LOCALS

Capt. W. S. Snyder, a Civil war veteran, has been confined to the house for a week or more.

Roy White of Browns Mills, Juniata county, was the guest of Mrs. Kate Conley for a few days this week.

Arkansas will be dry after June 1st. A State-wide prohibition bill passed by a vote of seventy-two to twenty-two.

Mrs. S. M. Goodhart and three children of Johnstown are at the home of Mrs. Goodhart's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Durst.

Mrs. Victor A. Auman has recovered almost entirely from a rather serious illness, which began after having fractured a rib in a fall.

Clifford Thomas of Potters Mills will tear down the row of yellow houses he owns in Lewistown in the spring and put up larger houses in their place.

After a lapse of almost ten years in his visits, the stork left a son at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Dale, who live on the Dale homestead at Oak Hall.

Joseph W. Reifsnnyder of Millheim was recently re-appointed as district grand chief of the 32nd district of the Knights of the Golden Eagle Castles, in which district the local order belongs.

John M. Coldron distributed a number of handsome calendars among his patrons, this week. Twelve pictures, showing as many rooms tastefully decorated and papered, are set in the calendar.

Harry C. Reish sustained an attack of aphasia Thursday morning, while seated at the breakfast table. For a period of time his speech was practically gone. His condition, however, improved rapidly.

Under the Pennsylvania Railroad Company Harold Gardner, son of M. I. Gardner, holds a position in the laboratory of that company in Altoona. He is a graduate from Penn State, and was offered a place under Dr. G. G. Pond in that institution, but since the Altoona proposition netted more monthly returns it was accepted.

Charles M. Smith, the Sunbury salesman representing the Daniel Miller Co., Baltimore, now makes regular trips through this section. He is a Gregg township young man, but has been away from there for a number of years. He reports business brisk along the West Branch of the Susquehanna, a district just covered by him.

Mr. and Mrs. James M. Goodhart of Lewistown are in Florida where they expect to remain for some time. In a letter to George L. Goodhart, his brother writes that they are located at Eustis, a fruit center. Rose bushes and peach trees in bloom and orange trees full of fruit are some of the sights that attract the attention of the visitors from the north.

A number of common pleas judges throughout the state are making it hot for applicants for liquor licenses. Many of the judges are obliging applicants to do things not provided for in the law—in other words, they are acting as legislators. All these rulings are good for the community, but who can show authority for them. Why not out the license out and be done with it?

J. Cloyd Brooks is suffering from blood poisoning in his right hand and the disease has also affected the right side of his body. About five weeks ago, during the butchering season, Mr. Brooks bruised the third finger on his right hand and while this gave him some trouble at the time it soon healed. Monday of last week the trouble broke out anew and in a more serious form. The disease is yielding to treatment and everything indicates a complete recovery.

BOALSBURG.

Farmers Mills.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Rickert are both on the sick list.

"Willie" Breen has started in to work for "Billie" Breen. Just how often "Billie" will answer when "Willie" is called, or vice versa, remains to be seen, but there is some fun in store on the Breen farm because of the likeness in names.

Miss Esther Rickert has again resumed her music studies after having recovered from her recent illness.

Revival meetings are being conducted in private homes about Green Grove with wonderful success. The Evangelical churches, in union effort, are back of the movement, and quite recently seventy-five people gathered at the Houser home in service. Twenty conversions have taken place to date with bright prospects for many more.

MILROY.

R. S. Houser and sons of Milroy sold their general store to Rufus Reareick and Roll Treaster, the former a son of W. O. Reareick, formerly of Centre Hall, and the latter a brother-in-law of Mr. Reareick. The young men took charge of the store last week.

Joseph McClellan, related to the Centre Hall and Potters Mills McClellan families, died last week, and was buried on Friday. His death was caused by gastritis.

Austin Harmon was a visitor in Centre Hall last Saturday.

The Bible classes of the different churches have formed a federation and are holding prayer meetings preparatory to an evangelistic campaign to be held by Rev. Parks, sometime in February.

Last Thursday was the fifty-third anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Krise and their children prepared a surprise for them. In the evening quite a number of invited guests gathered at the Duncan hotel. After a period of social enjoyment refreshments were served.

DEFIANCE FROM A DISTANCE

Discomfited Bully Certainly Gave His Adversary What Might Be Called Fair and Proper Warning.

