

LUTHER DAY SERVICE.

pared to retract these books and their contents or do you persist in the opinions advanced in them? All eyes now are fixed on the Reformer. He acknowledges that he wrote the books named. In regard to the second question of retraction he asks that time be granted to him. The Emperor contents upon condition that he would reply by word of mouth and not in writing. This request for a time gives hope to the enemy. They think that he will finally yield. This is an awful moment. Religious freedom with the fetters of churchly abuse stands and appeals for help. The rights of the human conscience like a maiden chained to the post looks with fixed eyes upon the miner's son. Civil liberty like the Prometheus bound to the rock with the vultures of inhuman despotism preying upon its heart calls for aid. The common people who wish to worship their God in spirit and in truth hold up their hands in supplication. Divine hope has thrilled the hearts of all these when they look into the face of the innocent monk. They think that he has been raised up to deliver Israel. But he pauses at this critical moment. He has asked for time. What does all this mean? They hold their breath in dismay. If he fails, all is lost. The excitement has reached its highest tension. The suspense is more than painful. The morrow will decide the fate of Christian civilization. All voices are hushed. All hearts are still. They await the issue.

Luther's request is not prompted by cowardice. He has no intention of retracting. On the next morning his heart is stirred to the very depths. The harvest day is about to be done. He prays most earnestly unto his God. He goes to the Holy Scripture which lies open on his table. He places his left hand on the sacred volume and raising his right hand toward heaven he swears to remain faithful to the Gospel and freely to confess his faith, even should he seal his testimony with his blood. The storm which will shake the world is about to break forth. On the morrow, April 18, at four o'clock in the afternoon, he stands again before the diet. He cares not for the threats of men. He is asked: "Will you defend your books as a whole or are you ready to disavow some of them?" He defends strongly the doctrines which his books contain. The Chancellor, indignantly, replies: "You have not answered the question put to you. Will you or will you not retract?" The fulness of time has come. The hero of the hour is here. There is no tremor in his voice now. He answers at once: "Unless, therefore, I am convinced by the testimony of Scripture or by the clearest reasoning, unless I am persuaded by means of the passages I have quoted, and unless they thus render my conscience bound by the Word of God, I cannot and will not retract, for it is unsafe for a Christian to speak against his conscience." That assembly may have held its breath. The miner's son defies the pomp and power of the world. Looking around upon his distinguished audience he closes with the immortal words: "Here I stand; I cannot do other. God help me. Amen." Then Christian liberty like the dove in the ark flies out with the olive branch of Gospel freedom. Christian civilization is rescued.

Aaronsburg.

The sale by the Crouse heirs was well attended Saturday afternoon. Dr. D. K. Musser and J. W. Foster were among their home people on Sunday. A number of people attended the funeral of Guernsey Fiedler at Woodward. Mrs. Leo Hain from Sunbury was a Sunday guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Crouse. The protracted meeting closed on Saturday night by fifteen conversions. Very good attendance every night. Felix Stiner of Akron, Ohio, is the guest of his friend, Linn Haffley, and is out every day with the Stover hunting party. Carl Bohn of Tusseyville is being entertained for a few days at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Wert. B. V. Vonada took Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Stover, Dan Stetler and Mrs. Geesey to State College on Friday to enjoy the big day. Thomas Hall, who was employed at State College all summer as a carpenter met with an accident a few days ago which made it necessary for him to return home. Mrs. Elizabeth Weaver is again in her usual good health. Mrs. Polly George is some better at this writing. John Heins, Jr., is also improving from his trouble with his throat. Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Barner, formerly of this town, and their children, Frank, Bruce and Helen, of Flemington came in their Overland to spend a few hours with Mrs. Barner's father. Saturday the Stover hunting party came home with a three-prong buck. The lucky shot was Ray Stover. A few days ago the same party came home with a fine deer shot by Frank Keister.

FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE.

