Miss Elizabeth Bitner of Tusseyville, Miss Anna Grove and D. Ross Buschman of Centre Hall are teachers who are taking the teacher's summer course at State College.
The Children's Day exercises which have been held in several of the churches have been the best in years, which speaks well for the children and those who had them in charge.
Perry K. Detwiler of Spring Mills was a visitor in town, Tuesday, and dropped the information that the Spring Mills K. G. E. would take part in the parade at the Odd Fellows' celebration on Saturday.
Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Shadle and son Harold of Charleston, West Virginia, are spending a week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Bradford. The trip, a distance of eight hundred miles, was made in an auto.
Mr. Kent, representing the Feldmacher Organ Company, of Erie, was in town Tuesday and took the dimensions of the space in the rear of the pulpit in the Reformed church for the placing of the pipe organ. At a recent congregational meeting it was decided to place an order with this company. The instrument will be ready for installation about the first week in September.
I. A. Sweetwood last week was appointed by State Highway Commissioner Cunningham, superintendent of the stretch of state road from Centre Hall to Madisonburg and with a force of men commenced this week to make the initial preparations for state road construction. All brush along the highway is being removed, and the road cleaned of loose stones, etc. Mr. Sweetwood will prove an able man for the job.
The handsome grey beard that for a score or more years adorned the visage of our friend, B. D. Brislin, was found missing one day this week and at first glance his friends failed to recognize the familiar figure. His seventy-three years appear to have been reduced through the passing away of the beard but the youthful appearance which he gained will hardly compensate for the loss of the dignity which it carried, hence we'll expect to see a full growth before many moons.

CONVERTS REACH 300 MARK.

This, the Last Week in Millheim's Evangelistic Campaign, Promises Great Things.
Millheim is taking big strides in the last lap of the evangelistic campaign. The meeting Tuesday evening of last week had been announced as the night for the booze sermon, but owing to the rain the sermon was postponed till Thursday. The tabernacle was crowded to its full capacity on Thursday evening and a masterful sermon was preached by the evangelist concerning the great enemy of our life and happiness, "Booze." The Christian people unanimously stood as a testimonial that they would put forth all their power to fight this evil. It was a message that could not fail to stir even the most careless and unconcerned about this question. If we are taking money from the "Booze Crowd" for their privilege to run their business in our community, we are selling out our interests in our community's welfare exceedingly cheap. This was one of the points made by the evangelist in his remarks.
Friday night, musical night, was a good night. A large and appreciative audience was present and enjoyed the special numbers given. Souls are being saved every night, and the spirit of the meeting seems to be increasing more and more as the end of the campaign draws near.
Saturday night the tabernacle was crowded again, and sixteen persons gave their heart to Christ. The message of the evening was "Lot's Wife." It appears that there are quite a number of men and women living to-day who are just like her. When called to leave the wicked city of Sodom she did not want to leave her wicked associations, and she did not believe the warning of the angels. Just so it is with many in this present life.
Sunday morning was children's morning. A special sermon was preached calling for surrender early in life and fifteen children came forward. Their names were taken and the Sunday School to which they belong and these churches will be urged to give them special attention and training leading up to Christian living.
The service in the afternoon was for everybody and a splendid spiritual service was the blessing of this hour, for all who came.
The message of the evening dealt with the story of Lazarus and the rich man. It was a message which gripped every heart and compelled all present to do some serious thinking.
Twenty persons surrendered to Christ in this service, and two others did so outside of the regular service on Sunday. So the good work goes on. The total number of converts now reaches very near the three hundred mark.
This, the closing week of the campaign, promises to be the greatest of any. Many persons under conviction will undoubtedly surrender yet, and others who have not yet been reached will come.

The festive parade was a feature that drew a large crowd. Three prizes for the best ones in line were given: Ward Showers, carrying off first; little Jean Farkin Noll and Beatrice Noll second, and Mr. Hackenberry third. E. P. Thompson of Altoona spent a few days with his wife, Mrs. S. W. Smith. Mr. Thompson returned to Altoona with the painful duty of breaking up his home following the death of his wife a few weeks ago. Within the past few months he has experienced much of life's sorrow and only a short time before losing his companion met with an accident, while working for the Pennsylvania Railroad company in the capacity of signalman, that resulted in his foot being crushed when falling under the car, making amputation necessary.
Messrs. P. H. Arney and J. J. Arney returned on Friday from a week's visit to the home of the former's son, A. Miles Arney, at Niagara Falls, New York. On one day of their stay there they decided to cross the border line and glimpse at Canadian scenery. To the guards on the frontier the elderly Arneys with beards aroused suspicion and were subjected to full questioning concerning their relation with the dreaded Germans and after satisfying the guards that they were genuine neutral citizens—plain farmers from Centre county, Pennsylvania—they were permitted to pass on.

The Tribune annually sends out about three thousand boys in this manner. It is Mr. Jones' fifth season in this work and will be his last, not because he does not enjoy the work but rather on account of being taken up with other work after his graduation from the theological seminary at Lancaster next year.

Centre Hall business men who failed to "fall" for a certain smart young fellow who several months ago canvassed this town with the hope of securing their names for a business directory, may congratulate themselves that they kept their cash in their pockets. A perusal of the directory since it came off the press proves that it contains only a small percentage of the business firms in the territory which it endeavored to cover, consequently falls flat in the purpose which it aimed to serve. As a contemporary puts it, "It is as useless as a directory since it came off the press proves that it contains only a small percentage of the business firms in the territory which it endeavored to cover, consequently falls flat in the purpose which it aimed to serve." The publication of the directory was a money making scheme and not for the honest purpose of making an accurate listing of all the business firms, which would have made it a valuable piece of printed matter.
