RESULT IS MUCH THE SAME

Slight Difference Between the Methods of the Ancient and the Modern Turtles.

A wicked turtle had for years been troublesome to the inhabitants of the marsh in which he dwelt. He bit the legs off frogs, ate fish with relish, and occasionally grabbed hold of a snake and held on until it thumped.

Finally the animals held a court and tried the turtle on the charge of murder. The turtle was there, with his harveylzed shell in perfect repair and covered with moss an inch thick.

The judgment of the court was that the turtle should be hanged by the neck until he was dead. When this decision was announced there was great cheering, and the court officers prepared to put the sentence into execution at once.

That astute tortoise drew his head back inside his shell and chuckled merrily at the inability of the executioners to carry out the sentence of the court.

Moral—In these days turtles brie grand juries or employ good attorneys.

Couldn't Part. Louis Halle was a colonel on Governor Yates' staff, and in that capacity accompanied him to Washington to be a part of an inaugural parade.

The governor sat on his horse awaiting the parade formation, and "from time to time an orderly would gallop up with an official communication. On each occasion Colonel Halle was by his side.

Colonel Halle, I see no necessity for your sticking to this orderly in the performance of his duties."

"There isn't any," admitted Halle, "but, you see, our horses are a life-long team."

Senator Lawson of Brooklyn has introduced at Albany a bill to abolish the free lunch.

"Well, it's effect on drinking will be the same as the old wife's."

"My old wife certainly looks after me good," said an old wag. "She even takes off my shoes for me."

"That's when you come home from Hogan's saloon, I suppose," said another wag.

"No," said the first one, "it's when I want to go there."

"Do you see that cheerful chap over there just lighting a cigar?"

"Well, he's a six-months man, while the sour-looking individual talking to him is a two-year man."

"What do you mean by those terms?"

"One thinks the war will end in six months and the other thinks it will last at least two years longer."

Had Him Guessing. Walter Roberts, the theatrical man, is usually ready with a quick answer to any question that is put to him.

Walter cast a scrutinizing glance at his questioner, but that was all.

"Because, madam, frankly speaking," said Walter, hesitating, "I'm not a good enough judge of human nature to know which way to answer without losing a patron."

Alfred Watts, the young futurist poet, was lunching with his publisher at a Broadway restaurant recently.

"I'll match you for that car, Alfred."

Mr. Watts tossed back his much-photographed golden mane, and remarked, with his characteristic drawl.

"So your uncle has gone to the war, has he?"

"Yes, sir."

"And don't everybody miss him?"

"Why, yes, they have so far. He hasn't been wounded yet."