Cattle So Afflicted Liable to Transfer Disease to Humans Through Milk, Says Health Commissioner.

The prevalence of the foot and mouth disease as reported among cattle in various sections of Pennsylvania may effect the dairy herds. Should these become infected there is a danger of the transference of the disease from infected animals to human beings through the milk. As the records in this State show this possibility Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, Commissioner of Health, has issued the following warning: "The foot and mouth disease which is known to the medical world as apthous fever is highly infectious in cattle and manifests itself by a rising temperature and the appearance of blisters on the mucus membrane of the mouth, tongue and nose. The blisters are followed by ulcers; digestive disturbances are also common. Death seldom occurs in human beings.

"As a matter of protection against the possibility of infection the use of raw milk may be discontinued. A safety factor is to pasteurize the milk. Following is a simple method which may be used. "Place a saucer in a pail seven or eight inches in diameter and about the same height. Set the milk bottle on this. Remove the paper cap from the milk bottle. Pour in the pail a sufficient quantity of luke warm water to half cover the bottle. Watch the water and as soon as it has boiled twenty minutes, remove the bottle of milk and allow it to cool slowly. Never place the milk immediately upon the ice or the bottle may break. Seal the bottle with a new cap, a supply of which you can obtain from the milk man, and place the milk bottle where it will remain at a temperature of 40 to 50 degrees temperature. It must be kept cool and clean if it is to remain safe for use.

"If the milk supply is not received bottled secure a bottle of the same size and cork after sterilization."

Complexion of Legislature.

The political complexion of the next House of Representatives will be one hundred and sixty-four Republicans, forty-one Democrats, one Washington and one Socialist. In 1906 there were one hundred and sixty-seven Republicans in the House.

In the Senate there will be forty-six Republicans, eleven Democrats and one Washington member. The Republicans on joint ballot have a majority of one hundred and forty-seven.

INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER MACHINES SOME POSITIVE FACTS If in need of a mature spreader you cannot buy a better spreader than the LOW SPREAD SPREADER, and in fact, you cannot afford to buy any other. It is noted for its durability and reliability. It is an all steel spreader, and being low down makes it easy to load. Wide wheels, which give better traction, and fitted with best buy known. The position of the rear axle carries a sufficient portion of the weight, thus enabling good work, regardless of the condition of the soil. This spreader can be had with or without the wide spread attachment. When the wide spread attachment is used it will spread a width of eight or nine feet. Call around at our place of business and let us point out to you many more good features of the LOW SPREAD SPREADER.

Become Acquainted With the BLUEBELL Cream Separator

THERE is a good deal more to buying a cream separator than just paying out your money for any machine you happen to take a fancy to. You can find this out after you buy, or you can find it out before you buy. Generally the latter is the cheaper of the two. For instance, this BLUEBELL cream separator you are practically buying two machines in one—a clarifier and a separator. In some separator bowls, whatever foreign substances are in the milk that the strainer will not remove, collect on the skimming devices and on the sides of the bowl, interfering with the skimming and contaminating all the milk and cream that goes through the separator. In this machine these foreign substances are collected into the clarifying chamber before separation takes place. Unless you know this separator you can hardly realize the difference that this feature makes in the separation of milk.

Another Point or Two About International Harvester Engine

NOTE the frame of this engine. The base carries all the working parts, yet none of them are part of the base. Base and sub-base are separate castings, a precaution taken to avoid unnecessary expense in case of accident. The cylinder also is a separate casting, because a more even thickness of a cylinder wall can be obtained in this way. The frame design places the strength where it is needed—at the boxes, where the power is applied to the crank shaft. Provision is made for large, long, substantial bearings, adjustable below and above, keeping the crank shaft always in line. This base is one of the reasons why I H C engines last such a long time. Nothing can get loose or out of line and there is weight enough to absorb the vibrat on caused by the explosions. This is one of the many features of I H C engines we shall be glad to show you when you come in to see them.
