

LOCAL

W. A. Murray, of Boalsburg, spent Tuesday with his niece, Mrs. H. F. Bitner.

Charles Sheasley, the Pleasant Gap baker, was in town Tuesday in search of a helper in his bakery and ice cream parlor.

John Wert, of Tusseyville, was a caller at this office on Tuesday and stated that the farmers in his section were busy with the plow, and consequently in a happy mood.

Samuel Poorman, son of S. I. Poorman, of near Rockview, autoed to Centre Hall on Tuesday and favored this office with a call. He reports the farmers in his locality busy plowing and that for the past two weeks, ten teams have been engaged in plowing the penitentiary farms.

The announcement of the death of Martha Jane, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Sandor, on last Friday, was received at this office this week. The baby's age was three months and twenty days, and the death occurred at the parental home in Pittsburgh, North Side. Burial was made on Saturday.

Just a few words more with reference to the notice published by the town council as to parking automobiles. The notice misrepresents facts when it states the action was the result of complaints made by a number of citizens from different parts of the town. The truth is that the complainants were all a part of the body that is responsible for the notice. It is safe to say further that had complaint been made by any one outside the official family, he would have been told to take care of his own interests.

The graduating class of the local high school have changed the date set for the class day exercises from the first day of May to Saturday evening, April 29th. A play will be presented that night in Grange Hall, entitled, "The Masonic Ring, or the Adventures of a College Bride." No admission will be charged but a contribution is expected for defraying expenses. Sunday evening, April 30th, the Baccalaureate sermon will be preached in the Reformed church by Rev. B. R. Jones.

The untrimmed shade trees in front of the Alexander home made it a difficult matter to reach the flames on the roof during the fire Tuesday morning. As a result considerable unnecessary damage was done by water entering the second story windows. Probably no one had ever thought of an untrimmed tree other than only being unsightly, but Tuesday's fire proved that it can be a hindrance to successfully combating flames that are devouring property. How about the shade trees in front of your home—are they properly trimmed?

Centre Hall will again be represented in the baseball world with a team this summer. The playing of the local club for the past few seasons has been only fair, the team coming through with barely an even break on games won and lost. A potent factor in all ball clubs is a manager who can secure the best individual services from every player. This force has been lacking in past years, and realizing the truth of the matter the club this year discarded the custom of selecting a player-manager and placed the job in the hands of Prof. W. O. Heckman, principal of the borough school. Mr. Heckman is a lover of athletic sports and is the type of man for whom all players will have the most respect. Give your support to the local ball club, for no town is on the map until represented by a baseball nine.

HORSE SALE AT CENTRE HALL.

Yoder Brothers to Dispose of Carload of Fine Kansas Animals. Tuesday of Next Week, in Centre Hall.

Penn. Valley farmers will be glad to learn that Yoder Brothers will be on hand again with a superior lot of Kansas horses, on Tuesday, April 25th, at the Centre Hall hotel stables. The load will consist of farm horses and choice drivers. Yoder Brothers have gone to Kansas and made a personal selection of this stock, having a full knowledge of the needs of Centre county farmers, and they are ready to say that this load will be unquestionably the finest they have ever shipped to this section. There will be farm chunks, general purpose animals and fine drivers among the lot.

We invite you to come and look them over and see them sold.

Elmer Hubler, auctioneer.

YODER BROTHERS.

"The Devil in a Dress Suit."

Roy E. Manne, of New Castle, a lecturer of state and national reputation, will deliver one of his famous lectures, "The Devil in a Dress Suit," in the Reformed church in this place, Thursday evening, April 27th. It is a lecture that should appeal to every father and mother, and their children as well. Mr. Manne works in the interest of young manhood and young womanhood and he has done inimitable good wherever he has appeared. He comes under the auspices of one of the strongest organizations for community welfare and as no admission will be charged he should be accorded a big audience.

Everybody is cordially invited.

DEATHS.

Mrs. Aaron Small, an aged lady of Rebersburg, died at the home of her son, Charles Small, in that town, Friday morning after an illness extending over four years. Funeral services were held Monday morning in the Lutheran church in Rebersburg, and burial made there; Rev. J. L. Metzger officiating. Deceased was a member of the Lutheran church for many years. Her husband preceded her six years ago. Three children survive: Charles, Mrs. Jacob Heller, of Rebersburg; and Mrs. Edward Miller, of Millheim. TRADING BITES SPREADS DISEASE

"Please give me a bite." "All right, just one." "Well, don't be a stingy; save me the core." "There isn't going to be a core." This dialogue is rehearsed with variations in practically every schoolhouse almost every day. The habit of trading bites and lunches is well-nigh universal with schoolchildren. It is fraught with danger, however, in a danger.
