Linden Hall Wins From Pleasant Gap.
In a game replete with heavy hitting and ending with a great climax, the Linden Hall baseball team defeated Pleasant Gap on the former's grounds Saturday afternoon. With a score of 9 to 2 against them Linden Hall fell on Detroit who relieved Lose, the "Gap's" mainstay in the box, and in the ninth inning brought the score to a tie, 12-12. The tenth inning proved fruitless for the visitors, but Linden Hall won the game by great hitting. Miller, for Pleasant Gap, essayed to stem defeat by taking the pitcher's burden, but failed. Nedson Keller caught a "groove" ball on the nose and sent it far out in the field. The hit netted a home run and the game.

Lime Briefs.
(Issued by The Pennsylvania State College, School of Agriculture.)
Several points should be kept in mind in applying lime to the land. Some of these points are outlined by an authority at The Pennsylvania State College School of Agriculture and Experiment Station, as follows:
Lime should not be plowed down. It should be evenly distributed over the surface and then harrowed to insure thorough mixing with the soil.
Lime will correct soil acidity and make the soil favorable for the growth of bacteria thus stimulating especially leguminous crops. It may set free some potash but is not likely to prove profitable when used for this purpose alone.
Lime prices and freight rates vary with communities and it is therefore necessary to figure out for any community the most economical form of lime to use.
Equivalent amounts of the different forms of lime give practically the same results; provided, however, that when ground limestone is used it is fine enough to pass a 60-mesh sieve. If practically all will pass a 60-mesh sieve, there will be enough 100-mesh material present for the immediate needs of the soil.
Ground limestone at $2.50 per ton, hydrated lime at $3.37 a ton and burned lime at $4.46 a ton have an equal money value so far as lime content is concerned.
Knowing the prices of different forms of lime, the freight rate and hauling charges, one can readily calculate the cheapest form of lime to buy for his land.

Some people at Pleasant Gap like to swim in the creek while others like to fall in. It's a poor cure for a bad temper.
The Pleasant Gap baseball nine defeated Linden Hall on the Linden Hall grounds on Saturday by a 12 to 11 score. Linden Hall tried to claim credit for the victory by not marking up runs for the home boys, but the latter were wise enough to bring home the score card, which shows a score of 12-11 in favor of Pleasant Gap. The next time the score keeper wishes to spring anything he does not want to forget to make the change on his card—or else keep his card. The umpiring was of the worst kind, the umpire asking the Linden Hall players if they thought they were out or not. Of course, since he was only a boy nothing more could be expected. The Pleasant Gap boys all say they would not play them again under the same circumstances. They have no doubt whatever that they can beat them at any time in a fair game. The Linden Hall manager showed his lack of baseball knowledge throughout the game. In case of further argument the score card, as kept by Linden Hall's own score keeper, can be found in the hands of the Pleasant Gap manager.

An effort is being made in Centre Hall and Millheim to break up the practice of speeding with automobiles. Spring Mills should follow suit. Several accidents have been narrowly avoided and people have been warned often enough. Severe action should be taken.
