Boyer's Large Apple Crop.

One of the best commercial apple orchards in Snyder county is that of the late Francis E. Boyer in West Perry township. The 600 bearing trees were planted sixteen years ago. They made their largest yield in 1912, when 5500 bushels were marketed. This year the crop is estimated at 2800 bushels.

Will Hunt on Their Farms.

Many farmers are not taking out a hunter's license, but propose having the sport of taking game on their premises, and with this in view trespass notices are being posted on many farms and in woods. The trespass notice is lightly regarded by some hunters, but an example of how the law works will do a mighty work in emphasizing the protection these notices afford land owners.

Planning for Co-Operative Creamery.

Progress Grange has taken up the creamery question, and during the past week subscriptions for stock have been solicited, the subscriptions to be binding only provided sufficient funds can be raised. The Centre county Pomona Grange headed the subscription with $500.

On Monday evening a special meeting of the members of Progress Grange will be held in Grange Arcadia to further discuss the question. Every member of the order should be present at this meeting, and give an expression of their views on the question.

The co-operative creamery has been successfully conducted in many sections of the country, and Grangers are conducting them with marked success in some localities. The agriculturalists, as a class, complain bitterly that they are not receiving as much as they should for their products, and in many instances this is true. The remedy of this is to market the products direct from the farm, and the only way this can be done is to unite forces.

LOCALS.

Put some pepper in your work, and no one can say you are not worth your salt.

Another fine shower came along Saturday evening, just at dusk. The fall was a trifle over a quarter inch.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has just ordered the building of 46 new locomotives for early delivery.

A fine rain came along Thursday of last week. The fall was a quarter inch, enough to freshen up the wheat and grass.

A street crossing has been constructed at the station, between the general stores of W. A. Odenkirk and George O. Benner.

If it is a manure spreader you want see the New Idea at work; note the draft; the work it performs.—J. H. Weber, Centre Hall.

A Reedsville correspondent says Mrs. Margaret Swabb of Centre Hall is ill at the home of her sister, Mrs. Catharine Reed, in that place.

Harry Neff, who for two years was the all round man on the Reporter's acres, is helping to do up the fall work after an intermission of six months.

When pondering over the question of the $50,000,000 bond issue for roads, we beg you to "Remember the Capital." Will Mr. Berry, now collector of the port of Philadelphia, please supply the word.

Rev. and Mrs. Stoy Spangler, the former pastor of the Pine Grove Mills charge of the Lutheran church, were kindly remembered by the parishioners. A handsome set of silverware was presented them.

Dr. G. W. Hosterman is back from Lancaster where he visited his son, S. V. Hosterman. During his stay there the doctor suffered from "shingles", but has now pretty nearly recovered.

The worst enemies of municipal progress are the narrow-minded individuals who see no good in anything which they are not managing, or who publicly denounce other citizens of courtesy or public spirit offensive to the critics.

James Smith, Dr. P. H. Dale, State College; James Condo, Penn Hall; H. F. Rosman, A. N. Finkle, Spring Mills; W. L. Campbell, Fred Malone, Coburn, attended a meeting of the Masonic lodge in Centre Hall on Monday evening.

Automobile owners as well as all others who keep on hand a supply of gasoline, ought to secure the rules and regulations governing the storage, etc., of this very volatile fluid from the state fire warden. The penalty for violation includes a fine and imprisonment. Few of the supplies of gasoline are kept in conformity to the regulations laid down by the fire warden. For the safety of property every precaution should be taken.

John Messmer, who resides on the mountain north of Penn-Hall, in company with his sister, Mrs. Annie Reeder, started to drive to State College, one day last week, and while going down the mountain road to Brush Valley, the girth of the harness broke. The horse ran away, upsetting the buggy and throwing the occupants down over an embankment. Mr. Messmer sustained a fractured leg, and Mrs. Reeder a broken arm. Dr. H. S. Braucht is the attending physician.

Mrs. I. M. Stover, Mrs. John Stover and son Wilton of Berrien Springs, Michigan, came east last week, and are enjoying the associations of their companions of many years ago. The former was daughter of the late Rev. David Rishel, and has been in Michigan for many years. The former Mrs. Stover has long been a reader of this paper, and she tells the writer that nothing is too important for her to drop, when the Reporter reaches her home, that she may scan its columns for Centre county news. She lives in the fruit belt, but there like in Pennsylvania, the pests are so numerous that it requires much attention to grow the class of fruit demanded today.

