Fleisher, near Colyer, direct from Alda, Nebraska, to which state he went when a young man nineteen years of age. He engaged in the carpenter trade and also farmed for a number of years. Mr. Fleisher fluds very few familiar faces among the residents in the locality of his birth. He is unaccompanied on the trip, his wife having died a number of years ago. He will remain among his relatives in this section for some time before returning home, for, in view of his advancing years, it is improbable that he will make another trip east.

of Beech Creek township, who resides bout two miles west of Beech Creek Boro. In Clinton county, was blown to atoms some time Tuesday forenoon while sengaged in dynamiting stumps. The young man, who assisted his father on the farm, left the house in the morning with a quantity of dynamits to blow up stumps in a field, as he had done last year and earlier this seeson.

When the bour for dinner arrived and the family sat down to parfake of the meal, Terry had failed to 1ut in his appearance. This feet worried the parents, who feared an accident had befallen the soo, and getting up from the table the father declared he could not eat until he know where his con was. Going out into the field he found where the youth had blown out a number of stumps, but no traces of the boys could be found, until proceeding a short distance farther the grief-stricken parent beheld small particles of flesh and bone, and a large hole in the ground, which told the gruesome talle of the son's fate.

Mr. Glossner returned home and secured assistance and assistance and a search was made for portions of the boy's remains but the was blown to bits, and thus far only portions of the legs have been differed was belown to bits, and thus far only portions of the legs have been differed was belown to bits, and thus far only portions of the legs have been differed was belown to bits, and thus far only portions of the legs have been differed was belown to bits, and thus far only portions of the legs have been differed was belown to bits, and thus far only portions of the legs have been differed was belown to bits, and thus far only portions of the legs have been differed the legs have been differed was belown to bits, and thus far only portions of the legs have been differed was belown to bits, and thus far only portions of the legs have been differed was belown to bits, and thus far only portions of the legs have been differed was belown to bits, and thus far only portions of the legs have been differed was belown to bits, and thus far only porti
