CORN CLUB PRIZES AWARDED.
Young Farmers Figure in Cash Prizes in Spring Mills Corn Club Contest.—Scheme Awakens Interest and Will be Repeated Next Year.

In the Grange hall at Spring Mills on Monday night was held a meeting for the purpose of awarding the prizes to those who had the best score in the Spring Mills Corn Club. An appropriate program had been prepared for the occasion. The meeting was conducted by S. G. Walker.

The first address of the evening was delivered by C. W. Clemmer of State College, whose subject was Agricultural Club work in the state. He called attention to the development of the club work in the rural districts among the boys and girls. The object of this work is three-fold: first, to interest young people in farm life; second, to produce better farmers and farm women for the future; third, to improve the character and value of the farm products. This work is carried on by corn, poultry, gardening, livestock, and canning clubs. The purpose of using the club method of instruction is that it makes the work thoroughly enjoyable.

John Dale, the next speaker on the program, took as his subject Club Work of the Pomona Grange of Centre County. He traced the history of the corn club movement in this county, stating that there were four clubs organized as follows: Port Matilda, Oak Hall, Pine Hall, and Spring Mills. The membership of the local club was five. Three local prizes and three county prizes will be awarded. Later he announced the prize winners as follows: First prize, John R. Goodhart; second, J. Russell Condo; third, Clarence W. Musser. The prizes were $4, $3, and $2 respectively and were equally donated by the two banks of Millheim, the Farmers' National Bank and the Millheim Banking Company. Two special prizes were awarded to the other two competitors in the form of two sacks of phosphate to one and one to the other.

W. W. Whetstone of the Centre County Rural Y. M. C. A. was the next speaker and in his brief talk he called attention to the aims and purposes of the rural Y. M. C. A.

For the next year T. M. Gramley offered a special prize of $5 to the winner provided that not less than ten members are in the contest in this place. He was later in the session elected local director of the Corn Club. After this part of the meeting was completed Mr. Clemmer gave short talks on corn judging and the testing of seed corn.

Each of the winners of the money prizes was compelled by the ovation which he received to deliver a short talk on how he was able to raise his crop. The award was based on the following schedule: first, yield per acre, 40 per cent; second, show of profit, 30 per cent; third, exhibit of ten ears, 20 per cent; and last, essay, How I Grew my Crop, 10 per cent.

The highest yield was 121 bushels; the cheapest cost was 15 cents per bushel.
