimen. was cut to pieces by the engine wheels. -"Cape to Cairo Railway" in Empire Magazine.

Rest Before Eating.

In the first place, never come to table with a mind full of worries and trou bles or in an irritable state of temper nor, again, should you attempt to eat when very fatigued. Both these states tend to diminish the blood supply to the digestive organs and therefore to hinder digestion. Do not read or study when eating, but also do not sit glumly silent. A little pleasant conversation is helpful and prevents one getting into the obnoxious and dangerous habit of bolting one's food. Masticate your food thoroughly. The preservation of the teeth depends largely on the use or misuse of them at meal times. To maintain them in health and strength they must be given plenty of work to do. Also in order that your meals may be properly digested they must be well masticated Especially is this neces sary in the case of farinaceous or starchy foods .- "Health In Business."

Sensitive Cheese.

"A cheese in the making is as, sensitive to a cold as you are." said a cheese monger. "The finest cheese if it is left in a draft will catch cold and deterior ate. There will be no flavor to that cheese thereafter. You mustn't bruise a cheese either. Knock its face and i will discolor, like flesh, and the hurt place will spoll. A cheese, in fact, is flesh for the most part-a solid mass of living microbes-and that's why it catches cold and bruises. It's alive. you see, like you and me. Fancy cheeses are made by a secret process Thus Gorgonzola, the Italian cheese, is

Three Months Without Sun.

In the valley of the Lyn, in England, Middleham, where for three months in the year the sun is not seen. The cluster of houses forming the hamlet is surrounded on all sides by hills so steep and high that from November until February the sun does not rise high enough to be seen over their tops. The looked for, and as it is first seen on Feb. 14 the inhabitants call it their valentine. If the day should be foggy or cloudy, so that it cannot be seen, there is great disappointment. For the first few days after the 14th the sun is only seen for a very short time, but as the sun rises higher in the heavens the time it is in sight increases daily until its height is reached, when it gradually begins to fade from view again until in November it entirely vanishes from sight for another three months, Japanese Mirrors.

It is only during a comparatively short time that the Japanese have known glass as occidentals know it. When the first railroads were built passongers in the coaches often put their heads through the glass, supposing the frames of the windows to be empty. and the railroad company at length pasted pictures on the glass to call attention to the fact that a solid substance was behind them. The masses of the Japanese teday do not know the mirror as it is known in the west. The richer people have one mirror, indeed, but usually the glass used in the mirror, sold to the populace is not quickslivered, being merely well poiished. As for cut glass, it is practically unknown in the island, and glass drinking cups are rare .- Harper's Weekly.

His Criterion.

tic tendencies said of an argument on art:

"We must not look at art too ngrrowly. We must not be like the fa night of Tree's. Tree said to him after the performance:

"'Glad you liked it, my boy. It's a fine play, isn't it?'

"'It's magnificent,' the other answer? ed. 'I couldn't detect a join between a wig and a forebead anywhere."-Exchange.

Art Collector's Economy.

A good story is told of the great virtuoso and generoso, George Salting, says Mr. Thomas Seccombe in the New Witness. The collector hated spending money on anything save works of art. A friend met him once in a hat of unusual luster and remarkmade of goats' milk and ripened in ed upon it. "Yes," said the millioncaves, and its characteristic blue velns aire; "my brother's widow found it among his things and thought it might |

A Queer Marriage Ceremony.

A queer marriage ceremony was that there is a quaint little hamlet called in Queen Elizabeth's reign, before the deaf and dumb alphabet was invented, between Thomas Flishy and Ursula Bridget. Ursula could talk fast enough, but Thomas was a deaf mute, and as it was required that promises should be exchanged in spoken words nobody knew how to manage the thing. Finalfirst appearance of the sun is eagerly | ly the bishop of London helped to devise a service by signs, and Thomas proceeded thus: Having first taken Ursula in his arms, he took her by the hand and put the nuptial ring on her finger. He then laid his right hand significantly on his heart and afterward, putting their paims together, extended both his hands toward heaven. Having thus sued for divine blessing, he declared his purpose to live with Ursula till death should separate them by closing his eyelids with his fingers. digging the earth with his feet as though he wished to make a hole in the ground and then moving his arms and body as though he were tolling a funeral bell.

Curious Marine Tragedy.

On March 31, 1849, the pilotboat Coquette, cruising off Cape May, discovered a capsized schooner floating bottom up. A boarding party put off to the wreck, and some of the crew climbed up on the rounded bottom. Suddenly rappings were heard on the inside. Evidently some one was imprisoned in the hold. Saws and axes were brought, and a hole was cut in the schooner's bottom. But the attempt at rescue brought swift disaster. The imprisoned air that had sustained the captives rushed out, and the schooner began to sink rapidly. As the water rose on the inside one of the doomed sallors struggled near enough to the bole to cry out that A New York society woman of artis- they were five in all, one forward and four aft. The capsized vessel was the Russell, and they had been prisoners for five days. Then the water reached his lips, and the would be rescuers mous London wigmaker. Ships of the Unchanging Line, Perhaps you have watched the evolutions of the battleship fleet in formation and have wondered whether those great ships, preserving that perfect alignment and distance, must not be parts of one single whole. If you are on board of them the illusion is still more striking. Perhaps you will not observe the slightest change in the line forward or aft in a day's time. One man in especial will never forget how standing on the same spot on the bridge of the Rhode Island steaming northward from Peru, he saw the sun set three nights in succession over the identical funnel of the Maine, following behind. As the red ball sank into the South Pacific the smoke pipe split it evenly to the watcher's sight, three nights running!-New York Post.

Dress Trousers,

Wise men make a point of having two pairs of trousers to each evening coat, and one pair of trousers is of heavy cloth. Trousers of this kind are probably of the same thickness as those worn in the day. They last longer than trousers of thin cloth and look better all the time, because they are not easily knocked out of shape with continuous hard wear every evening. Knowing this, some men make a point of always baving the trousers of their evening suit made of cloth a little thicker than that of the coat-London Standard.

A Stern Censor.

An English censor once passed a play called "London Life." In the third act of the play the hero, entering a restaurant, calls for a chop and a jug of musty ale. Opposite this speech the censor wrote, "During Lent the order must be a glass of water and a plate of dry toast."

Man and His Muscles, The total strength of all the muscles in the body of a strong man can be estimated at about 10,000 pounds. Apart from the voluntary muscles, which number over 500, there are infinite involuntary ones which are even too great to attempt to estimate.

Well, that's what you can get at our special sale which is now going on. We started out with 1400 pairs of Men's and Young Men's Trousers at one-third less than our regular prices. And as our regular prices are fully one-fourth less than the prices of other stores, this means a saving of one-half of what equally good I rousers cost anywhere else. Hence two pairs of Trousers for the price of one. Of course you know that all clothing here costs less than elsewhere, because you buy directly from the wholesale jobbers. The profit you save makes the difference between our prices and other stores' prices.
