Boys Killed Wild Cat.

Paul Stover, in company with two of his companions, all of near Woodward, had an experience while on a fishing expedition a week or so ago that was a thriller. Fishing in Pine Creek hollow the boys' attention was suddenly drawn to the opposite side of the bank where in a clump of bushes crouched a wild cat. Young Stover angered the animal when he directed a stone in his direction but on the third strike knocked all the fight out of it, killing it almost instantly. The animal measured four feet and nine inches in length. He collected six dollars in bounty.

Dixon's Health Talks.

The scratch of a poisoned ring was often sufficient to effectually dispose of an enemy during the Middle Ages. Such procedure is no longer fashionable and many people are careless in neglecting slight wounds not thinking them worthy of consideration.

It is easily possible for any cut or abrasion which is sufficient to draw blood to become infected with possible serious results. Not that one should worry over a cut finger or the like, but there are certain precautions which should be given to even the slightest wounds.

This is because through puncture, scratch or cut some of the many micro-organisms may find entrance and result in infection. As these little trouble makers are found everywhere and are apt to be on almost anything we touch it is obvious that some protection should be given any open wound.

First however, the wound should be cleansed, preferably with water which has been boiled. After this is done some antiseptic should be applied. A two per cent. solution of carbolic acid or tincture of iodine applied around the edge and directly in the cut will satisfactorily disinfect smaller wounds and can be easily obtained. A piece of sterile gauze or linen should then be applied.

The wound should not be hermetically sealed as many of the most dangerous infecting agents are those which only thrive when the air is shut away. Among these is the germ of the dreaded tetanus or lock-jaw. For this reason court plaster should not be used.

It is wise for travelers, campers and vacationists to provide themselves with sterilized bandages before starting on a trip. These are put up in convenient and compact form and are a material aid in caring for wounds. In case sterile bandages are not at hand linen can be sterilized by pressing on both sides with a very hot iron or by dipping in some antiseptic solution.

Deep cuts and wounds of a more serious nature should always be treated by a surgeon.

Prisoners Studying Agriculture.

Forty prisoners in the eastern penitentiary are studying agriculture by correspondence with the Pennsylvania State College. They were enrolled as regular mail students on Saturday. Warden Robert McKenty asked for additional enrollment blanks and said the number of convict students would be greatly increased.

Courses covering virtually the entire field of agriculture have been chosen by the students, who were permitted to select their subjects. While most of them showed particular interest in one or two specialized courses, such as poultry raising and fruit growing, a few sought a wider range of instruction. One applicant who said he was a salesman, 44 years old, asked for all of the thirty-six courses offered.

Professor Mairs, head of the correspondence instruction at the college, plans to extend the work to other state institutions if this experiment proves a success.

Wheat Prospects Improving.

An improvement of 2 per cent over the condition on April 1st is reported in the May 1st summary of the wheat crop prospects by the state bureau of agricultural statistics. The summary for April showed the crop is to be 88 per cent, as compared with an average for ten years. The May summary shows 90 per cent.

The summary says: "The weather during April was favorable and our estimate for May 1 shows an improvement of 2 per cent. This indicates that the yield per acre will be approximately 15 bushels. The crop will probably be governed by weather conditions in May."

"In some sections of the state a small percentage of the wheat was abandoned and the ground seeded with corn and oats. The June report will show the approximate area of wheat plowed down. The yield last year was approximately 18.5 bushels per acre."

The rye conditions are 92 per cent of an average at this season of the year, and estimates for fruits are from 90 to 93 per cent. About 27 per cent of the farmers are spraying orchards.

According to the summary, the area seeded to oats this spring seems to be 2 per cent larger than last year, which means an increase of more than 21,000 acres. The average date of starting sowing was April 12, although in some of the southern counties sowing began April 7. In the northern tier it began about April 19. In some sections of the state reports show that oats were sown the last of March.

Estimates on clover and timothy are 92 per cent, compared with the average at this season.