Many of the best Pennsylvania stories come from the lumber camps. This bit of rough-and-ready history was told in a hotel lobby by a visitor to Philadelphia from the great West Branch valley of the Susquehanna:

"Paddy Wood was the porter at the Ghrickley house in my town. He was a mark for mischievous boys who found that he would chase them if properly baited. He had a board about five feet long which he promised to use on his tormentors, thus adding to the spice of danger to the sport.

"One summer evening Paddy Wood sat on a bench in front of the tavern, his board leaning within easy reach against the building. Paddy Plank, a swaggering woodsman, with numerous raw or "natural" whiskies under his belt, hove in sight. He stopped in the road, fumbled for his woodstock pipe for several minutes and was a longer time lighting it. The woodstock pipe was a cavalier affair usually smooched with the bowf turned down by men who affected bravado. It was not the pipe of peace, however, for the moment Paddy Plank's orbs sighted Paddy Wood he discovered that his system craved a little Killenny fun and he began to hand Paddy Wood some choice compliments, such as are usually set afloat when one is looking for trouble.

"Paddy Wood" deliberately arose from the bench, picked up his board and smote Paddy Plank on the jaw, knocking his pipe across the lot, the sparks from which described an arc of fire like a rocket.

"Surprised at the speed of Paddy Wood's response—he didn't expect it by wire—and seeing his disadvantage, he started to run, with Paddy Wood trying to lift him off his feet with every jump.

"As soon as he reached a safe distance from his pursuer, Paddy Plank turned around and uttered this piece of defiance:

"Kape away from me! Kape away from me! or you will have your heart's blood on me hands!"

"HUMORIST" AGAIN AT LARGE

Easy to Recognize This as a Sample of the Work of the Dreaded "Clown in Private Life."

Smith was a constant worry to his friends. They never knew when to and when not to treat him seriously, since, as he frankly admitted, he delighted in pulling other people's legs.

One day he and Brown met casually in the street and stopped as friends often do to gossip for a while.

"Big blaze—that fire at the factory in Johnson street last night, wasn't it?" asked Brown.

"Yes," replied Smith; "I went down to have a look at it. And, my word, there were several mighty narrow escapes there, too!"

"Escapes!" cried Brown excitedly. "But the morning paper said that there was no one in the building."

Smith nodded.

"Oh," he said, "the firemen brought the escapes down with them! So-long, old chap!"

Brazil's Rubber.

A large part of the world's supply of crude rubber comes from the republic of Brazil, which has hitherto paid little attention to the manufacture of that commodity. Another day is coming, Brazil is about to engage intelligently in the manufacture of rubber, an enterprise which, in the course of time, may affect the manufacture of that material in the United States and Europe, by bringing in a new and formidable competitor. The Brazil Economic of Rio de Janeiro says that under favorable conditions offered by the government refineries of caoutchouc (rubber) will be established in a number of states and factories for the manufacture of rubber articles in the cities of Manaus, Belem in Para, Recife and Bahia. There will be special exemptions in the way of duties upon articles imported for the carrying forward of this enterprise.

Crocodile in a Tree.

An African hunter once found a large crocodile hanging in the fork of a tree about ten feet from the ground. As the place was fully half a mile from any water, it was difficult to account for the crocodile's strange position. When questioned upon the subject the natives explained that it was put there by an elephant. It seems that when the elephants wade into the Lake Ngami to bathe the crocodiles are in the habit of worrying them and biting their legs. Sometimes when an elephant is annoyed beyond endurance it picks up its tormentor in its trunk, puts it among the branches of a tree and leaves it there.

Period of Rigorous Fasting.

The fast of Ramadan, "the month of raging heat," commemorates the period in which the first part of the Koran is said to have been received. When observed according to the commands of the prophet it is a fast of extraordinary rigor. No food or drink of any kind is permitted to be taken from daybreak until the appearance of the stars at night. This abstinence is absolutely binding upon the faithful, whether at home or abroad, and only those who are seriously ill are excepted from its provisions. These must keep the fast as soon afterward as possible, for a like number of days.

Soon Time to Think About SALE BILLS.

The spring sale season will soon be here and every farmer who contemplates holding sale this spring will want attractive sale bills to advertise his stock and farm implements. A well printed bill—one that shows at a glance what the farmer has for sale, by good display and use of cuts—will do much to attract buyers and that is what every farmer is after.

We print that kind of bills.

See us before placing your order elsewhere and save a dollar by so doing.
