

Diphtheria East of Centre Hall.
The little son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lair, tenant on the Keller brothers' farm, east of Centre Hall, became ill a few days ago, and later Dr. J. V. Foster diagnosed the case as diphtheria. To support his findings, Dr. M. S. Huff, state health officer for Centre county, was called to examine the child, and found the family physician's diagnosis correct.

Court News.
Little of the business transacted at court this week is of interest to South Side residents.
Ivan Walker, a student under N. B. Spangler, was admitted to the bar.
Frank Hanna of Spring Mills charged with stealing bicycles plead guilty.
A verdict of not guilty was found by the jury in the Jerre Sowers horse stealing case.
Court adjourned Wednesday morning.

A Good Investment for the Family.
In these days of wide vision and broad interests, when what happens at a distance is often of as much concern to intelligent folk as what happens in their own communities, every family ought to subscribe for at least one well edited city newspaper. For people who measure newspaper value by quality rather than by bulk, there is none better for the purpose of keeping in touch with the progress of events at home and abroad than "The Philadelphia Record."

Target Gun Fatal.
Reed McGill, aged fourteen years, son of Lewis McGill, in East Nittany Valley, was accidentally shot and killed by Edward Mayes, about the same age, and a companion. The boys were out in the fields, and young Mayes claims that he did not know the boy had been hit. It was first thought young McGill had died of acute indigestion, the undertaker first having discovered the bullet hole in his back. Mayes was arrested and is under $1000 bail for involuntary manslaughter.

Mrs. Jane Mabon Dead.
Mrs. Jane Mabon died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jerre Smith, west of Centre Hall, on Tuesday of last week, and interment was made at Centre Hall on Friday. She was aged seventy years, fourteen days. She is survived by the daughter named and several sons. Her husband died about a year ago.

OLD ENGLISH JURIES.

They Were Fined or Beaten For Not Reaching a Verdict.
Not always enviable was the lot of the old time jurymen, for there was always the prospect of trouble if the verdict did not gratify the higher powers. Thus the failure of a jury to convict Sir Nicholas Throckmorton made Queen Mary "ill for three days," and she came out of her sick chamber to fine the disobedient jury (meanwhile confined in prison) the sum of $10,000 a head.
Elizabeth followed the same plan, and the practice of fining English juries did not cease until 1670, when a fine inflicted by the notorious Jeffreys was rescinded on appeal.
In some old time "courts of quarter sessions" the injunction to lay their heads together had to be carried out by jurymen in literal fashion. When they began to consider the verdict they were supposed to dive beneath the level of the jury box and remain in that cramped position until a decision was reached.
Meanwhile the court usher stood near the box armed with a long wand of willow. If any jurymen ventured to emerge above the surface before the twelve minds were agreed down came the wand on the head of the offender.—Chicago News.

MOTIONS OF PLANTS.

Some Forms of Vegetable Life Have the Power of Choice.
One of the chief distinctions between vegetable and animal life is that animals have power of choice and of voluntary motion, while vegetables and plants grow only mechanically by natural law. But the microscope seems to show that many vegetable forms can move as easily as can animals.
There is a plant called Volvox globator, so minute that millions of it could be put in a wineglass, which is seen to whirl like a top across the field of the microscope. Some plants found in our ponds, which are still more minute, move habitually, as with an apparent purpose.
Darwin, who gave closer study than any other naturalist to climbing plants, stated that these seemed to exercise the liberty of choice. Their tendrils, in climbing over pieces of wood with holes, will try one hole after another until they find one that pleases them. He saw one tendril withdraw itself after having located itself in a hole for thirty-six hours.
Other plants will run a long way over the ground, refusing to climb the trees in their path until they come to a peculiar species of tree, to which they at once cling.—Harper's Weekly.

Misuse of the Dictionary.
Since the time of Johnson the dictionaries have attempted to record the pronunciations prevalent among the best speakers of English in their generation. That they should dictate pronunciation was, of course, as ridiculous as it would have been futile. But, as in the case of Caesar, the honor of dictators seems to have been thrust upon them. Those who found themselves wallowing in the slough of despond because of conflicting pronunciations appealed to the dictionary as their arbiter and protector, and for their future safety excited it to the position of a despot. Thus, while nobody searches the dictionary to avoid those words which it stigmatizes as slang, the pronunciation fiend is continually devouring its pages lest he commit the unpardonable sin of uttering a syllable not sanctioned by its authority.—Robert J. Menner in the Atlantic Monthly.

The Deaf and Dumb.
In early times it was an opinion, maintained even by philosophers, that the education of the deaf and dumb was impossible. It was then believed that language could be acquired only through the medium of the ear, as shown by the couplet of Lucretius:
To instruct the deaf no art could ever reach.
No care improve them and no wisdom teach.
The first mention of instruction for the deaf and dumb is found in Bede, A. D. 965. No other case is met with for some centuries. Rudolph Agricola of Heidelberg makes mention of an educated deaf mute in his "Dialectica," 1480. It was not until 1620 that instruction for the deaf and dumb began to be general.—New York American.
