Interesting and Instructive Data Regarding Storage.

Corn Treated With Artificial Heat !n Well Ventilated Rooms Gave Highest Percentage of Germination in Experiment,

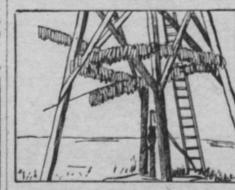

Some data regarding storage, germination and resulting stand of several farmers corn scattered widely over the central section of the country may prove helpful to our readers.

The fall of the beginning of the tests was ideal in regard to ripening and curing seed corn. The average germ ination of the corn secured then was 76.4 per cent. It ranged from 93 per cent, for kiln dried corn to 38 per cent. for corn taken from cribs.

The following summer the section suffered a severe drouth-with an early frost. Much of the crib corn mildewed. The effect on subsequent germination was very marked, the average for the next spring being only 55.5 per cent.

The lowest germination, 11/2 per cent., was that of corn standing in the shock during the winter. Corn cured in well ventilated garrets or rooms made a good average, and corn firedried germinated 90 per cent.

A study of the records of many tests shows that seed corn dried with artificial heat in well ventilated rooms during the first two or three weeks after picking, gave the highest germination-an average of 91.5 per cent. for the two years. Next to this is corn cured in furnace rooms with open windows where the heat was applied immediately after bringing the corn from the field. Well ventilated rooms with more than one window gave germination of 86.5 per cent. Corn cured under porches protected from rains gave 70 per cent. Corn in barns, tool houses, etc., 69 per cent. Germination of corn kept in granaries and on windmills gave only 37.5 and 34 per cent. respectively. In this study of seed curing much corn which was left lying in piles or standing in sacks, for even a short time after husking, was completely destroyed. The only safe way of curing seed corn is therefore to place the corn immediately after picking in a well ventilated room and apply stove or other artificial heat for from one to three weeks.

A method of curing seed corn, which is too commonly practiced. The seed thus dried gives less than half the crop, since its vitality is injured by undue exposure.

RAISING HORSES FOR PROFIT

Dr. Alexander Urges Home Production of Stallions to Replace Scrubs, Mongrels and Grades.

The principles to be followed by farmers in improving their horse stock are: The use of sound, pure-bred sires of a particular breed, the use of sound mares, the feeding and care of the mare and foal and the working of the stallions regularly. Dr. Alexander of the Wisconsin experiment station. further urges the home production of pure-bred stallions to replace the grades, mongrels and scrubs too often used at present.

He urges that grade horses replace scrubs in farm teams. The organization of community associations will greatly facilitate the promotion of horse-breeding, and the encouragement of the industry may be furthered by prizes at county fairs for purebred stallions, mares and colts.

The evil effects which result from the use of unusual sires and dams, and the transmission of hereditary diseases is especially emphasized. It should be easily possible to increase the value of Wisconsin horses at least $10 per head during the next five years, the author points out, by the use of sound stallions and mares, and this would mean an addition of at least $7,000,000 to the total value of horse stock of the state.

AXLE GREASE SAVES MONEY

Wheels of All Farm Vehicles Should Be Carefully Examined to Avoid Unnecessary Wearing.

When you hear the wheels of a wagon or any kind of farm machinery squeaking, be sure the squeaks cost the owner money, because the axles are being cut to pieces.

There is a great difference in axle grease and the only way to know which has the best adhesive qualities is by actual test. Cheap grease is generally dear.

Axle grease that quickly wears off increases the friction, this pulls the flesh off the team and flesh costs money.

The wheels of all vehicles and machinery should be carefully examined often. It will not do to be caught with dry wheels when away from home or in the midst of a busy day in the harvest field.

LUCK IN SPECULATION SATISFIED WITH HIS BARGAIN

SOME REMARKABLE INSTANCES ON RECORD.

Small Fortunes Have Been Made From the Purchase of Wrecks That at the Time Seemed to Have No.

Experts laughed when a well-known firm of Melbourne grain merchants paid £368 for the wreck of the Jean Bart, a French barque which, while on a voyage from Antwerp to Wallaroo, ran aground in Spencer gulf, South Australia. Her hold quickly filled, and it was soon impossible to float her. For two months she was in this condition, and the owners instructed the captain to sell the-wreck by auction. A number of Austrian firms sent representatives to inspect the wreck, but none of them thought it worth while to buy. The merchants in question, however, made a bid and the wreck was sold to them for £368. They engaged a diver to inspect the vessel. It was then discovered that the damage to the barque was slight, and that a hole about a foot in diameter, which had been torn in the bows, could easily be repaired. The work was begun at once, the water pumped out of the hold, and ultimately the vessel was towed to Melbourne, where it was found that the value of the ship and cargo was over £12,000.

This instance of lucky speculation in a wreck is by no means fsolated. Some time ago a man bought a steamer which was wrecked off Yorkshire for £300. It was not a big ship, says the Standard, but she had a valuable cargo on board, and it was feared that the bottom had been ripped out of the ship and the cargo lost. In the cargo was a large number of pictures. Few firms cared to touch the business, and the underwriters let it go for the sum stated. But the ship was inspected and raised and then, to the surprise of everybody, the cargo was discovered to be little the worse for its immersion. The property sold for nearly £10,000.

Another lucky speculation was that of a man who bought a ship which was wrecked with a valuable cargo off the coast of Africa. She had been given up as hopeless, and he secured her for a mere song. Ultimately he succeeded in raising her and towing her to Gibraltar. The ship is still sailing under another name, and the owner has made a fortune out of the deal.

It is pointed out that there are a number of wrecks round the shores of Britain which would prove very profitable to anyone with facilities for raising them. The vast amount of iron and wood in some of the holds would pay for the cost of salvage. From the Lizard one can see quite a number of wrecks on the coast line. and it has often been suggested that if these were salved systematically a profitable business could be built up in 'his way .- London Tit-Bits.

"I also had dandruff which caused my scalp to itch and burn. It itched and burned so that I had to scratch it until it was irritated. The dandruff scaled off and showed plainly in my hair.
