DEATHS.

After an illness extending over s period of several months, Jonas Bible died at his home near Potters Mills on Saturday. His disease was of a dropsical nature. His age was sixty years, eight months, one day. He was a son of John H. Bible, who lived and died on the old homestead Mr. Bible was a farmer by occupation, and was a good kind neighbor, always spoken of in good terms by his acquaintances. Mrs. Bible, whose maiden name was Miss Alice C. Lee, before marriage, survives, as do also these children: Harry E., Altoona; Bertha G. and Nellie M., at home. One sister, Mrs Miles Miller, Girard Kansas, and these brothers also survive : Samuel, Oak Hall ; John C., Centre Hill; David R., Pottsville; Jacob R., Phoenixville.

Interment was made in the cemetary at Sprucetown on Tuesday af erroch, Rev. J. Max Labiz, a former pastor of the Methodist church of which denomination the deceased was a member, and Rev. F. H. Foss were selected to officiate, but since the former was unable to be present, Rev. R. R Jones took his place. The text selected by the deceased was the fourth chapter of John. Hymns and pallbeareas were also named by Mr. Bible.

John E. Kuhn, formerly a well known and esteemed resident of Harrisburg to superintend the drive. Rock View, passed peacefully away at the home of his brother, George Kuhn, taken with the does at this time of the in Canton, Ohio, following a lingering illness of two years.

John E. Kuhn was born June 13, 1872, a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. give up active work because of ill markets, health Mr. Kuhn followed the vocstion of a farmer and engaged in carpenter work. Ways of Darkest Africa.

In his book. "Thinking Black," Mr. Dan Crawford, who is held in England to be the successor to Livingstone. gives a curious picture of his missionary experiences in Africa. He helped to establish the mission station at Luanza, built on a cliff overhanging the Great White lake. Here, with unfailing success, he preached the gospel to the uttermost parts of Africa, drawing the natives to kim from far distant places. On the woman question he is particularly interesting. He became aware of a secret society which flourishes in Central Africa. It is a sacred institution with hidden rites and ceremonies. Its purpose is to keep husbands in subjection. This is hardly the idea which the civilized world has of the place of woman in Africa, but, as Mr. Crawford says, nearly everything there is reversed, according to white notions.

Right on the Job.

During a flood which swept away several small railroad bridges and quite a stretch of track an operator in a country town along the line saw one of the company's box cars floating down the river. Instantly he sprang to his key and reported the matter to the main office.

"Mr. James," eagerly cried the operator in the main office to a railroad chief, "V. G. reports that a box car is floating down the river at his place!" "Is it ours?" asked the railroader, still looking over the pile of papers before him.

"He says it is," answered the main office operator after another spasm of telegraphy, "and wants to know what to do."

Palmer's political career has been peculiarly typical of the contest that has revolutionized the political situation throughout the country in the last few years. As a candidate for congress in each of three contests, he has been the target of savage attack by the combined forces of special priobtained by Mr. Leister is said to have vilege and machine politics in his district, represented by the Schwab-Mutchler combination.

In state politics almost from his first entrance into public office Congressman Palmer has been in the heat of the battle for reorganization of the Democratic party in Pennsylvania. Against his personal protest he was named national committeeman as a result of that contest, and carried the battle through the meeting of the national committee into the primaries of 1912, carrying off a splendid victory at the state convention of that year.

That convention had the further significance of making Palmer one of the great national figures of the party Stover et al, tract of land in Greeg through the position which he occupied at the Baltimore convention. As the head of an almost solid delega-Stover et al, tract of land in Greeg tion of seventy-six men, pledged to Wilson, from Pennsylvania-the credit for that fact being justly given to him-he immediately became Wilson floor leader, and to his determined and aggressive action there is justly ascribed the final triumph of the Wilson cause in that historic gathering.

His talent and power were instantly recognized by the presidential candidate, and he gave Palmer a place at his council table as a member of his personal campaign committee. Following the election, after having been seriously considered for attorney general, he was offered and declined the position of secretary of war. With the president's hearty approval, he was made president of the caucus of the Democratic majority in the house, and as such stepped into a place of recognized leadership in that body.

McCormick's Career.

Vance C. McCormick was born in Harrisburg on June 19, 1872, and has lived there ever since. His ancestors were among the early settlers of central Pennsylvania, and his family has always been prominent in the agricultural, industrial and professional life of that part of the state. He was graduated from Yale in 1893, and during his last year there was captain of the Yale football team. In 1907 his alma mater conferred upon him the honorary degree of master of arts. In June, 1913, he was elected a member of the Yale corporation to succeed former President William H. Taft.

After his graduation in 1893 he re-turned to Harrisburg, and in February,

His Work as Mayor.

During his administration Harrisburg underwent a complete physical metamorphosis. Paved streets took the place of dirt roads, a splendid park system was planned and far advanced toward completion, modern sewers took the place of open ditches and the people were supplied with an abundance of pure filtered water, instead of the muddy rawness drawn from a polluted river. Under his administration the volunteer fire depart ment was reformed and improved, and the police department was taken en tirely out of politics and brought to a state of discipline and efficiency never before approached in Harrisburg. Gambling houses, speakeasies and disorderly houses were closed up and their proprietors sent to prison or into voluntary exfle.

He has always been actively interested in and a generous contributor to every charitable, philanthropic and educational enterprise in Harrisburg. and his benefactions have etxended far beyond the limits of his own city and county.

Has Broad Interests.

A farmer as well as a banker and newspaper publisher he has been a leader in every enterprise for the improvement of agricultural methods and the breeds of live stock. For a number of years he has been a trustee of Pennsylvania State College and has taken a deep interest in the institution

He was one of the original movers for good roads in Pennsylvania and has enthusiastically supported every proper measure for the betterment of the roads of the state.

The splendid work that Mr. Mo Cormick has done during the last three years for the reorganization and purification of a Democratic state committee, resulting in the forced retirement of all the old bi-partisan traders, putting the direction of party affairs in the hands of clean, unselfish, progressive Democrats, making the organization immediately responsible to the will of the voters and helping to bring about the nomination and election of Woodrow Wilson as president of the United States, is a matter of recent history and is familiar to every man in the state.

Democrats who wish to vote at the primaries must be registered and enrolled. The last opportunity in townships and boroughs is March 18: in third class cities April 29 is the last day.
