Millinery Opening This Week.

Thursday and Friday of this week are two important days for the women and misses in Penna Valley, for these are the formal opening days of the millinery exhibit at the store of Mrs. Lucy Henney, in this place. Mrs. Henney returned this week from the eastern cities where she made her usual careful selection of hats and bonnets for her spring and summer trade. The styles this spring are unusually pretty and at her store you will find the very best of the chic bonnets such as are being worn by the well dressed in the larger cities. The only difference is the price, and that as usual, will be in your favor.

Do not forget the days—Thursday and Friday, April 6 and 7th. Early buying is most satisfactory because of the larger stock to select from.

Death of Baby.

Grace, the eight weeks old baby of Mr. and Mrs. E. Clayton Wagner, died Wednesday morning at seven o'clock after a short illness. Funeral services will be held at the home Friday morning and burial made in the cemetery of the Bethany Evangelical church at Tussysville.

A Sign of Spring.

The April birds toll long and hard and makes a batch of rhyme. In limpid lay, he lauds the day of glorious blossom time; tells how crows caw and blue-jays jaw upon the mountain height and how the frog within the bog enchants the stary night. He tells the tale of dell and dale and hill and vale as from wild brooks recounding—the wonder tale that one would fall to find in books astounding. In his fancy's necromancies, he communes with sages and the seers of other years of the by-gone ages. He illumes fairy blooms, finding therein pleasure, and the chill of the rill runs in his measure. He tells of stings and sings of wings with occult meanings hinted; and what is worse, he sends his verse to us to have it printed.

On account of the funeral on Tuesday morning of Mrs. W. H. Brown, the hosliery mill closed, as many of the employes wished to pay a last tribute to their departed friend.

A few warm days last week with some rain quickly moved the snow off the hills which gave the highest water in this section for several years, at times nearly overflowing the banks of streams at some places.

The illustrated lecture on foreign mission in one of our churches last week brought out about fifty people and we are still wondering where some of them were who usually make a mad rush to see "The clutching hand."

Christy Mathewson by Walk-Mason. When Christy's dead a hundred years, the fans will still discuss his play, and sigh, while shedding briny tears, 'There are no men like him today!' He used the brains behind his brow, and gave the foe a grievous jar; the chroniclers have told us how he was for years and years a star. Great pitchers came and cut some grass, and died, and then forgotten were; he saw them come, and saw them pass, and still kicked up a mighty stir." The chroniclers will also tell how Christy, when a game was played, filled up the pipe he loved so well, to soothe his nerves, all tired and frayed. He smoked Tuxedo every time, the critic's smoke, the mild and rare, Tuxedo fragrant and sublime, the cool, sweet smoke beyond compare.
