Wonders of Victoria Falls, Victoria falls is in shape like a huge capital T-the falls represented by the top of the letter and the outlet by the stem. The water pours into a great pool a mile long and escapes by a narrow outlet not more than 150 feet wide in places. The water pours into the pool with a roar that may be heard twenty-eight miles and stirs up a spray that causes constant rain to fall in its immediate territory. This spray is so great that it looks like a cloud against the sky and may be seen before you hear the roar of the falls. Yet the water from this great pool escapes almost as quietly as water from an undisturbed lake. After the water escapes from the great pool below the falls through the stem of the letter T it makes a turn at right angles and sweeps around like the capital letter U. Yet there is no great disturbance in any part of the outlet from the falls. At Niagara the whirlpool rapids is one of the world's wonders. Here the river a few hundred feet below the falls seems to be navigable.-E. W. Howe's Monthly.

Couldn't Be Much Lighter. At a mock parliament held in Bristol the "honorable member for Stranraer" asked the "right honorable the president of the board of trade" (referring to the merchant shipping act, 1894, prevention of collisions) "whether a lighterman, having two light lighters in tow, would be required to light a lighter light on the lighter lighter, so that the lighter the lighter the lighter the light?" The president replied, "Obviously the answer is in the negative, since the lighter lighter being the lighter and the use of the comparative 'lighter' denoting that the lighter is already 'light' the lighter of the lights would not be required to light a lighter light on the lighter lighter, since the lighter lighter is lighter than the light lighter."-Strand Magazine.

Selenium In Time Recording. An ingenious application of the peculiar property of selenium of varying its electric resistance with change of illumination has been made in Heidelberg in the electric transmission of pendulum beats to a distance for recording time and comparing clocks. For a long time the beats were electrically transmitted through contacts made by the pendulum itself. This method introduced irregularities of consequence, where hundredths of a second are taken into account, as in astronomical observations. The Heidelberg method causes the swinging pendulum, just as it touches its lowest point, to reflect a beam of light upon a selenium cell, which transmits the message without physical contact with the pendulum.-New York Tribune.

Bede House Feasts.

At Fosdyke, a tiny village in England, there is held every year a most quaint dinner * known as the Bede house feast. Some gentleman, many years back, left a sum of money with which half a dozen Bede houses were to be built, and once a year he directed that the occupants were to have a feast. Every year the six old ladies and the six old gentlemen meet the trustees and have dinner. Some of the trustees are county councilors and the like; but, according to the terms of the will, they have to serve the old people first and make them comfortable. The guests always sit in the same order as the number of their houses, and the menu must include a veal ple with plums in it.

When Hanging Was Common. Edmond Burke said that he could in his time obtain the assent of the house of commons to any bill that carried the death punishment.

A man's life was not very valuable in those strenuous days. If he scratched his name on Westminster bridge, if he wore a wig or false mustache or any other disguise on a public road, if he cut down a young tree, if he stole property worth more than $1.25, if he had been transported for crime and returned a day ahead of the expiration of his term of punishment, if he wrote a threatening letter, if he stole a hide from a tanner's, for any and all of these things and for 200 more than these he was hanged by the neck until he was dead.

INSECT ANAESTHETICS.

Wasps and Beetles Paralyze Their Victims Before Killing.

That the sting of the wasp, which punctures the nerve centers of a captured caterpillar or spider, usually paralyzes the creature into helplessness rather than kills it is well known. The victim remains alive in the burrow or cell in which the wasp stores it as food for the larva which will pmerge from the egg laid in the same Therefore the newly hatched grub finds ready for it a provision of living meat instead of decayed car-

That "wizard" among entomologists, the venerable Fabre, has discovered a similar yet even more extraordinary fact in the history of the glowworm beetle (lampyris-namely, that it anaesthetizes the prey upon which it itself feeds, so that it may consume it at leisure and predigested. This beetle. whose brilliant phosphorescence attracts the eye in the dusk of the summer evenings, habitually hunts and seizes upon a certain small snail in order to eat it. The curious thing is that the beetle anaesthetizes the mollusk at the first attack, preventing it from escaping by withdrawing to safety deep within its shell. Upon finding the snall the beetle dashes forward and, thrusting out its sharp, curved mandibles, repeatedly stabs the side of the body of its prey. After a few punctures the snail becomes insensible and remains in that deadened state for three or four hours-a time more than sufficient for the beetle to complete its meal .-Independent.