Claycomb-Spicher.

From a Cresson daily, Oct. 8th.

The James M. Spicher home on Keystone avenue, Cresson, was the scene of a pretty wedding last evening at 4 o'clock, when Miss Gladys Colyer Spicher became the wife of S. Stalter Claycomb. The bride is one of Cresson's most popular young ladies, and the groom is a well known real estate dealer in this city. The color scheme of green and white was artistically carried out. Nature itself reigned supreme. The stairway was overhung with autumn leaves and shamrock, from which bows of white satin ribbon were suspended. From the stairway to the arch under which the ceremony took place were festoons with southern smilax and cut flowers, and the back ground was banked with laurel and cut flowers. The bridal party entered the parlor to the sweet strains of Wagner's wedding march from Lohengrin. The little flower boys, Masters Owen Litchy and James Spicher, dressed in cream flannel suits, lead the procession, strewing flowers in the bridal path, followed by the groom and best man, Mr. I. G. Way of Altoona, a close friend of the groom. Then came the maid of honor, Miss Leta Alma Potter carrying pink roses, attired in pink charmeuse draped in silk bordered marquisette, trimmed in brilliants, the head dress being a white lace hat. The bride entered on her father's arm, carrying white roses, and she looked charmingly beautiful in her bridal gown, which was made of white silk crepe meteor draped in white silk a suttilla lace, caught gracefully with white ribbon, brilliants and pearls.

The officiating clergyman was the Rev. W. Whippley, pastor of the Cresson Presbyterian church.

One of the striking features of the bride's attire was that she wore her mother's wedding veil. During the congratulations, Mendelssohn's wedding march was played. After the couple were wished all kinds of happiness, the bridal party was ushered into the dining room, where they were served a delicious luncheon.

The out-of-town guests were as follows: Mrs. Robert Zurby of Brownsville; Mrs. William Hockenbury of West Brownsville; Mr. and Mrs. William Probert of Derry; Mr. and Mrs. Crowell of Tyrone; Hon. and Mrs. D. Lloyd Claycomb, Miss Mable Willis and Miss Arnold, Miss Aurandt, Mr. and Mrs. Paschel, all of Altoona; Miss Bird Hurd, Johnstown, and Mrs. Sadie Bates, Patton.

Treasurer-Royer.

At the Reformed parsonage in Centre Hall, on Saturday evening, Rev. R. R. Jones united in marriage John F. Treasurer of near Centre Hill, and Miss Edith R. Royer of Farmers Mills.

Mr. Treasurer is a well known lumberman, and about a year ago purchased the Thomas Lingle farm, west of Centre Hall, on which place he and his bride will take up housekeeping on April 1st. The Reporter extends congratulations.

DEATHS.

After an illness of less than two weeks, Mrs. Nancy Heckman died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John D. Lucas, in Centre Hall, on Monday evening. She was aged about seventy-five years.

Mrs. Heckman was born and raised at Aaronsburg, and was the daughter of Jonathan Rupp. Her husband the late William Heckman, died eleven years ago. There survive her three children: Fred W., Richmond, California; Mrs. (Dr.) D. G. Smith, Elizabeth, Illinois; Mrs. James S. Releh, Mrs. David K. Keller, John A., George E., Centre Hall; Mrs. Dora Eccles, Effzabeth, Illinois; Frank, Spokane, Washington; Mrs. John D. Lucas, Centre Hall.

The deceased for many years was a member of the Reformed church. She was a woman of quiet disposition, and very much devoted to her children. Her last illness was due to a paralytic stroke.

Interment will be made this (Thursday) afternoon. Religious services at the house by Rev. R. R. Jones, pastor of the Reformed church.

Adam Harter died in Millheim on Wednesday morning. He was a son of the late Jonathan Harter, and was aged some forty years.

Mr. Harter became paralyzed four or five years ago, and since that time had been in an almost helpless condition. Previous to that time he conducted a planing mill.

The deceased is survived by a wife, who before marriage was Miss Minnie Hartman, and three sons, also a sister, Mrs. Harry Kurzknabe of Harrisburg.

Mrs. Alice A. Laurie, wife of the late Dr. Laurie, died on Friday evening, at the age of sixty-nine years. Interment was made in Bellefonte on Monday, the services being in charge of Dr. Hawes, pastor of the Presbyterian church.

A. L. Russell, who has been connected with Lock Haven hotels since 1880, died at the age of fifty-two years. At the time of his death he was proprietor of the Russell Hotel.
