BUSINESS AT THE OLD STAND.

Republicans need have no misgivings about Col. Roosevelt's if you have any doubt on the subject do not nominate me. There is only one condition under which Col. Roosevelt will not accept the Republican nomination for President—the refusal of the Republican National Convention to nominate him.

It makes no difference what the platform is. The Colonel will take the nomination if he can get it. It makes no difference what the record of the Republican Party in Congress is toward the protection of American rights against German aggression. The Colonel will take the nomination if he can get it. It makes no difference whether the Republican Party is officially for peace-at-any-price or war-at-any-price. The Colonel will take the nomination if he can get it. It makes no difference whether the Republican Party is under the domination of Wall Street or Kansas, whether its motto is "America First" or "Deutschland uber Alles." The Colonel will take the nomination if he can get it.

We think he will get it. The favorite sons are all in the scar-heap. Nobody ever took them seriously. Justice Hughes might have had the nomination, probably on the first ballot, if he had resigned from the United States Supreme Court two months ago and formally announced his candidacy. He has waited until it is too late. Roosevelt has already dealt him out of the game.

The Old-Guard Republicans who professed to be for Hughes were never sincere. They did not want Hughes. They hate him and distrust him. He is not the kind of man they can do business with. Some of them may hate Roosevelt too, but they can do business with him, and they know that that business can always be conducted on the standard basis of 50-50. They never had serious trouble with Roosevelt until he tried to resume control of the party in 1912 without first making the necessary arrangements. This time the Colonel has attended to the arrangements two months in advance of the convention. The deal is practically consummated. Nothing remains but to work out the details, and while there will be grumbling and protests from organization Republicans here and there, they will all be shouting for Roosevelt at Chicago, and Wall Street will be underwriting his candidacy as it did in 1904.

The Progressives are going to be sold out, of course, but that is what they are for. A distinguished Southern clergyman wrote a book before the Civil War to prove that the negro was created to be sold into slavery and thereby brought under the spiritual influence of Christianity. That is the status of the Progressive Party in the Roosevelt scheme of things, and in two months the Colonel will be explaining to the brethren who battled for the Lord at Armageddon that their new chains are a special badge of honor, like the Iron Cross, and conferred only upon those who never faltered in the fight.

At present, Roosevelt, for strategic reasons, may pretend to fear that the Republican Party is not worthy of him, but that is a temporary disability. The way for a party to make itself worthy of the Colonel is to nominate him, and the Colonel is attending to that part of it himself.

MILLHEIMERS ORGANIZE TO PROTECT FISH AND GAME.

Determined to Put Stop to Robbing Streams at Front Through Use of Nets.—Prosecution for Those Caught.

The true sportsmen of Millheim have organized an association which they have named the Fish and Game Protective Association. Such an organization has been made necessary in order to protect the interests of true sportsmen, besides preventing the wanton destruction of game fish and animals by a class of game hogs who use the cover of darkness to shield them from the hands of the law.

For many years past the streams about Millheim have been stocked with trout and yet when the fisherman who strictly obeys the law attempts to catch a few of the speckled beauties with rod and line, he finds the fish so scarce that there is very little real sport connected with the game. This is the result of the work of night raiders who have no regard for the law and use nets to thoroughly deplete the streams of the few fish that are placed therein.

The members of the association pledge themselves to protect the fish and game, and so determined are they to abolish these illegal practices that not even a brother will escape prosecution if caught in illegal fishing or hunting.

The officers of the association are R. S. Stover, president; B. M. Stover, secretary; and S. W. Gramley, treasurer. They invite all true sportsmen to join them in this good movement. Also, those who have been engaged in the illegal game are invited to give up their wrong doing and join the ranks of the conservators of our native fish and game.

State Agricultural Notes.

It cost Washington county $9,242.45 for damages to sheep and other animals done by dogs and the return for dog licenses was $7,058.00, showing a loss to the county of over $2,000.00.

Statistics show that of every dollar paid for foodstuffs in this country forty-five cents go to the farmer, fifteen cents to legitimate marketing costs and forty cents to speculative middlemen.

Sixty-two prosecutions have been made by the Dairy and Food Bureau of the Department of Agriculture against dealers for the sale of watered oysters. In most cases fines of $60 and oes have been imposed.

Eleven counties of the State paid out more money for damages for sheep killed and injured and dog license tags than they received under the dog license tax law for boroughs and townships. The counties losing money were: Beaver, Bradford, Cumberland, Franklin, Fulton, Juniata, Northampton, Potter, Tioga, Warren and Washington.

The Farm Advisers of the Department of Agriculture are busy in the field and some idea of their work is seen in the following report of the work done on one farm: Tested soils, suggested place for truck crops on farm, examined alfalfa, showed where to plant millet, made up fertilizer formulas for corn, located where to sow alfalfa in future and where to plant potatoes this spring, and sweet clover for imprisonment of land, located place for planting corn for corn contest.
