PALMER: CAPABLE, CONSTRUCTIVE.

In this campaign, which, from the circumstances, must necessarily turn upon the record of Boies Penrose in the United States senate and as the political leader of the Republican organization in Pennsylvania, it is fortunate that the opposition to Penrose has in its leading candidate a man so thoroughly equipped and with so splendid a record of constructive service as Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer, the Democratic nominee.

Palmer has not been content with sitting idly by while others framed the policies of government. He has contributed from his splendid intellectual resources to the constructive solution of governmental problems, and he is today recognized as one of those whose judgment is first sought and most seriously considered in the formation of policy and in the framing of measures in congress.

In the making of the Underwood tariff schedules, to him was entrusted the delicate duty of determining the rates of tariff upon metals and their manufactures. He studied the problem thoroughly, mastered its details and presented a schedule which was passed twice in both houses of congress almost without amendment, and with the votes of men of all parties. This is a distinction which few men in the American congress have ever enjoyed.

Turning from the tariff to the cause of industrial justice and progress, he devoted himself to mastering the legal complexities of the child labor question. The result was a measure introduced in the house by Congressman Palmer, and in the senate by Senator Owen, both Democrats, bearing the endorsement of the National Child Labor Association, the Pennsylvania Child Labor Association, and all the leaders of social and industrial reform in the country. Through Mr. Palmer's splendid ability the bill successfully weathered the attacks of selfish interests in the house committee and was favorably reported. It will mark the first genuine nation-wide advance in the direction of curbing the exploitation of little children in industry.

These two legislative achievements in themselves constitute a monument to his service in congress, such as few representatives can show at the close of so brief a term.

But his record is filled with other services to the people. His effective labor in behalf of the white phosphorous match bill to end forever the ravages of phosphorous poisoning in this country; his continuous and energetic efforts for legislation protecting the workers in mines and quarries; his vigorous and intelligent support of fair pay and decent working conditions for government employes; his successful fight for the promotion of the interests of Philadelphia and Pennsylvania through the continuance of improvements in the Delaware and other rivers, and through the establishment of a federal reserve bank; his fearless and forceful advocacy of the cause of organized labor in all its just fights; his leadership of the administration forces against the coastwise shipping trust—all these are but typical of his splendid record as statesman.

In these six years Palmer has accomplished more for the state of Pennsylvania and for the people of the country than Boies Penrose has accomplished in his eighteen years in the United States senate as the leader of the reactionary clique that so long dominated its deliberations. Not a single piece of constructive legislation bears the name of Penrose nor owes its origin to his endeavors.

Upon this contrast the people of Pennsylvania will choose their senator, and there can be little doubt as to where their choice will fall.

This is a good year for politically decent men to make their votes proclaim their decency.

LABOR IS FOR PALMER.

Congressman Palmer has shown clearly and conclusively that Senator Penrose is an arch enemy of labor. The showing does not consist merely of allegations. It is taken from the official records and is true as Holy Writ.

Mr. Palmer has shown that Penrose has

- (1) Cheated labor.
- (2) Betrayed labor.
- (3) Voted against labor bills.
- (4) Sold labor, like slaves, to the Grundys.
- (5) Used his influence to destroy the usefulness of labor measures.
- (6) Been, in all things and at all times, the willing tool of corporations that retard the progress of labor.

In view of these proved facts, no working man can vote to send Penrose back to the United States senate or confirm his power as the corrupt boss of the Republican party.

For the workingman that votes for Penrose strikes a traitor's blow to labor.

Bigelowism has made the walking good for the gangster

REMEMBER—

That if Penrose had had his way the United States would now be at war with Mexico.

That would have cost thousands of lives, millions of money, and would have made it impossible for the United States to take advantage of the splendid opportunity opened by the European war.

Compare the plight of any European nation at war—the sorrow, suffering, business paralysis—with the peace and prosperity of the United States.

Then decide whether you are for Wilson and Palmer, or for Penrose

Penroseism taketh and Penroseism giveth away—to a few.
