Luther Kline of State College spent a week with his friend, Hobart Osman, near Centre Hall.
Mrs. Samuel Crabb of Lewisburg, from Saturday until Wednesday, was the guest of her cousin, Joseph Lutz.
The second sink in the Moore flat was completed this week. At a depth of eighteen feet a large cavity was struck.
William A. Magee came up from Philadelphia Saturday and until Wednesday was with his family at the Huyett home.
P. A. Leister is having the buildings on his farm below Potters Mills repainted. The work is being done by Daniel Daup.
Mr. and Mrs. William A. Stuart of Tulsa, Oklahoma, and Mrs. John Stuart of State College, spent Saturday at the home of the latter's sister, Mrs. Lizzie Jacobs.
Mrs. Lenetta Schoensted of Joliet, Ill., for a few days beginning of the week was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Boozer. She is the step-mother of Mrs. Ralph C. Boozer of Chicago.
Messrs. J. H. Knarr, Milton Bradford, Paul Bradford, and William Bradford, traveling in Frank J. McClellan's car, attended a campmeeting in New Lancaster, Mifflin county, Sunday.
Walter Garrity, who during the past fifteen years lived with the late Patrick Garrity, in the Seven Mountains, has not decided whether or not he will remain there and become his cousin's successor.
The Georges Valley Sunday-school is anticipating a large attendance at the picnic it will hold on Saturday in the grove opposite the church. The speakers will be Rev. J. M. Reack and Rev. B. F. Bieber, both former pastors.
The Centre Hall Evaporating Company is remodeling the evaporating plant and is making the interior more convenient for handling the large quantity of fruit. The carpenters doing the work are D. W. Sweetwood and Isaac Sweetwood, assisted by Wiltmer Meyer.
Farmer W. F. Colyer is planning to raise some real big hogs and has sent to Iowa for five registered Poland China breeders. He has at the present time over one hundred head of hogs, and is not satisfied with the common breed and has taken the first step in the improvement of his stock.
A fishing party, in which the fish caught were a minus quantity compared to the fun and enjoyment realized, drove to the Red Mill waters Tuesday. Supper was taken out in the open and, of course, the meat on the menu was—fish? no, ham and eggs. Those in the party were, Misses Mary D. Potter, Carrie and Ida Sweetwood, Ruth Kuble, Lillian Emery, Mary Whitman, Messrs. James Lingie, George Boozer, Thomas Foss, Harry Armstrong, and John Whitman.

Rearranged seating for Hall.

The seating in Grange Arcadia will be rearranged so as to give more comfort to the patrons of the Centre Hall lecture course during the coming season. There will also be an effort made to secure better lighting and ventilation. The numbers comprising the 1914-1915 course are so highly recommended that the support of the movement will undoubtedly be more generous than heretofore. The first number will appear some time in October, and will be The Grazer Jubilee Singers (colored) a company of five persons. Another musical is booked, and is by Round's Orchestra, eight pieces, seven ladies and one gentleman. The lecturers are also of the highest grade, and have appeared before audiences time and again in the larger cities.

Sinking Creek Picnic.

Saturday about eighty of the good people in the Sinking Creek locality, besides others from other points, enjoyed a basket picnic on top of Nittany Mountain, an ideal picnic ground. This occasion has become a yearly event and is growing in number with each succeeding year. Those present were:

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hettinger and children Kathryn, Willard and Rufus, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Frazier and children Lee, Earl, Ida and Harriet, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Tressler and children Irene, Margaret, Ralph, Helen and Lynn, Mr. and Mrs. Bright Bitner and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Yearick and children Fred Martha and Lula, Mr. and Mrs. George Slack and two sons, Mr. and Mrs. Wanta and daughter Elizabeth, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller and son Edgar, Mr. and Mrs. Witter Lee, Mr. and Mrs. William Sweeney and children, Mrs. Nester Heckman and children, Mr. and Mrs. M. "Cleopatra of the Backwoods".

Neil Mannerling, "The Cleopatra of the Backwoods," might have had "Mystery" for her name. Everything about her was extraordinary, her marriage, her misadventure and her death. Like the storied queen of the Nile, she lured many men to her feet, took their gold or their love, whichever she desired, and drove them away.

Neither race nor color seemed to matter to her. Adventures meant nothing to her unscrupulous nature, and whispers of terrible crimes floated around the countryside. But whether or not she was guilty, men could never forget that she was beautiful. The sensational romance of her life is told in "The Cleopatra of the Backwoods," one of the best of the "Romances from Pennsylvania History," which the Sunday North American is publishing in its weekly series.

It has not been a particularly long time since Neil Mannerling died, and her descendants, both white and mulatto, may be recognized by readers in this section. In any event, the scenes and setting of this sensational romance will strike home and lend added interest to the story. It appears in the issue of August 30.

Already the "romance page" has become one of the most-failed-of features that ever appeared in connection with the eventful history of the Commonwealth, and many more articles of equally surprising nature are in store for those who have been and are following the series.

LEGAL NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that the following accounts will be presented to Court for confirmation September 30th, 1914, and unless exceptions be filed thereto on or before September 29th, the same will be confirmed, to wit:
The third account of John Slack, guardian of Jonathan W. Bradley, helpless child.
The account of the Commonwealth Trust Company, trustee under mortgage of Nittany Iron Company.