CAUGHT THE CAPTAIN.

He Was Not on the Early Morning Job, but the Kaiser Was.

Some time ago the kaiser heard that a captain in one of the guards regiments at Potsdam had fixed the regulation hour of schooling for his men at 6 o'clock in the morning. The kaiser, though doubting the fitness of such an early hour for the lesson and the ability of a popular young officer to keep up to this rather exacting standard of early rising, said nothing, but one day walked into the barrack room at 6

The captain was not there, but the emperor showed neither annoyance nor surprise. He asked where the lesson was to be found in the books, and without more ado, to the mingled anxlety and delight of the men, he took the lesson in hand and explained the passage in history which was the subject of the day. It was nearly 7 o'clock when the captain showed himself. The kaiser returned his salute and made no allusion to his crestfallen countenance. but handed him the lesson book after pointing out how far the class had got and then left the room.

Nothing more was said or heard about the incident until a few days later, when the captain received a handsome alarm clock, evidently from the kaiser. What the officer wrote in his letter of thanks for the gift is not recorded .- "Ireland's Own."

Why Their Clothes Didn't Fit. The late Admiral Robley D. Evans during his visit to Japan was received by Mutsuhito and his empress at a court ceremony. In speaking of the Japanese court he said:

"Hand kissing was not the thing. Instead, I received a handshake from a very shapely and beautiful hand. I found the empress a woman of great refinement and perfect ease of manner, so delicate in appearance and so small in stature as to remind you of some fine piece of Dresden china. She was attired in a Paris gown of heliotrope brocade, the bad fit of which I accounted for just as I accounted for the baggy trousers of the emperor. After I had been a year in Japan I was satisfied it was owing to the fact that a tailor would not permit himself to touch the persons of their majestles. but just looked at them and guessed what the measurements should be."

Long Lived Spaniards,

Though the average age of Spanlards is among the lowest in Europe-thirtytwo years and four months, against fifty years in Sweden and Norwayyet Spain remains the land of hundredyear-old people.

South of the Sierra Morena there are fifty to sixty a hundred years old in every million inhabitants. In Malaga and other parts of Andalusia 100 hundred-year-olds are reckoned in every million inhabitants. And when a Spaniard once attains that age he usually hangs on to life for ten to fifteen years longer. One of the famous long lived men of Spain was Dr. Manuel Barca, who lies the home of Zwingli Haffley. buried in the Church of San Sebastian at Seville, having 121 years to his credit, according to the church record. He left 300 descendants.-Boston

GOOD ROADS SCANDAL,

Penusylvania Spared a Carnival of Graft by the Wisdom of Raral Voters.

In its leading editorial with the caption "Good Roads Scandal" the Altoons Tribune quotes from the Centre Reporter and then comments on the subject. Mr. Shoemaker, president of the Tribune Publishing Company, who undoubtedly is the author of the editorial, is intimately acquainted with the methods in vogue be accepted as true.

The article from this paper and the comments as printed in the Tribune, are as follows:

In a recent issue the Centre Reporter says : Just before the election last fall the advocates of the $50,000 000 bond issue for roads enthusiastically pointed to New York as an example of the wisdom of getting big slices of money for road purposes. New York has issued its second installment of bonds, and these were sanctioned by the people. If issuing bonds in such large sums was good for New York, why not for Pennsylvania? That was thought to be clincher. It now develope that the New York highway department is under investigation and it appears the people's money became little less than a pot of graft. Deliver us from New York road methods."

One of the greatest blessings that ever happened to Pennsylvania was the defeat of the $50,000,000 road scheme last November. While few would doubt the honesty of our state highway officials, the money would sooner or later have fallen into the grasp of politicians and if the state had gotten one-tenth of the amount honestly spent it would have been lucky. In New York state many of the men connected with the highway department were honorable and highminded. These men were hoodwinked and brushed aside while the politicians grabbed right and left. It is said that many of the state roads in New York are the merest shells, which can be broken through by any motortruck or other heavy vehicle. Many state roads in Pennsylvania bave been flimsily constructed. They last sbout one season-that is all. They benefit only the politicians and to be heard. As it is now, they are paid for by persons who get the least amount of good from them. Pennsylvania was spared a carnival of graft by the wisdom of the rural voters in defeating the road loan will o' the wisp.
