

DEER SEASON AT A CLOSE.

The Two Weeks' Hunt Proved Successful for Many Parties—'Regulars' Register Biggest Kill of Deer.

The 1914 deer season closed Wednesday with the setting of the sun. Two weeks in the mountains proved the most successful in many years for a large number of parties and none failed to kill at least one buck.

The success of the various hunting clubs, as far as it was possible to obtain the facts, is given below: The Millheim party, in Pine Creek hollow, killed two deer.

The Crader and Eisenhuth party, in Lechadahl hollow, near Coburn, killed six deer and three bears.

The Woodward Gun Club have five deer and two bears.

The Rote-Wingard party, in Paddy Mountain, killed six deer and two bears.

The Aaronburg crowd have two deer.

The Green Brier party have two deer.

The Schuykill Haven party killed two deer.

A party from Tamaqua returned home with two deer.

The Millburg Gun Club, in Paddy Mountain, succeeded in killing five deer.

From Boalsburg the following report is made: The Riley party, 3, shot by David Stuart, John Fisher, and Fred Weber; the Modocs, 3, shot by David Krebs, Robert Bailey, and Mr. Reiber; Raymond party, 1; Cotesville party, 5; Schuykill party, 2; Greensburg party, 2; George Fisher, hunting by himself, killed a nice buck.

The Bradford party fell a few deer short of their usual kill this year, having only four to their credit. They were shot by John Bohn, John H. Kuarr, William Bradford, and Percy B. Ackford, the latter of Pitcairn.

The Potters Mills "Regulars" scored the greatest success in the district in which a number of hunting parties were located. They killed seven fine deer.

The Sweetwood party have 2; the Slack party, 1; the "Loop" party, 2; the Faust party, 1; the Decker party, 1; the Penn Hall party, 4.

Two bears were killed by a Bellwood party in camp in the Brush Valley Narrows the latter part of last week. This club shot two deer the first day out.

The Zimmerman party, who are hunting in the Brush Valley Narrows, killed two fine bucks.

A certain big mail order house has flooded the valley with big handsome catalogs of a thousand pages, which means that many thousand dollars will fly westward unless local merchants impress home people with the fact that they sell as good goods and sell them as cheaply as the mail order firm. Then too there is that advantage of seeing the article itself, and not merely an illustration on paper. The wise merchant knows what to do to keep the dollars at home.

Manners Can Be Acquired. An English critic says that the athletic girl has no manners and has other faults. But after the brilliant showing of a little Baltimore girl lately in rescuing several children single-handed from a burning house, a rescue made possible by her practice at athletic exercises, the lack of polish more or less can easily be forgiven. Manners can always be acquired, but it demands very quick action and ability to save lives. The mistake of such critics is to lay the blame on athletics when that blame is due to entirely different causes. The old idea that gentleness went with weakness and womanliness with timidity is now exploded.—Baltimore American.

Profitable British Fisheries. The British fisheries yield about 2,500,000,000 pounds annually, for which the "ultimate consumers" are believed to pay at least $125,000,000. In view of the part which herring and other small fishes play in this total, it may be within the truth to estimate the number of fishes caught in an average year by the fishermen of the United Kingdom, at two billion or more. For all Europe this enormous number may be multiplied by three, perhaps by four.

Dry Dock a Dutch Invention. A correspondent in Holland draws our attention to the fact that the construction in that country of a floating dock of 14,000 tons, for Soerabaya harbor in the Dutch Indies, should remind us that the floating dry dock is a Dutch invention, and that many floating docks of this type are built on Dutch ways and towed to their destination. Dry-dock towing is a specialty, and many foreign-built docks are towed to their destination by Dutch tugs.—Scientific American.

years, which does not mean anything else than active.

In every line of their trade the sales from the Grand View Poultry Farm, A. E. Kerlin & Son, proprietors, during 1914 were larger than last year.

This statement is meant to convey the idea that the business this year was largely in excess of any former similar period, and that the sales of scratch-fed to the finely bred cockerel and hen were in excess. And the present prospects are unusually bright.

The Penna Valley Banking Company, through its cashier, David K. Keller, reports that business with that financial institution is not only better in 1914 than the previous years, but in excess of any previous year in the bank's history. Mr. Keller has been the cashier for two years, but as a stockholder in the concern has long been acquainted with the scope and volume of the business done.

Merchant George O. Benner, who opened a store of peanut size in 1884, has since developed it into a business of importance. The growth has been steady, and 1914 did its share of increase as reported by the proprietor.

R. D. Foreman is especially thankful that since last spring he has been able to personally conduct his business. He is a dealer in grain, feed, etc., coal and implements. His report is that the gross receipts are equal to last year's business and the net returns in advance.

Zettle Brothers made expressions that the output of the planing mill during the present year was much in excess of that of 1913, and that they now had an abundance of work on hand. This firm began business in the spring of 1911. In June of that year the plant was destroyed by fire. A better mill was built, and business with them has since been continuously improving.

Centre Hall is a center for implement dealers, the local representatives here being J. H. Weber, K. D. Foreman, H. E. Shirk, George H. Emerick, and D. W. Bradford. The first two are mentioned as dealers in other lines. Mr. Shirk reports the sales of the present year as good as any previous year since he began business. Mr. Emerick reports the same, and Mr. Bradford ditto, his sales of DeLaval cream separators being considerable in excess of former years.

L. L. Smith, salesman for the International Harvester Company, is also a dealer in hay and straw, and gives assurance that his trade during the present year has not fallen off when compared to last or previous years. The movement of hay, at present, he reports as nothing on account of the foot and mouth disease.

One hundred per cent. represents the increase in business in 1914 over 1913 with Frank V. Goodhart, the furniture dealer. He was certain to impress you informant that this increase was not due to the fact that 1913 was an off year, but that it was the best year in ten or more previous to that of 1914.

The Centre Hall Poultry Yard's proprietor, Chas. D. Bartholomew, gave out the information that the performance of his hens in the North American egg laying contest gave his business a boost that sent his gross business in 1914 far in advance of 1913.

The Patrons Co-operative Creamery Company, limited, was not in business prior to this year, yet it is due to say that this company has done a successful business through the present year, the gross receipts being much in excess of the anticipation of the principal moving spirits interested.

H. G. Strohmeier has built up a fine business as a marble cutter, and finds his 1914 business such that he can be proud of it. He is extending the territory each year from which he gathers trade.
